The Jewith Criticks themselves are much puzzled about it. Some go the same way that ours do, taking the word, in a notion of fating : all the ground they give for it, is because they finde that phrase, Prov. 15 30. a good Pfal 73.5. 8 93.10. and impairy, or nevals, only, as it procured having fatteth the bouts; but there is no affinity between the term there uffed, and this, either in letters and found, or ufe, effewhere; hearing fatteth the bones; but there is no affinity between the term and they add therefore, that this word bath in that notion no fellow. Yet iome others of them conceive, that they have found a fellow for it: to which purpole, they would draw in a place of Job 36.15, where they suppose the word to be found in the same notion, in those words, as they render them, be fattable offitted in his affliction; but neither is the verb in the fame form there, nor feems it there to carry that lenfe. The most give the words otherwise, as at helt fight, they found, he delivereth the afflicted in his affliction. Others of them produce a faying, out of their rituals, wherein it thould fo fignifie; but of the fence of that faying, they feem to fpeak fomewhat doubtfully. Some fay it is here in a notion of rest : as if it offlitted foul: The Prophet returned here again, to the works of were faid, he will make thy bones refl: contrary to that, there is no refl in my bones, Pfal. 38.3. but of this use, they produce no precedent at all. Others, laftly, render it, he will arm thy bones, or, brengthen thy ing fay they, as the foundation of the bulk of mans body. I should most willingly go with the full, were there any good ground for that use of the word; because it best suites with the metaphors, both pour out the foul: a phrase fometime used (though with another word) before, and after: but that failing, I concur with this laft, as most of prayer, 1 Sam. 1.15, Plal. 42.4. and it may be in to have a two-fold | probable : because it cometh nearest of any to lome, not insultad, notion in it, of drawing out, and of paneing forth: as it is faid, I Sam. the branch of my planting, the work of my hands that I may be glo visited.] There is here a two-fold reading, the one in the text, the other in the margent. The text hath, his planting, which fome retain ing, thus read, and render it ; That the branch of his plant may glo ricin, or, through the work of my hands : and of their, fome, by the branch, here spoken of, understand Christ, chap. 11.1. whom all the faithful being graffed into, Rom. 6.5. & 11. 17, 24. doc, through Gods blefling on them, become a most glorious plantation, th. 61. 3. Others, by it understand the issue and posterity of Oods people, that should glory in Gods doings for them, and benefits conferred on them, Pla1, 44.8. But the most, following that in the margent, my planting, do, tome render the words, as our verfion hath them; fome, with little difference, they are, or fiall be . a branch of my plantings, a work of my hands, wher in I will glory. Others, that the branch of my planting, the work of my hands may be glorified; and fonce would have it to be as a reason rendred why wholly rooted out of it again, Pfal. 44.2. & 80.2.chap.5.2. because he would plant it, and so plant it, that he might glory of it, and in it; which he could not doe, if he should fusier it, to be pluckt up, or rooted out, Mat. 15, 13, & 16,18. The words are thus precisely in the original; A branch of my plantations, a work of my hands to glovin, that is,my people, being (as by appointed point of what went before) a branch of my freial plantation (for thele plurals utually import an eminency, and excellency, in each kind. I So reading the words, the fense should be; that the Church should grow, not in number only, but in strength and flature too: which is true indeed, Zach, 12.4. Eph. 3.16.8 4. 13, 15. But the two members of the fentence here feem rather to be, in substance the same; the word rendred strong, signifying no other then numerous; as Joel 1, 6. See on Chap, 16, 14. And it implyes onely a miraculous multiplication of the Church, chap. 66.7,8. Jer. 31. 27. Some would have the meaning to be, that men but of weak parts, and small gifts, fhall convert many, Act, 11, 20, 21. Bur the former fcemeth the native fense.

I the Lord will hasten it in his time] This is added, that they may not doubt of the doing of it, in regard of the improbability or, as might be deemed, the impossibility of it, chap. 66.8. he will doe it, with whom nothing is hard to be done, Num. 11. 23.

the opening of the prifon There are here, in the original, two terms knit together, with fuch a joynt, as doth generally joyn divers words together: Whence some of our Jewish Criticks would have here two feveral words; and of these, the former to fignific opening, the latter, to fignific, as fome, a prifon ; as others, a prey, as others, taking, oi, taking out; and to to import not a bare opening of the place of restraint onely, but a letting, or setting, look also out of it. But the most of them, because the latter word in neither notion is any where at all found, would make it all but one word, the letters of the latter part of it, being redoubled, as in divers other words to add fome emphalisthereunto: To whom I should agree, did I find in any other word of the like mould, such a div. sion of the syllables one from another, as here, with the like line between. But wanting as yet such an instance, I concur rather with the former, supposing the words to be twain, and the latter to fignific, a prison (though not else where found, as many other in this Prophety to called of taking or receiving, and, retaining, or keeping persons under reftrant. So a learned man, skilled in those languages, informs us, that a word from the same root, with this, is in the Ethiopick tongue, uled for bonds, Mat. 5.25. Mar. 5. 4. and that foretime joyned with the word boufe, Act. 5. 19 fometime simply without it, for a prifer, Mat. 14.10. Again, because a word from the same root, whence this is deemed to come, with a letter fervient onely, and prefixed, is used, for prey, chap. 49. 24,35, and the word, pres, may comprehend as well men, as bealfs, fuch own time it as they used to amoint their heads, and faces with, Num, 21,11, where it is used of both; some therefore would here to make them look more cheerfully, & with the fragrancy threefore. fo expound it ; to open the prey, that is, to fet the captive at liberty : to refresh their spirits, in their settivals, or when they defired to the same that was before nutitioned: as the captive is said to be opened, or, loofed, chap. $1.14. Whereunto may be added, that the word here used, with a very small change, and that not unusual, doth in the Chaldee fignific, a leaft or thong, of leather; and with fath, captives and flaves were wont to be bound. See chap, 8,6. The former word, that hath in it a notion of opening, is most frequently used of opening the eyesto see; as chap.35. 5. 8 27.16, once only of the cass. chap. 42.20, which the ancient Greek, one conjugate cases that the confirmed meanter freek, it feems, taking notice of, renderth the words here, fight, or, fring a aim, or, looking up to the blind; Whence fome imagine, that inch as I we in darke dungeons, as being in the fame congine, that the art of marke congectors as come in the name con-dition with blinde once, having no more use of lighter fighters once, then the other, might therefore, by them he fo flyded: Though others conceive, that fome parallel places being no-ted, by some in the margent, as this from Chap, 43, 7, 10 ppm the blinde eyes, to tring the prifoners out of prifon ; and another , from than 5 8. 6 did after, in tome transcripts creep into the text; they are both exhibited in the Greek, by the Evangelift, Luk. 4. 8.

Others therefore applies that the word crons may lightlie any rich, or coffly jewel, in general, as rings, bracelets, and the like. Whe cot rings may the rather be fortimed; because the word that this cometh of, fignifieth to conwiron, or encompaft, Plalm 5.12. & 103.4.1 Sam. 23. 26, and the ring, as an horp, encompatieth the finger round about : and here again is drawn in that of engraving, vert. 2,25 wel luiting with this have them alwayes in their eye. a royal diadam | Or, as a royal cown; the note of findicude fupplied, as before, Heb. crown of Kingdome, or, a Kingdome, as Eff. 6. 8, the word, a diadam would better fit the former term; both fignific a crown; but with fome difference, in regard of the native notion of either: for the tormer cometh (as hath been thewed) from a word that fignifies, to environ, or encompass; and to takes in crowns, or wreaths, of all forts : fo termed , because they do all encircle the head : and thence also bath the diadem its name in Greek; because it was bound about the head, and was iometime no other, then a fillet: as appears by the flory of Mithridates his queen, who there with endeavoured to strangle her felf: but this later word hath its rifing from a root that fignifies, not to encircle, but to empray. See cap. 22. 18. and doth therefore properly denote fuch an one, as we call a close crown; wherewith the head is not environed, and encircles only, but enwrapped, and again schawa mutat or together motion; because the manust action; because the manust was to carry about them, the names a conformal problems of their medial methods, engraven on their rings, to former word included; the former whereof, is but as a wortab; this as a wrapper. Now because these enwrapping tires, I mean folemn, and honorable ones, were of two forts, the Priestly one, rendred a miter, Zach. 3. 5. and the Princely one, rendred a diadem, as here, fo Job 29. 14. though not fo fully, as hath been Dedication, mentioned john 10, 22, will not prove it. V. 5. For as a young men marrieth a virgin; fo shall thy lons man ry ther.] Or, when (as Plal. 75.2.) as (the note of fimilitude supplyed; as chap. 47.3.8) a young man murrieth a virgin; to (Supplyed Pio.26.11.) thy four fhall have married thee; carrying on the difsourfe in a continued context, from the beginning of the Chapter, unto the end of this verle.

as a young man marrieth a virgin;] He doth not lay, as one of the Jewith Doftors well observeth, as when an old man marrieth a young maid, nor, as when a young man marrieth a widow, whose prime, & flower, another hath, before him, enjoyed; but as when a young man, yea, a choice one, (for fo the word here used properly fignifies: See Ch. 40.30.) marrieth a virgin; implying such an exact correspondency of condition on either fide, as at ghe give full contenument, and mutual delight, unto either: a fire comblane, whereby to decypher the most comfortable and flou imang a ndition of a Kingdom, or State, to unanimously compacted, and counited together, that all parts and parties, in it, have abondance of 4. 32-34. for they feem to thost flort, that would have it, an intimation onely of peaceable times; for that in times of peace, young men have opportunity of contracting marriage, & enjoying their matches, while they stay at home; whereas in times of ho-fility, they are lent out to war.

[o hall thy fors marry thee: Concerning this clause, there is much debate among Interpreters; and there feems to be in it fome difficulty: For how the children of Sion flould be faid to marry her, their mother, may fome doubt well be moved. This difficulty will be utterly taken away, if we admit either the ancient Greek, or the old Larine versions, which tender the text, Ayoung man dwellah with a virgin; and thy foas shall dwel with thee; that is, say they that receive and retain this reading, Thy people shall dwell togethat receive and retain this reading, I hy people that I awell together within thy walls, as lovingly, and contentedly, as fuch a couple are wont to live together. And fo the question might foon be a mend, if the Hebrew term here used, and in our Version rightly exptelled, did not necessarily enforce to some further consideration, Some, therefore, by Sions children, here, understand such of them, Some interester, by Stoat contaces, nere, understand such of them, as were Teachers, and Pastors, which God promifeth to raise up from among them, and to turnish his people with, Chap. 60, 19, 21. Jer. 3, 14,15, said here to marry her, yet not to themselves, but unto God and Chrift, of whom, in the acet branch, as makers of the match, between him and her. So Paul of himfelt, 2 Cor. 11.2. But I find not where this word of marrying, in Hebrew, is used, for the making up of a match between two parties; though we fould the word, fometime in our language: but for to take a wife to ones felf, and to own, and posses her, as his wife, as the word originally importeth. Others by her fons, conceive to be meant her Rulers, Governours, and the meaning to be, that the thould no long er continue in subjection to strangers: but should have Rulers an Governours of her own Natives, Jer. 30.21. as God had, at fi it appointed that it should be, Deut. 17.15. For the King, or Ruler ems to be as an husband to the State, & the flate as a witero bim: And the is therefore faid to be as a widow, when the is deprived o her King, her Head, chap. 47. 8,9. Lam.t.t. Others, again, by her Sons, would have meant her people in general, who bring o the fame faith and religion, with her, should be joyned first, as in a conjugat bond unto her, that is, unto the Church, and being to united unto her, thould then, together with her, be joyned in marriage unto Chrift. And true it is, that Gods Church, and his Peo. ple, in such tropical speeches, doe many times admit notions of divers relations, upon divers confiderations, which being taken in propriety of theuch, would be inconfident one with another. So the new Jerufalem, is faid to be the Lum's bride, Rev. 21.2,9. and they are pronounced bleffed, that are as guests invited unto their wedding Jeafl, Rev. 19.9. Now, though in propriety of ipeech, and the truth of the thing in caken, the beide, and the gueffs, cannot be one, and the fame : yet certain it is, that this new Jerulalem can be no other then the Church; nor the guefts at this teaft, any other then the faithful, of whom this felf-fame Church confift eth, called the Saints, Rev. 19.5. Again, here children are faid to marry her; whom yet the is faid to put on as her wedding apparel, or ornaments, elfe-where, chap. 49.18. Howbert, because the accommodation hererof to the prefent palling, feems no; to come off fo finoothly; there are forms other ways of folying this doubt, and extant, rendreth it, God first marry hanfelf unto the four: Bur befides that, the verb is plural, which unless we will refer to 1.70. bim, which is a plural form, and hath femetime both ve.bs. and noms, when is a piona form, and man canceline near velocity and noms, plant, joyned with it; as Gen. 20. 13, John. 24-19, and in this very argument, chap, 54. 6, will not thit well here, and it may be mover far to fetch it in hither, from very 3, this Verlion leaves out the word, there alived to the verb of marging; which may not be omitted. One therefore, of good note tendreth it; as a young man joyneth in mirriage unco him a wingin : lo will be (to wit, the Lord) joyana marriage to himselt thee, and thy fons; but he rendreth no realon of this reddition : And befides the infertion of the copulative, which jet is frequently o-mitted, (though whether in the conjenction of a pronoun affixed with a noun loofe may be doubted) the number of the verb gives a further just ground of demur. Others, lastly, of prime reckoning, render it on this wile; As, when a young man taketh a virgin, when thy forstake thee means; not meaning that they take wives for her, but for them'elves : So the word thee, the uld be but an expletive elegantly uted; as in thole forms, got thee, Gen 12.

1. compared with Act. 7-3. (it ye, Gen. 22.5. depart thee, 2 Sam. 2. 22 the like whereunto, is in other languages also very rice, and the reddition of the fimilitude thould be all in the latter part of the verle. But this feems fomewhat in the allo, as well as the former. Nor doth that ran any more functivity, which another hath, and I comprile under this, because it fwereith not much from it, who would not have any fimilitude here implied, but a collation rather of things forerold, to wit, that there shall be again marying of young men, and maidens with them, and keeping of nuprial reflevals, with joy and mirth, an argument, of times of peace and t anquitty: for in times of trouble and diffrefs, fuch things mutual contentment, one in another, Plal. 12.13. Act 3.40-47. 80 ceale, and to did with them, for tome time, Jer. 7.34.8 16.9.8 25. 10 8: 33.11.but that the joy and delight shall be tar greater, then any joy of that kind, either among them, or elfe-where, that God and his Church, thall mutually enjoy either in other. And this sense to bear, the words must be tendred, A young man shall wed a virgin; but thy fons, much more delightfully finil wed with thee; that is, in thy land; and the bridegroom final have much joy of his bride; but God (ball rejoyce much more over thee; and, for much more, faith he, as Prov. 6, 16,17.8 30.19,31. but nor are those places fo pregnant for it; nor is and, here, in the text, where he would have it, though it be in the vulgar Latine. In this great variety I mall make bold to deliver mine own conjecture, with the grounds of it, and to leave it to the learned. An hint whereof, I have from it, and to leave it to the learned. An hint whereof, I have from one of the lewil Doctors, who taking his rife from the Chaldee before-mentioned. Isain the meaning, 1s, that her people floud of the leave that is, their land, and not be dippoletical of it again, and one to the constructive they had been: and that feems formewhat indeed of its gain, but not all. The web Basil, therefore doth, in the fifth place figuritie, to polify or the polifying (as we use to topical) of cought, in general, as the construction of the co Lord, or owner of it, 1 Chon. 4.22. after that, more specially, so to take, and be possessed of a wite, Mal. 2.11. Judah hath married, or, holdeth in marriage the daughter of a fleange god. And indeed, this latter is the more peculiar notion of the word. So Deut. 24. 1. when a man hath taken a woman (to wir, fo wife, aschap, 21.
11.) and is possessed bee, that is, doth keep, or hold her, converse, & live with her, as a wife : so rather then married her, for that was mentioned; implied, at leaft, in the taking of her before. Hence the noun baal, fignifieth first, in a large extent, a Lord, Mafler, or, Owner of ought in general. See on Chap. 41.15. So the fler, or, Owner of ought in general. See on Chap, 1.115. So the owner of the boule, Exod. 21. 2. and the owner of the pit. Exod. 21. 34.more specially, an husband, as Lord, Gen. 18. 12. or, suntry of his wife Exad 21.3, 12 and the participle active, boel, a man poffessing, or possess, a wife, being an husband, ch. 54.5 and the passive bullah, a woman possess by an husband, a wife. So it is fully exprelled, Deut. 22.2.2. a woman held, or possified, to wit, of or by a man, as a wite by an husband. This laid as a ground, I conceive the word, rendred marry, to be here used in a sylleptical, or metaleptical notion; call it wether ye please; and it may be, the former way in the one branch; the latter, in the other : and that the text without much firaining, may be thus read; when, as a young man, that flul bave married, or, is in marriage poffeffed of a virgin: So, the four shall, as in marriage, possess, etc., or, keep with thee, that is shall possess thee, hold, and enjoy thee, as surely as if they were joyned in marriage unto thee; or, they shall keep, and dwell, and live, together with thee (for that is the confequent of marrying) in as cheerful, and comfortable manner, with as much contentment and delight, as a young man is wont to keep, and he with fome young beautiful damfel, whom he hath taken unco wife. There is belides the supplies in the received reading, no more then that of the relative, to life, as nothing more. See Chap. 63.8.8. 61. y. ver. 1. nor is ought here wrong from the text; but what, being airly dealt with, it freely affordeth. and as the bridegroom rej weeth over the bride; fo fball thy God re-

V. 6. I have fet watchmen upon thy walls, O Jerufalem] That thefe are the words of God himlelt, that is, delivered as spoken in his person, is generally agreed. But some read them, as our Ver-sion rendicts them in the time past, or present, as spoken of some that God had already fet apart, and defigned unto the other here mentioned, that which fome of them conceive to have reference to Gods former speech, as they take it, verl. Others suppole it to be an answer, much to the same purpose, with the Prophets foregoing speech, carried on from the first verse hitherto. Others read them, in the time to come, I will fet Watchmen upon thy avalls: and these expound them, of the course that God would take for the fareguard of the Church, after the reflication of it, for the continuance of its quiet, and flourithing conditin, against all perils, or evils, whereby they might be either openly affaulted by day, or secretly surprized by night, chap. 1.6.8.

Te that make mention of the Lord, I Whom the Prophet here die receeth his speech unto, (for I cannot accord with those, who make them the watchmens words, and infert the word faring) is not agreed upon, among interpreters. V. 10. Go therow, go therow the gater The Prophet, as in spiritual raptures is usual, doth oft wind and turn, in his difcourse, from one matter to another, from one party to another, though all concerning the main are ument principally intended, the re-Ritution of Gods people. In regard whereof, the context of his freech, both here, and elle-where, is very abrupt, and by rea-fon thereof, fometime allo, tomewhat obfeure. He had before an troduced the Lord, promiting to turnish his people with a con-flant supply of faithfull watchmen, for their better security, vers. 6. he had then called upon those, whom that office belonged unto, for the diligent performance of some duties, for the furtherance of their weal, verf. 7, he had then brought in again God by a folemn oath, afturing them of a constant course of tranquillity, verif. 8, 9. he now directeth his speech to the people themselves; and from them inflantly diverteth it, again, to others, that were to be helpfull, and utchill, in their return from captivity, verif. 10. then returneth again to God, and a proclamation in his name Go thorow, so thorow the gates] Heb. pafe, pafe by, or, thorow the gales; fo is the particle taken, Jer. 7, 2, 8, 17, 20, now because this admitteth a divers confluencien; for it may be understood as well of coming in, as of going out. Hence arifeth much variety in the interpretation of the place; for some suppose it to be an intimation of the great multitudes of those, that, upon return from captivity, should come thronging into the Citie, chap. 60.11. or an invitation of people to, come flocking into the Church, whereof the Citie was a type, chap 26, 2. Others, an adhortawhereof the Citic was a type; that Is 2. Others, an adminis-tion unto thole, that being teturned, were now feated in the citic, to repair to the Temple, there to perform holy duties, in way of thankfulness to God; as Pfal. 118.19, 20, vers. 9. And whereas the words next enfuing, of fitting the way for them, may feem to imply, that the place is not meant of persons, now returned, and mply, that the place is not meaned period, and their journeyes end; but of perfons preparing for, and about to travel: This to falve, fome would have it understood of those already there seated and settled; as called upon to go forth at the gates to meet, and make way for others that were coming, and on the way toward them; which they apply unto the faithfull Jewes, at first, called to Christ, as encited to prepare for, any other; whom they should go out to meet : though it is not denied, that their return was typical; and a type refembling the delivery of people from the thraidom of fin, and satan, and the conversion of them, unto Christ, Acts 26.18. Those therefore that conceive this passage to concern those that were now upon return, understand them ; Some, as directed to the persons themselves, as calling upon them, to patie by the gates, and come forth out of Ba-Canning upon them, to pane by the gates, and control of the bylon, or other cities, where they made their abode, having by Cyrus his Proclamation, liberty now to to do, alluded unto, yent, the and fo it is in effect the fame with those places, chap. 48.20. & 52-II. where they are in like manner called upon, fo to do : and this I take to be the genuine fense of the place; though if any shall suppole, that in these words, other people are called upon, to go out of their gates, that is, out of their feveral cities, or places of abode, (as Deut. 12. 17. & 14.37.) to help to make the wayes hit for Gods people to paß by, 1 finuld rather thereunto incline; then to that which fome other, as well of the Jewith, as of ours, have, that it should be a command given to officers, to puß unto the gates, that is, Com rate to rate, as Exod. 32. 27. or from city to city, to proclaim the liberty for return granted to Gods people, Ezra 1.1. or, to that of our ancientest English, that rendreth it, Depart, 20 afunder, ye that fland in the gate; as if it were a command given to people, to quit, and clear the gates, for the freer paliage of Gods people. Howfoever it be taken, the word is doubled, to add the more empha-fis to it : as the like is, in the words enfuing. prepare ye the way of the people Or, prepare way for the people, Make the people way; or, prepare and he the way, for Gods people to pals, See chap. 41. 3. & $7.14.

V.3. I have traden the wine-prefs alone ?] Gods answer to the Prophets fecond demand, ver. 1, and that conceived in a metaphorical form, correspondent to the finisheade, made use of in the question. As it he had said, Thou tayest that I am arrayed like one that had been employed about the treading of grapes in fome wine-prefs; and it is true indeed, that I come from such a like imployment: I have been treading in a wine press, but another manner of wine-press, then that wherein grapes are wont to be troden. And here again some conceive Bozrah to be alluded unto: For, because, fay they, the country about Bozrah was, much of it planted with vines ; it is as much in effect, as if he flould fay, I come from anovines 3 it is as much in effect, as if he fhould fay, I come from another manner of vintage, and treading of grapes for the making of wire, then that, as, or about Bozah, ufeit to be. I finde not the land of Edom, for bearing of vintes, or yielding of much wine, any where commended in Scripute. This we find, that when through the wrath of God, people endure heavy preferres, effect ally unto the utter undoing, and deftroying of them, they are in Scripute phrafe compared unto grapes, that are fique-read, and critical under much refer in the vine-prefs, and are faid to they are in Scripture prizae compared unto grapes, unitable system zed, and crushed under mens feet in the wine-press, and are faid to be troden in the wine-press of Gods wrath. See ver. 1. chap 44.24. Hence divers interpreters are innumers, See ver.1. cnap 44.24. Hence divers interpreters are induced to expound this whole diffeourie wholly of the work of mens redemption, by Christ wrought upon the cross, by the effusion of his blood : the rather, for that there he is faid to have poiled principalities and powers, and to have led them openly in trumph, Col.2.15. In which action of his, most certain it is that he had no creature his coadjutor. But others, even of the best note and rank, do herein diffent from them, conceiving the current of the context to run rather another way, as respecting rather, in a spiritual sense, Christs designs, as a powerfull Prince and a valiant Warriour, in the behalf of his people, by executing venvaliant Warriour, in the ocitan or its people, by executing vert-geance upon his and their enemies, then the performances of his priedhood. Against which if it be objected; that in the de-stroying and subduing of such, God ordinarily makes tife of nien : and it cannot befaid therefore, that therein he is alone, and | my garments, and I flained all myvainnent: For it is a part of the none with him. To this some answer, that the meaning is not, that none assisted him; but that there were none able to maintain that none altitled him; but that there were none able to maintain fight with him. Chap. 2.7.5. And the latter branch of this pallage may well admit that fend. Of the people; that is, of the Edomites, from the flaughter of whom I come, there was none with me; that is, none that durft, or was able to fland it out with me. For fo is the like phrase used, Pial. 55.18. where when David sauh, There the like phraic titled, Flat. $5.10. White when David hans, Policy with many with me; he meaneth not many fighting for me; but warring with me, that is, against me. And the words following, both in this verte and the next, will well agree hereunto; yea, the next branch indeed feems to exact it : for there is nothing to refor the pronoun demonstrative thereunto, in these words, I tred them, but the word, people, in this, And this may from to be therefore the genuine fense of the words. But this answer, though it may clear the fense of that pallage, and so may take off the edge of the argument, so far forth as it is thence drawn; yet it meeteth not with the word alone, nor with that which cometh after ver. g. Others, therefore answer, that God indeed useth men as ver. 5. Other's, trectroit among states infruments, as well bad as good, for the effecting of such things; but so, as that, so speak precisely, they afford no assistance, they add no strength to him: Yea, they receive from him whatsoever and no trength to him: rea, uncreceive from thin windover frength they have, Chap.45, 15. where is he, that put his holy Spirit within him ?] Heb. his Spi rit of holinifs (as ver. 10.) in the midst of him; that is, within him. or in him; as Zach, 12.1. with 1 Cor. 2.11. lo the most, both of the Jewith, and ours. But the Jewith restrain it, to the Spirit of Prophecie. Ours extend it, to that spiritual endowment, wherewith Moles was, in a very large measure, surnished, and thereby enabled, both for the inftructing and government also of Gods people. See Num. 11.17, Deut 18.15, but other, of either ranks, render it, in the midil of him, or of them, (because the word people, to which they suppose it referred, is a collective) that is, among them; as the Caniantes dwelt amongst the Ephraimites, Jofh. 16.10. and fo Nch. 9 20, thou gavefi them (to be supplied from the words foregoing 20, then gave then (to be supplied from the words foregoing) the good Spirit to mitruet them; for it was given to them, and placed among them; because bestowed upon those with them, and over them, in their behalf, and for their behoof, 1 Cor. 3.12,23 Seechap. 59.21. and this is that Spirit, which they vexed by rebel lious courses, i Thef. 4.8. ver. 10.

by the right hand of Moses] Heb. at the right hand of Moses. So the old Latine renereth it; and most Interpreters, both Jewish and Christian: In which form of speech, because the right-hand is used commonly, in a successfull and wel-boding notion, and the left, in the contrary, Mat. 25.30,34,41. Some would have noted fure and fafe pallage, and journeying of the people under Mofeshis conduct : But that feems over-curious; and the term of right-hand feems to have, after the phrase most frequent in Scripure, not fo much a notion of prosperous success, (which among heathen people it usually hath, Ezek 21.21,22.) as of power and ability, the right-hand being generally accounted the stronger, and annny, me rigin man being generary accounted the monger, and the more active then the left. So Pla.1.1.9. & 89.1.6.43. Others therefore read it, that lead them, being at Mofes his right hand, to help and affith him. So the Plalmith, Plal.1.6.8, he is at my right-tool that Them. hand, that I be not moved; and, the Lord at thy right hand (hall strike thorow Kings, Pfal, 110.5. and the Jewith Doctors, some of them, suppose, that there is an eye had in this term, to the staff, that Mo. les held in his right hand, over the red-sca, at the dividing of it, Exod. 14.16,21. Plal. 77.16. & 89.11. & 136.12. And this tome suppose the rather added, in regard that the former word feemed to have some glance at the Baff in Moles his hand, to thew that the dividing of the red fea,upon holding up of the staff over it, was not effected by any vertue, either in his hand, or in the flatf it held; but by the powerful act of God alone. See Exod, 15.21. Howbeit, fome, for that according to this reading, there are defects in the text; the one, of the pro noun before-mentioned; the other, of the preposition here interted, suppose that the text, as it is, without any such supplies interjected, may be thus read and rendred ; That made his glaciens , or gallant arm, to go, or walk at Mofes his right hand ; that is who by his mighty power went along with Moles, and was ever at hand to be affiltant unto him, according to his promife, Exod. 3.12. & 33.14. Nor is this reading altogether improbable: the most that I suppose can be objected against it, is, that the word of making to walk, or go, may feem not to fair fo well with the word or maning to work, or in the next verte applied to the people.

But here it is referred unto the horfe; he led them thorow the despet of that fea, as fafely and inoffenfively, as a man could lead an horse, or as an horse goeth in the wildernes; that is, (faith one of the Rabbines, whom some other also herem concur with) on dry land : the milder nefs, for dry land ; because Wafts, in those parts, are commonly fuch, chap 4.1.18. V.14. As a beaft gotth down into the valley, In the former part of this verfe, most interpreters conceive to be a full, and formal on this veries more interpreters conceive to occasion, and a reddition, more largely laying forth, what was more concided belivered, v. 13 in those words, as an horfe: the former part whereof. they suppose to be contained in these words; which some therefore thus read, 48 a beast, that goeth down into the vale is led; (supplying the relative, as ver. 8. the verb from the words next enluing; as Chap. 18.7. & 30.17) that is, gently, and quictly, as an horse is wont to be led, or beaft driven, down an hill, not head-long, as those swine, whom the Devils drove, Mat. 8.32 fo rather, if we retain this version, then, as some would have it easily; for this reason, because it is caster going down, then it is going up, an hill: and some would have an cycherein to be had, to the condition of the Jews own country, which being mountainous, much of it, Pfal. 125.2. Luk. 1.39. their manner was to drive their cattel down to graze in the vale. Others would have it to allude to the'r descent into the channel of the redfea, from the land, or the thore, that must o' necessity, ly far above it; as before to their afcent, or, coming up again, from the fame, on the other fide, in the word, made to afcend, ver. 11. But f suppose the word rendred, goth down, doth here lignific no more then as it also doth oft elsewhere, to go on, or to en along : hereof, fee instances enow. ch. 38.8. and so the Chaldee, whom some of the Jewith Commenters follow, feemeth here to take it : the words therefore, as I conceive, may be thus tendred: As a beaft gotth along in the vale; or, As a beaft that goeth along in the vale; that is, freely, cafily, without any let, or impediment, as a beaft, whether horse, or other, (for the former resemblance is here enlarged) travelleth in the vale, where the way is usually clear before it: and thus taking them, that which a learned Writer fuggefleth, to me feemeth very probable, who annexing this, unto that in the verse before going, thus readeth them rogether; That led them thorow the deeps, as an horte in the plain, without slumbling; as a beaff going down, or, going along in the vale : fo confidered, they make up the former illustration; do not begin the Spirit of the Lord caufed him to refl 1. How thele words come in here, is by many much questioned. Some would have them, to be in cetted, as a parenthelis, between the propolition, or the for-mer part, and the reddition, or latter part of that fimilitude, which they suppose to be in this verse; because, fo, the note of reddition, comes after it and that for this cause inserted, to prevent, and meet with, a doubt, that might arife in fome mens minds, how it were possible that such miraculous matters should be brought about which to remove, it is by the way cast in, that it was the Spirit of God, that did a: I this, unto whom nothing is either impossible, or difficuit, Job 42. 2, Pfal. 115. 3. & 135. 6. Jer. 32. 27. Others, among whom, one of the Jewith Commenters, would draw this paffage within the larger part of the fimilitude, supposing a trajection in the words, which thould thus be disposed, fo thou leadest thy people, and the prin a the Lard made them to relf, But this feemeth to make over-bold hish context. And no leffe wide feems that to freey from the text, which a reverend Writer of ours both on it, who knitting the? words to the former part of it, thus rendreth the contest: As beatt, which the Spirit of God leadeth, gotth in the walley; to we, gracify and in fafety. For howfoever it be true, that Geds provi sence and protection, reacheth even unto beatts, Pial, 26. 6. und that God, for man, taketh charge of them, and care for these, Gen. 8, 1. Num. 20, 8. Yet is there no such thing intended, by the Prophet, in this place. Nor feemeth that lo fuitable which a late learned Annotator suggesteth, who thus rendreth the words, As a beaff goeth down into the valley, and the wind of God giveth him reft; fo didft thou lead thy people; that is, as the delcent of a beaft down a fleep hill, especially travelling with a bur-den on his back, is troublesome and toilsome; but the wind, when he is the ewith wearied, giveth him feme reft and refrething; fo lead: It thou thy people a toilionic journey through the Wilder-nelle, to bring them to reft in the land of Canaan? And whereas the affix bim is malculine, whereas the word beaff is feminine; that he feeketh to falve, by reterring it to the word horfe here intended, v. 13, the like whereunto fome suppose to be, Gen.4. 7. & 13, 10. 1 Sam. 15. 9. But the refemblance feemeth not to come so handfomely off; and howfoever fome of the Ancients have to expounded, The Spirit of God, that is, the wind of God, Gen. 1.2. alledging to that purpole that, Pfal, 147. 18, He maketh his wind blow; yet the verifon frequenth harth, and in neither place convenient, More initefting his power and providence, in the delivering of them now; probable to me feemeth the conceit of that learned Writer before. Though in an humble and modelf manner, they do not, as yet, exmentioned, who supposing no such formal similitude, consisting of proposition, and reddition, to be contained in this verse; but the former branch to dependupon the verfe before-going, doth make thefe we is an entire axiom, neither having any field hectal relation to children by the graph of the first time to children being any field infertion between either of these recognitions to children being any field infertion between either of these recognitions and the first time to children being any field in the children being any field in the field of the field o of them; but an adjection only to what went before, concerning Gods fetling his people quietly in the land of promile, Of which,

The reaction of the main ambiguity, sigor that the work of reliting, and leading, are both for letters and found of very near string the one with the other; and words of fach neighbournelle, do of muinflances might be thewed: The analogy of the form, here uled pleadeth for the former; the tenour of the context feems in the pleaders for the former, it was the content of the terms in the judgment of many learned, to speak for the latter. I conceive it may include a double notion, as some other, taking part from two divers roots, are deemed to do. I will point only at one of them: it is but one word that is rendied, Zach, 10. 6. I will bring them at is but one word that is rendered, 20th, 10.0. I want of ing them again to place them; and in like manner, I improve that this may here be rendred, The Spirit of the Lord leading him, or them, (to wit, his people) caused them to rest, that is, to led them, that they travelled quietly, and had places of reft, by the way : to which purpole it is faid, Num. 10. 33. that the Ark went before them (the vifible fign of Gods special presence among them) to fearth out rest (that is, a ressing place) for them. Not do I missike what some of the Jewish Writers here have, to wit, that the Prophet having before spoken of their passage thorow the Sea, ver. 13. and having done with that, doth here come to speak or Cods conduct of them, after they came out of the Sea, all the way thorow the wildernelle. untill they came unto Canaan: to which purpose the learned in-terpreter before alledged, carrying on the rest here intended, to their rest in that land; whereof see Deut. 13.9. Pla1.95. 11. Chap. 14. 3, rendreth the words, The Spirit of the Lord brought them to reft; as if it were faid, The Spirit of the Lord led them, (that is, nevet left leading of them) untill be brought them umo reft ; and this exposiis a constant of the state of t of interrogation, as all the former along are; The Spirit of the Lord that brought them to reft ? to wit, Il bere is he? as before, ver, t t, the flop in the original favoureth it; nor doth the defect of the relative, in the text, at all hinder it, being a matter for ife, as be-fore, yer, 8. the founding of thy bowels | Some would have it to be, the flutting of thy paps, or breaks; as if it were a metaphor taken from women that give fuck, whole paps, or breaks, when they are full of milk, pain them, and they cannor be at reft, until they have milked it out, and to given themselves some cate: but the mention of bowels, whose place, the belly is, not the brea? admitte h not this trope. Some render is, the multitude of thy bowels: and the word here used doth formetime fignific a multitude. See Chap 13 2. 6. 17. 12. & 33. 3. and the word bowels, in Greek, is used for a tendernelle of affection, arising from pity and consideration, lak 1.78. Phil. 1.8. & 2. 1. Col. 3, 12. 1 Joh. 3, 17, and to the meaning should be, multitude of tender compassions; and of multitude of mercies, and tender muste que temper companyant a un entiritate que mercete, and tender worker, is found mention in Seripture, Pilal, y. 1, & 6, j. 6, lecal fo, ver. 7. But neither doth the work, here uled, when it is taken for a multitude, fignific any multitude in general; but a multitude of men, or position, gathered together; fo called, not in regard of men, or position; gathered together; for called, not in regard of their number to much, as of the noile that they are wont to make : Nor is the Hebrew term of howels, or entrails, here found, any where simply so used, as the Greek is, with whom, the word also deduced from it , hath a notion of compassion, and comiferation in it, Mat. 9.36 Mar. 1, 41 Luk. 7.13, whereas, in Hebrew, from the word that fo fignifics, there is none fuch. The word therefore is here to be taken, in reference to its first and native fignification, wherein it fignifieth a noife, Amos 5. 23. which hereby appears in that the verb of founding, or making a noife, from whence the word cometh, is in this notion commonly joyned with the word bowels, Cant. 5. 4. Chap. 16.11. in which forms of speech, there is a metaphor taken from those rumblings in the bowels, that fudden and firong pastions this nation is the source; that made and trong patients of this nature do forteitine produce; and it may well be here tendered, prainings; as the fike is, it king, 3: 16, where it is faid of the mother of the child, which the King bad hould be divided; her bourle praid upon her four; though the words there be divers, but in the fame notion with thefe, I ris a refemblance taken from humane fraity, to be mans thallow capacity, attributed to God, as here, fo Jer. 31. 20. I will point at fome few of the principal only; the old Latine giveth it us in the enunciative, they contain, or, refirain, themfelues upon me, or, town a dme; that which a learned late Writer con troling, would rather have it read, they do with violence (like a tor time, break forth, and run down with more violence, when the floud-gates are fet open : but this is directly contrary to the main drift of the whole pallage; and the Geneva version therefore coming neerey home to the Latine, they are refirained from me: wherewith those also do, in tense and substance, concur, who read them interrogatively apart by themselves; and render them, as doth the necting activity a part by elementerers; and remore them, as onto the jumping and received the analysis of the state of the part of the pa

But these do not so fully, and exactly express the notion of the word here used: the word is in a recip; ocal torm, and fignifics roperly, to contain, or, in a manner, to enjurce ones felf, that is, by orce, to reflra n, and keep in, from expering, and manifesting it felf, fome inward affection, that is hard to conceal, and would be breaking out. So of Joleph it is faid, when his bowels yeared upon is Brother Benjamin, he made halte to withdraw, and having wept while in private, (for he could not wholly to bear) he washed his a write in private, for the condition whosey content in waited his face, and coming out again, he replained or, referented, bindfelf, Gen. 43, 30, 31, and again, Gen. 45, 1. Joseph could no longer replain bindfelf, it is applyed unto God, Chan, 42, 14. & 64, 12. I concur therefore with those, that adjoyn these words to the latter part of the interrogative, reading them, either with a learned late Writer, Where is the yerning of thme entrails, and thy bowels, (to I conceive it to be most fitly rendred) which refleain themfelves towards me? (the relative supplyed, as ver. 8.) or rather, with the Greek, which initead of the relative, supplyeth the particle, that, (as the like is, ver. 13.) Where is the yerning of thine entrails, and thy bowels, (what is become of them ?) that they (to wit, thy entrails, or bowels) do refir ain themselves towards me? that they keep themselves in , as thut up , under forcible restraint, and do not break out into tender pity, and compassion towards me, in this my present doleful, and diffrested condition? it is that which John laids, If a man fee his brother in want, and flut, or close up, his bowels from him, 1 Joh. 3.17 or, it any shall deem it better, to lever them from that branch , and take them apart by themselves, I thould choofe to render them in a potential notion; can they contain them felous at us? or, towards us? as it they had laid, how is it possible, that such compassionate bowels, as thou abounded with, beyond the reach of mans thought, thould be able to contain themselves from yerning upon me, at the fight, and confideration of my prefent condition; the potential use of these forms is frequent. See Num. 23. 8, 10, 21. Chap.38. 18. the like expostulatory complaint of the suspense, or, restraint, of Gods mercies, see Pfal. 77. 7. 9. Chap.

Abraham hooveth us not, nor doth !frael h. n us : he is alike ignorant of us : for it is but the fame notion, in divers terms, as is very frequent with this Prophet; and fo the latter word is commonly used; as Gen. 27.23. Ruth 3.14.1 King. 20. 41. As for Abraham, and Jacob, they were our fathers indeed; but we are now out of their cognisance ; and it were in vain for us to expect ought from them, who being departed hence, are ftrangers to the affairs of this world, and altogether unacquainted (for ought we know) with our prefent condition, So the Jewith Comneuters themselves on this place; Abraham, faith one, knew us not, when we were afflicted in Egypt; nor did Israel know us, when we wandred in the Wildernelle; for they were long before taken out of the world. And another of them; fathers of flesh and bloud, may know their children, and their childrens children, fo long as they live; but Abraham, and Ifrael, were dead many ages agone; but thou alone art our living, and lafting Father; and thou doft, thorowall ages, continue fo to be; and we have no father here to feek to, betides thee. See Job 14, 21, 2 King 22, 20, and this exactly goeth with the Hebrew. See Deut. 32. 6. or, because of the ftop, at our Faller, in the text, as some read it, our Redeemer is from of old thy name; thou hast, thorow all ages from time to time, been called, and accounted, the righter, and rescuer of us thy people, Pfal, 90.1. Rom. 1. 26.28 and fo it may feem to have reference unto that dreadful and direfull doom, by God, patied upon this people, chap. 6. 9, 10. or, why shouldest thou, by suffering us to lye under such heavy preflures for fo long a time together, in the hands of cruell oppref. fors, give this people occasion to leave thy law; and in a delperate oblinacy, calling off thy service, to betake themselves to wicked and heathenish wayes. See Plal, 125, 3. Whether way of the two we take, I suppose it to be by the Prophet conceived, not as fome would have it, in the person of the projane, and worse fort among them, murmuring against God, and imputing to him, the cause of all their misearriages; but in the person of the pious, and better party, lamenting, that God had, (shough justly) thus given up his people unto errous and obstinacy; and as amazed to confider, that God their Father, who had formerly been fo gracious to them, and chary of them, flould now inflict on them, to heavy a judgment as to withdraw himfelf from them, and to leave them thus to themselves; and bewailing the borrid effect, and event, that it either already had, or was like to have, with many, who were, or would be, thereby induced to withdraw themselves from God, and betake themselves to heathenish superstitions, and the service of other gods; and this later, with a learned Writer, I encline to, as conceiving it to be the genuine fende

But I supporte, if we follow the former fenfe, it would rather here be rendred, why haff thou permitted, or suffered, us; or, as some, dost thou sermit, or, suffer us, to mende from, or, out of, thy wayes? for in this notion, not of impulsion, but of permittion, is this form frequently used, and fometime rendred, So Prov. 10.3. The Lord will not fuffer the foul of the righteous to family: and, Thou shalt not suffer a witch to live, Exod. 22.18. & Pful. 37.33. The Lord will not condemn (that is fuffer him to be condemned, but cause him to be cleared, vers. 4. (the very fame word that is here used) from thy commandements; or, according to the later reading, 1979 floutdest thou cause us to wander from the wicked hearts are over-prone to take, to to do; as if thou hadfl put them thereupon. So it should be, not unlike that speech of David, 1 Sam. 26, 19. by driving me from abode in the Lords inhegain will there, or can there, accrue unto thee, by keeping us fo long, in this forlorn condition, (as they reason, Pial. 30. 9. & 44. 12.) especially, by the revolt of many of thy people from thee, a thing likely thereupon to enfor?

So rather, then as some, both of the Jews, and others, that render the word here Rods, and expound it, Rulers : as relating to that, chap. 43, 28, and this therefore they plead unto God. as intimating, that it might bee deemed a difhonour unto him. not to regard his on n inheritance. Heb. thy peaple of bolinefs : as, thy mountain of bolinefs, chap. 56. 7. and, thy cities of holinefs, chap. 64. 10.) have held it but a little while; the conoun it, is not in the text, but to be supplied; as chap. 46. 11. & 57. 8. and hath reference to inheritance, verse 17. that is, the land of promife, as most here take it. Where question is moved, how it should be said, that Gods peple had possessed their land but a little while, when as they had held it for so many hundred years. Whereunto tome answer, that it is said, a little while, because a long time seemeth but little when it is once pass, in that effate, and rhote things electially, that men defire longer to enjoy, Job 9, 25, 26. Plal. 90, 4. Others, a little while, in regard of Gods promile, that they fhould pollefs it for ever Gen. 17, 8, & 26.; & 28, 13, Exod. 33, 13, which promile yet had condition alwayes implyed in it, and is expressy mentioned. Chron, 33. 8. Sec Jer. 18, 9.10. and these aniwers are the most probable, the words being thus rendied. For fome take in the word, Sanfluary: So the ancient Greek, joyning this branch to the former verfe : Return to the tribes of thine inheritance, that thy prople may poffes thy Sanctuary a little longer. But this the words will nor well bear. Others reading this whole verte thus, Thine holy perple but a while possessed thy Santinary , which our enemies trample on: and here one of the Jewish accountants helpeth them a little, that go this way, which he feems also tomewhat to encline to, oblerving on the place, that the Temple flood but 420 years? vitance, they fay, Go ferve other gods: as if they should fay, Wilat (whereas from the promise made of the possession of the land, to their deliverance cut of Egypt, was above 430 years, Gen. 15.13. Exed. 12.41, and from their deliverance out of Egypt, or, (as they use to speak) from the Lamb,or, the Law, to the Temple, 480 years, I King, 6. 1. But one of our rather would have it fo faid because they had slighted it, and made little good use of it; and might well be said therefore but a little while to have possessed it. But this feemeth to be over-much ftrained; besides, that it maketh underfland it of the adverfaries of Gods people : one reading the words, They have almost possified themselves of thy people. Another, For a tittle space of time have they possified thy people, and trampled upon thy fandinary; that is, for three year and a halt, unfond thing to imagine, that the people of God should complain, that their enemies had been but a while posteried of them. The old Latine readeth it, As a thing of nought have they posterifed thine holy people; that is, as those that follow it, they posleis, and use thy people, as some forry thing of no account. See verse 19, & Lam. 1. 11, 17. & 3.45. and the common ule of the word may feem to wind it fomwhat this way; for it is used sometime for little, whereof Zanr was fo termed, Gen. 19.20, 22. sometime, for the younger, as in Latine, the tefs: and as great, for, elder, Gen. 25, 23, fometime, for, a small company, 2 Chr. 24, 24, fometime for one of small account, or reckoning, Pfa, 119, 141. Mic. 5, 2: See chap. 60, 22. but of time, or fhortnels of time, I no where find it uled. And I deem therefore this reading not improbable; the rather, because the particle prefixed, hath oftentimes the like use, as Gen. particle, as t (ing. 2.15, Chap. 2.5, Chap. 2.5) and the property of the particle, as the property of the particle, as the pa yet fome of prime note hold out, Even unto the least do they

We are in that despicable condition, so vilely used, & basely dealt with, as if we were none of thy people, much leffe fuch as have been fo long time thy hibjects, living under thy protection, & whom thou haft been pleafed from time to time, to own as thine. See Chap, 26, 13. and ver. 18. as it we were those (the like supply, see Job 39.16 she carrich her felf hardly towards her young ones, as if they were not hers) whom from old (as ver. 16.) thou hadit not ruled over, or show hadit never (as Chap.64.4.) ruled over; (Heb. ruled over them; the de- | will be very neer the fame; that upon Gods to defeending, as is monstrative, for the relative : as Chap 42. 1. & 46. 4. or, a defect | here defired, and in such manner manifesting himself, the mounand a rocky as they are been called upon. Vers, 1. That thou wouldest rent the heavens, that thou wouldest come down; That this Chapter runneth on in one tenour, with the latter part of the former, is not doubted. But here appeareth plainly, what was formerly observed (see Chap. 58. 3. & 62. 6.) that the Masorets, or who ever they were, that divided the books of Scripture, into Chapter, and Verfe, did not foretime exactly diftinguish either : For these words, together with those, that make up the first verse of this Chapter with us, are in the Hebrew copies, cast into the last verse of the Chapter foregoing, and so close up that Chapter ; (see the like 2 Chron 30. 18, 19.) and this Chapter is made to begin at our fecond verie, which hath a manifest dependance upon this, whereas this hath no fuch coherence with that, which by them it is annexed unto. So that this Chapter, according to the division of the Greek, & Latine versions, as we have them now divided, and of our English ones likewife, beginneth in the middle of a verfe, according to the diflinctions in the Hebrew , and that with better ground, if we regard the course of the context, as any intelligent reader may easily difeern. Yet this to falve, the Chaldee thus rendreth this passage not, as a learned man relateth him; Didft not thou rent the heavens for us? but, as if the word were not lu, but lo; Thou haft not rent the beavens for them; to wit, for those, over whom then didft not rule, nor were called by thy name, Chap. 65. 19. whereunto one of the Jewish Commenters treading in his steps, addeth, As thou didst fometime for us, Bue herein the other Jewith Malters diffent trom him, and agreeing with us, refer us, for the fignification of the particle to Pfal. 81, 13, which Writers do now generally accord in:
Onely some of them render it in the time past, O that thou hadst vent the heavens, and come down; when Nebuchadnezzar was about the florming of our city; as thou didft, when thou cameft to deliver thy people from Pharao's purfuit or them, Exod. 14. 24. Pfal. 77. 16-18, and as thou didft against Sennacheribs Forces, when they lay before Jerufalem, Chap. 30. 30. & 37. 36. But the moft, as one Vertions, in the prefent, or future, for not on, it not for

But this I leave to form, O that thou wouldest (beholding how basely thine holy people are dealt with, and how horribly thy glorious courts and palace, are prophaned and polluted, and in despight of thee, transpled, and troden upon, Chap. 62, 19, and taking to heart such infolencies and indignities, offered to thy facred majefty) no longer forbear, but rent the heavens, and come down; that is, come down in furious and violent manner; as if thou didft rent the heavens, and all afunder before thee, to deftroy thine advertaries, and deliver thy people. See Plal. 18. 9-16.

that the mountaines may flow down at thy presence?] Or, that they might run down, or melt, See on ver. 2, 3. V. 2. As when the melting fire burneth, the fire caufeth the waters to boil,] That these words belong to the former verse, as intimating in what manner the mountains would melt, or run down, if God in such manner should appear, and are amiss therefore dis-joyned from them, Witters of the best note observe and acknowledge. Some suppose them , to contain two distinct similandes; the former, taken from the melting of metals, the other, from the boiling of water in a caldron, or kettle. Others, but one onely, and that this latter. To palle by the great variety of improbable Verfions, and pitch on those onely, that carry some probability with them. Some of those that make them two, thus read the words; As when the five of burnings melteth, or, as when the five burneth the meltings; that is, the things melted e for the verb is taken lometime actively; as Chap. 50, 11. Jer. 17.4. fometime paffively; as Deut. 32. 22. Jer. 15. 14. and fo the meaning should be, the mountains thould run down with fire, as the metall that tunneth by the force of the fire that melteth it; and, as the fire (whether talling into the water, as fome, or kindled under it, as others) doth caufe it to boil, or, to fwell, and to rife up in bubbles : whence those swelling blains, or bliflers, Exod 9.9, to have their name. See on Chap. 21.

12. & 30. 13. as if it were faid, that it might be with the mounrains, as with water boiling in a por, which the fire underneath it, makes to work and fwell, and rife up in bubbles; as Job 41. 31.

Of those that conceive but one resemblance alone, some read them; As when the five burneth the dry flubble, or the firey, the fire (that is, it, the noun for the pronoun; as Chap. 37.14. 2 Tim. 1.18.) mileth the water to boil, or bubble. Others, As when a melling fire, or, a vehement fire burneth, the fire (that is, fuch afire) maketh the mater to boil. Which way foever of all thefe we take it , the meaning that the altar was built with, and the water in the trench about it, I King, 18, 38, but it is by others, deemed rather to have respect onely to the force of fire in this kinde, upon water in general : Whereunte may be added, that fulphury mines (of which more anon) being kindled under ground, neer to ftreams of water, or to the fea fide, do sometime make those streams to boyl up in ftrange manner; yea, to make the sea it self, to boyl live a cal-dron, as not long since, at one of the Western Hands, where the sish died therewith in great abundance; and an Iland of some good bignels, thot up out of the fea, at a great depth, whereinto afterward it funk again. The fimilitude is not amils, by fome deemed to hold, especially, in the large quantity of steem, or vapours, that a pot, so working, is wont to lend up : That which may help to back the opinion of those, who suppose the case of Mount Sinai, when God appeared in fire on it, to be here, at least, glanced at, as it is commonly supposed to be intended, ver. 3. at which time it is faid of it, that the Smoke of it afcended, as the smoke of a furnace, xod. 19. 18.

the melting fire] The word here used, is no where else found: whence divers opinions of it; a Jewish Critick faith it fignifies, dry flubble: fome of ours render it, fpray, fuch as is commonly put un-der pots to make them feeth, Plal. 58. 9. Chap. 27. 11. Eccl 7.6. But neither give they any reason why the word thould so fignifie, or any inflance of fuch use of it. A learned Writer would have it deduced from a Syriack word, said to have a notion of boldnesse, and to lignific, a wehitment fire: The most take it to be, word for word, a fire of liquefactions, diffolutions, or meltings; supposing the root from whence it cometh, as it hath, for letters and lound, neer affinity with the word that fignificth to melt, fo to be of the felffame notion with it; with whom I concur, as conceiving it to fuit very well, with what both that learned man, and the Jewish Do-Ators fay of it, to wit, that it importeth, as he, a vehement; as they, a great, or firing fire : not like that of flubble, or spray ; but of forme more folid matter, fuch as is able to melt and diffolve metals, ftones, rocks, or any other materials that it meeterh with, Job 28. 2. Howbeit, a late learned Annotator, would have it, from the Arabick, to fignific, a gentle fire, fuch as makes no great noife ; and the meaning to be, as a gentle or fost fire is enough to make water boyl; fo thy very name made known to thine adversaries, will be fufficient to affright them, See Pfal. 68, 1, 2, But this I leave unto the judgment of others.

But I suppose productoris much tells, to far dutant from Sinal. But 1 Juppole the word tendied, flowed down, as deemed to come from one commonly used of water, Job 36, 28, Pfal, 147, 18, Jer. 9, 18, would, in this place, at leaft, be rendred, ran down, or melted, as in the like argument, where that word is questionless used, it is rendred, The mountains melical at his presence, Judg. 5.5. And as the Plalmitt, though using another word there, The mountains melted Planning though using another word enter, 100 monaton mitted life wax, at the preferee of the Lad, Pal. 197. 5. Here for the rather, if not in regard of the foregoing relemblance of the melting of metals, ver.a. because that is by foune queflioned; and the word is here in founewhat another form, then that in the other place, for endired tyet for that it is by a Lewish Critick conceived to come from a root, that fignifies, as by melling to waste, whence a rioter is fo termed, Deut, 21. 20. Prov. 23. 21. because by riotous courses, he melteth, and wasteth away his means. And though it should not be denied, but that the words might have an eye to that dreadfull fight on Sinai ; yet rather with reference to the five, that decontaining on onay; yet rather with reference to the me, and the fishings of it, then to any water, or flouds thereof, that flould at that time be leen, find it may well be deemed, that there is withall fome allufion, to the usual manner of those burning hils, that the state of the s fuch as Etna in Sicily, Soma in Italy, Heela, and Hogla in Ileland, which breaking out, are wont to run down with streams of fire, which preaking out, are wont to run down with itreams of hie, and fullying matter, into the feas befile them, and valleys beneath them. Nor is it unlikely, but that, as in those Egyptian tempels, it is faid, that the five van along upon the ground, Exod. 9. 13, so in that terrible apparition, the mountain which was all on a flame, Deut. 4. 11. did run down with fire, as if it had been melted and disloved therewith; as it is faid, that in the generall execution of Gods vengeance upon his enemies, the mountains should be melted with their blood; that is, they should run down with such sheams of bloud, as if they were melted therewith, or diffolved thereinto, Clmp. 34.3. Nor is it needfull, because mention is made of mountains; that therefore we should have recourse unto those more remote ones. There feemeth to have been a chifter, or combination of mountains in that place, the two principall and highest whereof though and in that place in the two participant and angents and the place in the Mount, on which God fo appeared, is found the place in the Mount, on which God fo appeared, is found the place in the Mount, on which God fo appeared, is found the place in the Mount, on which God fo appeared, is found that the place in the Mount, on which God fo appeared, is found that the place in the Mount, on which God fo appeared, is found the place in the Mount, on which God fo appeared, is found the place in the Mount, on which God for appeared in the place in the Mount, on which God for appeared in the place in the Mount, on which God for appeared in the place in the Mount, on which God for appeared in the place in the Mount, on which God for appeared in the place in the Mount, on which God for appeared in the place in the Mount, on which God for appeared in the place in the Mount, on which God for appeared in the place in the Mount, on which God for appeared in the Mount, on the place in the Mount, on the Mount, time called Mount. This some Jewith Writers un-derstand as spoken of Abraham: Thou wast beneficial to Abraham, that rejoyced in thy favour, and walked uprightly, Gen. 15. 1. & 17.1, 17. Others of Moses & Aaron, as was before shewed, But the word, though fingular, yet doth not defign any one particular per-ion, or perions, but is indefinite, as the like in the close of veri. 4. The term of rejoyeing, some refer to the word, before going, and render the words, Thou didft meet with joy, him, or them, that wrought righteonfnefs. But , befide, that they take no notice of the copulative, the word here used, is never a noun; ever, either a verb, as chap. 66, 14, or a participle; as Pfalm 119, 162, and so here. Others, therefore generally joyn it and the next epithet together; but so as they take this former in divers notions; for some understand it of the outward estate of the persons intended : rejeycing, that is, being in a cheerfull and profesous condition, as opposed unto the sad estate, wherin themselves were at present, but the most rather conceive it meant of their inward disposition, that rejeyced, and wrought rightcoufnels, that is, that rejoyced to work rightcoufnels, fee the like, chap.61.5.) that ferved thee cheerfully, and delighted in wel-doing. But others ra-ther conceive these to be the same persons with the former, by another character further deciphered; and render the text therefore with the supply of an explicative; even those that remembred thee in thy wayes: fuch as were constantly mindful of thee, and of their duty to thee, according to the divers passages of thy providence about them, as well to praife thee in prosperity, as to pray unto thee in adtreet, as went to prane tree in property, as to pray that thee in advertisty, to free and to belief thee in both, chap. 26: 13.Deut,8.1, 19. behold thou art wroth; for we have finned : in those is continua ance, and we [hall be faved] The Prophets concile language feems to have made this place the more obcure. Scarce two Interpreters agree all out in the lense of them. The Jewish Doctors much to this purpose expound them ; If, or, when, thou wast wroth, because me (to wir, thy people) have finned, yet by those (just ones, verf. 4. our peace being made with thee) we were ever, or of old faved;

Others, but in those (thy wayes) thou art ever, therefore are we faved ; or, therefore we Ball be faved : (the copulative, in an illative notion; as Chap. 48. 7.) thou continuest constant in thy mercy and goodnesse; and that is the reason, why we are not yet destroyed: or, it is that that put-teth us in hope, that thou wilt yet save, and deliver us, out of our present distrelles, Lam. 3. 21, 22. So verf. 4. here, whether it be underof old; fometime, for ctor; So Veri, 4. nere; wintine it we underfood of the time upit, or preferred, it may be rendred the former way: a defect of some particle there is, which way soever it be rendred; as the like is, feld, 8, 1, 2. Their present wretched, and forlorn condition, is in this verse, and the next described as opposed to the flate and condition of those, that were beforementioned, ver. 4,5. In former times there were such among mentioned, ver. 4,5. In former times there were included grace, and favour with God; for whole fake. God conferred many blefings upon them, and that helped, when God was at any time displeased with them, being provoked to wrath by their fins, to make up the breach between him, and them, Plal, 106, 23, but thole righteous, and godly ones, are now all gone, Jer. 5, 1. By the former, to wit, rightenthy fies, fome understand those legal rites, ceremonies, and facilities, in the observation, and performance whereof, they deemed their righteoutnets to confift, (fee Chap. 57. 12.) but were fo performed by them, that they found no grace, or acceptance, with God, yea. were very loathfome, and abominable in his fight, Chap. 1.11-14 & 66.3. the Jewith Commenters give the word a larger extent; the good works, fay they, that they did in those times, were done, the good works, lay they, that they due in those times, were done, either out of ying flory, to gain applaule, or, out of emulation, to out-firip one another; or out of other like corrup grounds, and other like finither ends, which made them fich in Gods fight, as is here faid. Such were the Pharifices both devotions, and almsdecds, Mat. 6, 2, 5. & 23.5. and fo fome preached the Golpel, Phil. 1, 15, 16. See I Cor. 1.3. Many of ours draw it out further, and take in all the best works and actions, even of the best, and in the best manner performed, as not free from some default, and defile-ment, that might deservedly render them, such as is the implied, in Gods fight, if he should look narrowly, into them, and deem of them, according to the exact tenour, and rigour, of his Law. of them, according to the exact tenour, and rigour, of its Law, Rom, 7.1.1 And these both divers of the Ancients, and very many, nor Procellant only, but Popith Writers allo, not a few, do both expound, and apply the place; the fel latter, with thole Ancients, giving tethinony threeby, anto the truth, herein maintained, by us, against thole of their fide, that other cin control, and oppose, Some yet further enlarge the fubject matter here mentioned, as Some yet further enlarge the fubject matter here mentioned, as comprehending the natural conflitution and condition of all mankind, being fu. h, by breeding and birth, as is deferibed, Ez.k. 16. 4-6. But herein for the genuine fense of the place, others of ours, and those of chief note, depart both from these, and the former, advisedly observing, that the Prophets intendment here, is to make acknowledgment of fuch enormious evils, not bare inbred viciofity, or, defects, of meer infirmity, but vile, and abominable practian height of heat, as to cast them out of their land, and to leave them unto a long, tedious, and grievous captivity. That which induced those, both ancienter, and late Writers, to bring within compasse of this doom, in this place, those defects, and defaults, adhering to, and allowing the pureft practifes of the most fincere, feems to have been ; because the Prophet faith, our righteonfuestes; as speaking in his own person, and putting him felf in among the rest . bearing in no own perion, and packing, nation in among successibility they oblicive not what one of the Jewish Doctors fuggefield, that the Prophets, (which, faith he, they learned from Moles, Exol. 34, 9, 1) peak of sh, the perion of the people, as their mount to God, and yet withall computing themselves in what they fleak, as members of that body, in whose perion they fleak, as taking to heart, and affected with the evils, that do generally, cither infect, or infect, that body, as if therein they partaked with them; albeit they were wholly free from them themselves. So them; a libert they were whony need from them distinctes, 30 Exr. 9.67, 10,15; Dan. 9.5,63 to, 11. The words may well be underflood with those Jewish Doctors, (whom some of our best Interpreters herein condelected unto) of those outward femblances of holiness and right couliness, that some among them, in those times, might fometime make fome flourith of, when they were inwardly full of nothing but filth, and corruption, and their very lives also otherwife very vile and abominable, as it was with fome of the Pharifees, Mat. 23, 14,23-28. Concerning the notion of the word here used, and not else-where read, as also concerning the notation of it, there is great variety of opinions, even among the Jewish Criticks themselves. Some of them render it, a coat of patches, or rags; a beggers coat made up of rags, of old cloth, worn out, and cast away; from a Chaldee word that fo fignifies, Others, 4 garment defiled with bloud, from a word that fignifics prey, or fpoil, gament depted with blood, from a word that upgames prey, or John, Gen, 49.24, for that parments to taken from taxenous beafts, or, by men in light, are dually lich, Gen, 37, 31, 33, chapp. 9.5. Others, lattly, a cloth, or cloth of feparations, or, a month-new cloth, or cloud; as coming from a word, that fignities, both in Hebrew and Chaldee, as before, to put away, or to remove and separate, Prov. 25.20. CHAP, LXV.

Verf. I. Am fought of them, that asked not for me;] This Chap-ter the Jewith Commenters annex to the former, suppoing that God, in the first words of it, returneth an answer to the prayer of the captive people, conceived in the later part of the chapter fore-going. But it feems rather to contain a new Sermon divers from the former. And in it we have a clear prediction, both of the conversion, and comming in, of the Gentiles; and of the reection of the Jewes, with a relation of their particular fins, and their obstinacy in them, for which they were to be rejected. How-beit a remnant of them to be referved, whom God would profecute with speciall favours in the times of the Messias especially, when his Church should be renewed,

I am fought of them, that asked not for me] In these words the Jewish Doctors conceive that God, in way of answer to the former Jewin Doctors Conterve that Load, in way of answer to the former complaint of his people, concerning his harth ufage of them, and the continuance of the captivity, doth render a reason why it fo fared with them, to wit, for the oblitinate carriage both of their fore-fathers, and themselves; who albeit he had from time to time called upon them by his Prophets, or return from their wicked wayes, and rebellious courses, and come in to him, yet had food our fitting gainth im; and rejeded his gracious invitations and offers. So that they understand this whole passage, yet? 1.2. of their one people, and tell way, it is all the faunt thing four feverall times told over, in divers ferms, to add the more emphasis to it, but from the apostles allegation of it, Rom. 10. 29, 21. it evidently appeareth; that the former part of it, speaketh of the Gentiles; the later part, only of the Jewes: The Jewish Criticks, to draw this Scripture their wayes, are mightily puzzled about the fignification of the first word : for there feems, say they, a contradiction in the text; I am enquired of, and they ask not : and this to affoil, they render the words, fome, I was ready to be enquired of entreated by, and reconciled to your fore-fathers, when they had offended me, had they fought me in their afflictions, but they afked not after me. So fay they, is the word used, Psal. 111.2. The works of the Lord are ready to be fought, and found out. Others, giving the passive reciprocal notion, as oft-times it hath (see chap, 6.20.) I made my felf to be fought , that is, offered my felf to be lought unto by them; according to that, chap. 63. 5. thou didft fought unto by them; according to this, chap, 63, 5, 1600 dalph met, that is, prevent them with mercies unask, Others, taking the wood as a potential (of which, fee on chap 63, 11.) I might have bleaf four by of them; they would, but they had no mind coit. Others, a fpoken by way of intercogation; Should I offer my left to the founds of those that any has after me? Our, divers of them fomewhat strain themselves needlely about it. Some tender the words, I am expered to those that asked not : and the word indeed in the Rabbinical language is commonly used for to expound; whence midraffes, or expositions, are so termed : But that suiteth but (orrily with this place, or the notion here intended. Others, because the Jacqual the great ment goodly houses, with their appurenances, with this places of the notion here intended. But the word of finding, used by the Apostle (with whom the two branches are transposed) hash the Apolite (with whom the two orangees are transposed) nath reference, not to this word, but to the word following, which the ancient Greek allo fo rendreth. This word, both that Vertion, and the Apostle retaining it, rendreth, I am manifested, or, I have been made manifest and these strains all seem needlets. The old been midt manigis: and sense trains an incum recents. The Out Latine, which fome, without coules, here control, telling us, that the word is here palitive, gave the right fense of the text, They feel, int, that before night and on the, word for word, I am fought to, by the that have not asked, to wit, ought of me; that is, I am now thole that have now anyon, to with only it is a fair flow enquired of, fought unto, called upon, (fo the word is commonly taken: Ice Chap, 55, 6. So is the wear most frequently used, 1 King, 3, 5, 10, 11, Chap, 7, 11, & 2, 2, Hof. 1, 12, Zach, 10, 1, and I rather choose therefore to make the fupply of me, then for me. So the Chaldee, Greek, and old Latine, ended; it; and the Jewith Criticks do most follow this reading; and they conceive the word following, to fignifie the except of any nuclear creature, from Excl. 4, 14, and confedentally, latch braids means there, wherein the fleth of any furth had been fold; but fome other read it prouch, that flexibles a hazmant we next used? Some second nere, wherein the neith of any then had been load; the folial content cash it perals, that fighthes a fragment, or part tons of from a word, that fighthes, to tear, or break, off, Exod, 32.2. Nah, 3.1. and those that follow this reading, expound the word following, from Ley, fices referved till the third day, deemed then to be abominable: a mod of fuch figurants, or parciels, of fields, contary to the Law for exceeds, wherein they enter find matters, as they would not have referved, would they have the words here to be understood; but no clear place appears for his tick of the former word; and the rather, for that the latter word, where it is inclot of their menanders for eferved, lemms of the reword, where it is inclot of their menanders for eferved, lemms of the result of the result of the referved in the referved its inclot of their menanders for eferved, lemms of the result of the referved its field of their menanders for eferved, lemms of the referved its field of their menanders for eferved, lemms of the referved its field of their menanders for eferved, lemms of the referved its field of their menanders for eferved, lemms of the referved its field of their menanders for eferved, lemms of the referved its field of their menanders for eferved, lemms of the referved its field of the ter word, where it is used of such remainders fo reserved, seems to have some reference unto such unclean flesh, as implying, that being fo referred, they thould be no more accepted, then any fuch flefh, in its kind unclean.

V. 5. Which fay, Stand by thy felf, come not neer to me:] Thefe persons as impure and profane, as they were, yet would seem to be holier, then others, and counted all unclean, and polluted, beside holier, then others, and counted an interface, then felves. So the Pharifees, in Christstime, Luk. 5.30. & 7. 39. & 18. 11, 12, and the Samaritanes anciently, Joh. 4.9. as the stories of them relate; and the Jews, and Hercticks, in Jeromes time, Stand by thy self. 3 Heb. Approach, or, Draw ater, to thy self: keep apart by thy self; so the Jewish, and most of ours: though some, Get three to thine; that is, to others like thy self.

Come not neer to me;] touch me not; as the Samaritanes are reported to have cryed usually to others, not of their way, as fearing to be defiled by them: this is supposed also to have been the reafon why the Pharifees used to wash so, when they came home from the market; as having contracted fome defilement by the touch of others there, Mar. 7.4. See Luk 7. 39.

for I am bolier then thee] So the Chaldee render it; and the Tewish Commenters unanimously expound it. Heb. I fauttifie thee and because the word, santisfie, is in Scripture Heed, sometime, for to set apart for some sacred use, Levit. 17. 5. I Sam. 16. 5. or, for flaughter, Jer. 12. 3. Some render the words, I will fantlifie the; that is, I will make a factifice of thee; I will flay thee; and they the many states and the state of the state o fervices, or facrifices, to reprove them for the fame, as giving him warning to keep aloof off, and let them alone, otherwise threat-ning to make a facrifice of him. Others, because the word, Kadelb. is sometime used, for some nuclean, vile, and abominable person, is fortetime uted; for fome material, vine, and aboministic perion; Gen. 38. 31. Deut. 23.18. I King. 14.24. & 15.12. Hof. 4. 14. and it is for rendred, Job 36. 14. would therefore have the verb here to be taken in that fenfe, and render it, I pollute thee; that is, I account thee a polluted, and unclean perfon; as Acts 10.15. & 11.9 Do not then pollute; that is, account polluted, or unclean: and the old Latinerendreth it, Thou art unclean: to which purpose, some apply that, Lam. 4. 15. Some colour might this Interpretation seem to receive, from what is spoken of these persons, Chap. 66.17. where it is faid of them, that they fantlifie themselves in the gardens; if the word santlifie, might be taken there for, to pollute; as certain it is, that their sanctification was no other then a gross pollution; and the word fantlife, might by a kind of antiphrafis, be used for to de-file, or infantlife: as the word to blefs, sometime; for, to curse, Job 1.5. 1 King 21.13, but the words following there, carry is another way; nor is any place produced, where this verb is fouled. We return therefore to the first, and most generally received Interpretation; wherein all the matter of doubt, or difficulty, arifely from the defect of a particle, or prepolition, such as in the affixing of pronouns to verbs, is oft-times omitted; this supplyed, it would be, I am hely from thee : of this kind of defects, fee on Chap, 28.15. & 47.8. & 48.10. & 49.24. of this particle in particular; Jer. 10. 20, my children are gone out me, for gone out from me. Now this preposition in Hebrew, as me.g., in Greek; pre, in Latine, hath a peculiar use, in comparative notions 16 good from, or above, as it is,

But an exact, and full in-flance of the like defect of the fame particle, in the fame ufe, we find, Jer. 20.7. where the Prophet speaking to God, saith, thou art strong me, for, strong from, or above, me; that is, stronger then I, as it is well rendred there: and it may be, would as well be, holier then thou, here. The ancient Greek renders it, I am elean; but they take not notice of the pronoun affixed.

This feems to be the genuine fenfe of the fimilitude; for the old Latine rendring it, a grane in a clufter; hath led Interpreters afide unto another fimili-tude, of faying a clufter for a found grape, or two, among many withered, or rotten ones; applying it unto the faving of those, that had any matter of found grace or goodnesse, in them, notwithflanding the generality of the judgment, to be put in execution upon the main body of the profane, and rotten hearted, Chap. this place; in this comparison, at least.

Jewish Doctors understand it of the length of years that their nation thall attain to, in the dayes of the M. flias, to wit, that then they flould live as long as the Fathers did before the floud; and that therefore a man at an hundred years flould be counted but a boy, or child, full; and one that flould by at these years flould be deemed fome accurled creature, as having his life fhortned by God for his lins, Others, run out to morall, and myffical fenfes, Some, that whereas in former times, they had many grey heads, with green wits many ancient for years, but of babilh disposition, and childish behaviour, there should now be none such among them; but their old men thould be grave, found, and difereet, able to fulfill, and perform all offices required of them, at that age, in their places: and as for those boyish, or childish old men, for behaviour and carriage, they thould, as accused wretches, be confumed and worn out, in the time of the captivity. Some, that whereas God did formerly threaten, that if the Magistrates did not duly perform their duty, in doing justice upon delinquents, he would himself do it, by taking away persons so spaced, by untimely and issilestie death, Lev. 20. 4, 5, 20, 21. as he did Er, and Onan, Gen. 38. 7, 10. that now should not be, it should not need: for that the Magistrates should now b. very strict and exact in the execution of justice, not sparing any for age, though he were an School mafter, kept men like children, and infants, in their first elements, or rudiments, unto their old age, the coopel should bring them unto maturity and perfection, Gal. 3, 24, 8, 4, 3, Heb. 7, 19.
Others, that in the times of the Golpel, all true Believers should be continually growing up in grace, until they came to a full growth, in which then they should continue for ever, Eph. 4.12-16. Others, that a child in the Kingdom of Chilft. shall be happier, they are the statement of the sta then an old man in the Kingdom of the world; for a child in the Kingdom of Chrift, shall attain to an happy perfection of he; whereas in the Kingdom of the world, a finner, even then when he feemeth to have attained a perfection of life, shall be accurfed. Others, refer it all to the refurrection, and the life to come, wherein there shall be no difference of old and young, but children thall rife in a perfect flature, and old menthall be raifed in yorth-like vigour and flrength. Some few have discovered, that long life is here promited, after their return from captivity, to Gods people: but in opening of the words, they have gone tomewhat wide. For the better conceiving whereof aright, we are to confider that length of life, is, in Scripture, frequently promised, as a blefling, Exod. 20. 12. Deut. 4.1, 40. & 6. 2. Plal 2: . 4. & 61. 6. & 91. 16. Prov. 3. 2, 16. Eph. 6, 2, and, on the other fide, the thortning of mens lives mentioned, and threatned, as a curfe, 1 Sam. 2. 32. Job 15. 32,33. See ver. 21. Zach. 6.4. Howbeit, that the wicked, fuch as remained flill unreformed among them. And it is true indeed, that a word of neer affinity to this, and whereby the Jewith Commenters here expound this, is used of such, Job 3. 19 as infants that accept fam light; as allothar, Gen. 33, 13, a word deemed to be of the lame kindred with this, is rendred, great with years. Butthis, I impose, here, to have been this learned mans fingular concert, and to leave it. Let the Lord be glorified :] An Egyptian Rabbine, of no fmall note among his countrey-men, interpreteth these words far other wife then we read them, as, if, in them, this ungodly people thould complain, that God was over heavie, and burdensome to them, in requiring of them, such a strict observation of his rites text, who because Heaven is sometime called Gods Temple, or Paand precepts; and renders the words, The Lord is burdenfone, or heavy, alledging 2 Sam. 13, 25, and affirming withal, that in that form, wherein it is here used, it doth never fignilic otherwise: but herein another of his own coat controlleth him, and pointeth hm to a place, Job 14. 21. where, in the lame form, it fignifies, to be honoured, or had in honour. And thefe, either of theirs, or ours : that thus render it, as the most do, expound it, some of them, as spoken by them in way of justification of their ways and courses as posen by their in way of infinite ation, then was a marketine in general, to wir, that they honoured God more, by ferving him in formany places, and with fuch variety of all forts of factifies, than those did, that confined his fervice to one place onely, and restrained his facrifices to a small number of creatures, fee Chap. 36.7. or, of this particular act of theirs, in cashing out of his fervants, or lequeliring themselves from them, as pretending that they had very good, and just ground, and cause so to do, and that they did a service very acceptable to God, and such as much conduced to the honour of his name, in to doing. So Joh. 16, 2, and they render the words , the Lord is glorified ; to wit, by us, in what we do. But others rather conceive it spoken, in way of derisson, Let God be glorified, or appear in glory; as Chap. 2. 11. 2 Theff. 1. 20. Tic. 2. 13. Let him manifeft his might, and majefty, in doing fome remarkable matter for you, if ye be fo deare to him, and are fo deep in his books, as ye deem and pretend your felves to be; as deriding, and jeering them, for their vain (as they counted it) confidence in God, and hopefull expectation of his glorious appearance, to redreffe and right their wrongs. Others, disjoyning this verse from that, yet fo as to carry on the context, prefix fome words, and render the text; For there shall be heard a voice, &cc. But I concur rather with those, who conceive that the Prophet abruptly, on purpole, breaketh out into these words, as it, in a Prophetical rapture, he heard the noise of that voice, or those voices, that here he ture, he heard the noise of that week, of those works, that here heak of S. ect he like, Chap. 13.4, Jer. 50.23, 28.8 & 51.54, and it feems not fit or fafe, to enervace, and diminish, the force and emphasis of Prophetical Brains, by any unnecessary additions. But what manner of voyce this should be, or when uttered, and, the state of the sta heard, is much questioned. Some would have it a voice of trimuph, and joy, of flouting in the citie, of thankgiving in the Temple, upon Judas Maccabens his recovery of the citie, and refliction of the Temple, after the spoyl and pollutions, by Antiochus, of either, 1 Maccab. 4, 72-58. V.7. Before the travelled, the brought forth; before her pain came, the was delivered of a man-child]. The most interpreters, both Jew and christian, understand thele words, of the trange, fudden, and unexpected delivery of the remainders of Gods prople, out of the Babylonian bondage, by Cymr, whereofice Chap. 43. 18-21, and this as it feemeth to be a collation of diffimilitude, compared with their deliverance out of Egypt, which was not without much sugging and strugling, effected, Exod. 3.19. & 5.9, 19, 21, 23. & 6.9. whereas this was done without any labour, or travel at all on their parts, upon Cyrus his Proclamation only fent out, 2 Chron, 36, 22, 23. Ezr. 1. 1. 3. Pfal. 126. 1. So it is not unfully deemed, by a comparison of similitude, to have some glance at the speech of the Egyptian Midwives, concerning the Hebrew women, that they were to vigorous, and quick, in their travel, that they were usually delivered ere the Midwife came at them, Evod. 1.19. Sion is compared to a teeming woman; the people of Ifrael, to fuch an ones children; which the is faid to be delivered of, without pain, or throws, in fuch case ordinary : as Varro reporteth of the Illyrian women, who being at harvest work in the field, when they were neer their time, would but flep afide, and return again, bringing a child with them, as if they had found it, behind the hedge; Varro, of husbandry, l. 2, c. 10. Howbeit, divers in-terpreteis understand it of the restitution and restauration of the Church, under the ministery of the Gospel, when so many thou-sands were so soon, and so suddenly converted, without any great labour, or pains taking about them, of those by whom they were converted, Act, 2, 41. & 4, 4. and both these expositions conceived, as subordinate the one to the other, may very well be admitted. But as for that groundlefs (ancy of Popith Writers, expounding thefe words, as fpoken of the Virgin Maries delivery of Christ without pains, not unlike that their fixtion of the ox, and the sile; in the (hable with her, from Chap. t. 3. So the word pro perly fignifieth, Chap. 31. 8. but it is applyed to delivery of children, by birth here; as to the delivery of a fowles young ones, by hatching, Chap. 34.15. and the reason of the phrase is because they feem to be delivered, by birth, the one, by hatching, the other out of those streins wherein they were formerly, being enclosed and pent up, the one in the womb, the other in the flell: and on the other fide, with us, the woman is faid to be delivered, because sic yet Zion (as the particle is taken, and rendred, Job 5.7. thall the earth be made to bring forth in one day?] According to this vertion, the meaning may feem to be, as if the question were, whether the whole earth, or all a whole country, that is, all the women in the world, or, all of fome country, thould be made to bring forth, together, in one day; or, as fome, whether the earth be able, in one day, to bring forth the feeds of herbs, and plants, committed unto it, and laid up in it, as at the first, without any fuch fowing, it did, Gen. 1.11,12. or, whether it can bring forth (which is more then to) facts living wights of all fo.ts, in one day; as in the faxt day of the creation it did, Gen. 1.24, because the old Latine not rest therein, hath it; Shall the earth bring forth in one day? But the words would rather be read, Ean a land, or a country be brought forth in one day? So the Chaldee, Is it possible, that a land should be made, or, produso the charge 2, a propose 7, the atom promuse some collection of the charge 2 and the char form, are common in Scripture. See on Chap. 49. 15. & 64. 12. and earth, for, land; no less rife. See Chap. 26, 1, 10. & 65, 16, yet the word, of it felf ambiguous, might here the rather be used, with fome glance, at the production of both heaven and earth in one day Gen. 1.1, as implying Gods power, that he, who at first produced the whole earth, and heaven together with it also, in one day, is no lesse able to make his Sien bring forth children enow in one day, is no lesse able to make his Sien bring forth children enow in one day, not to people some one land only, but to fill the whole world. See Chap. 27.6. The verb here used, signifies in its first form to be gritted, or, to be in pain, generally, Jet. 5.3, more particularly, to firatned 3 they depart from the constant nie of the word, which is be in travel, as women are wont to be neer unto their time of delivery, Chap. 23.4. & 36. 18. in its other forms, it hath a notion of pronoun demonstrative, her, (as Dent. 25, 12.) relating to Ston, framing, forming, producing, or, of being framed, formed, produced, in general, without special relation to any pain, or, travel, Plal, 51.

8. 90. 2. Prov. 8. 24. & 25. 23. and it is observed by one of the Jewith Criticks upon this place, that the active form of the ting then to rejoyce with her, as friends and allies are wont to term, here used, is takin sometime in a transient notion, for to do, at the child birth of one, that hath been long barrent and make to travel, or bring forth, or be in pain : as Pfal, 29.8. but that childleffe, Luk. 1.14,58. or upon the reflication, or recovery of one, very feldom : fometime, yea, most commonly, in a standing sense, that had formerly been decayed, and ruined, in his estate, Job the first of the intravel, Chap. 26, 17, and here, yet 7, and by confequence, because birth usually followeth travel, (returning to a transfent notion; but in another kind,) to bring forth. See Chap. 45, 10, and 14, & 31 the passive form here accordingly, to be produced, or brought or [hall a nation be born at once ?] Or, can a nation be born at once, as before ; the disjunctive, inferted, is needleffe : there is a particle indeed in the text, that commonly fignifies, if; but is here no other, then a meer interrogative note, as Job 6. 5. and here again ver. 9. The meaning is; Is it possible, that a woman should have as many children at one birth, as were enow to constitute a nation ? as if he should say, in the course of nature it is not ; for as for those stories related by John Aventine, in his Bavarian hiflory, the one; and by Thomas Fazel, in his Sicilian biflory, the other; of two German Countelles of Henneburg, Margeret, and Maud, the one whereof flouid have 36s, the other, 151s, children at a birth, they are defervedly deemed fabulous; and may juffly challenge the whetflone. But that of the multitudes of those that returned to Jerusa-Icm, after Cyrus his Edict of liberty publithed, to wit, 42360. at once; besides 7337. servants, and maidens, see Ezr. 2. 64, 65. which might well be deemed a nation brought forth in one day:

which might well be deemed a nation brought torth in one day; as also that, whereum of ome apply this of those multiludes of converts in the primitive Church, 3000 at another, Ach. 4.16. And because there may feem some contradiction in this, to whome the first of the three with the result of the some after fine the state of the s what was before faid of delivery without travel : Some answer, that the meaning was in the former place, before the was fearce in any travel; in this place it is, that fome travel the should have, but that fo light, and short, that it might well be deemed, in a manner, as none, Chap. 26. 20. The Hebrew is, word for word, that Zion, or, Pfal. 37. 11.

V. 9. Shall I bring to the birth, and not confe to bring forth, faith the Lord] Or, Should I bring to the wombs mouth, and not cause to bring forth? Some of the Rabbines would have it should I bring upon the flood? to wit, that mentioned , Exod. 1.16, that is, fay they, thould I cast my beloved wife, Sion, into child bearing pangs, and throes, by bringing in Gog and Magog upon her, Ezek 38.9, 16, 17, and not withat afford her deliverance; refembled here by birth But of the word, which the verb here used, hath relation unto, see on Chap. 37. 3, and another of them rather reading it, as it was before rendred, expoundeth it well; Shall I fer upon a work, and not go therow with it; cause the children to come to the very opening of the womb, and not enable them to come forth, or not afford frength to bring them forth > Some of ours, Should I open other womens wombs ; or, should I that open the matrice to others ; (and make them fruitful, Gen. 29. 31. 8. 30. 22.) not my fell beget, or breed; (as Gen. 11. 27. but remain illulelle) or not tanfe my Sion to bring forth? But the former fenfe being obvious, and inch shall I cause to bring forth, and shut the wombifaith the Lord Heb. Am I be that cause to bring forth? and shall I shat, ot, restrain? that is, as the Jewish Commenters, Am I be that have conferred may as well be rendred; Am 1 be that begat ? (to the word is exprefly rendred, Jer. 16. 3. their mothers that bare them, and their fathers that begat them) and should I restrain from bringing tout > for that is the fift, and native notion of the word. So Gen. 16, 2. God bath refirained me from bearing. Should I that have begotten children upon Sion, restrain her from being delivered of them? it is true, that the same word is used in that phrase, of shouting up the womb, Gen. 20. 18. but that is meant of reftraint from conception, not from birth; for whereas divers render it, Shall 1 be rementioned, verf. 8.

believed one tree in the mid?] This pallige hath no final variety of notions by Interpreters fathened upon it. The Greek renders it, in the parches, or entries, before dore, or without dove: The old Latine clean contrary; behind dore within, as chap. 57.8. that is, fay fome Fx. offices, in fecret, where they might not be feen, or taken fud-denly, in the manner, Jer. 2, 26, 27, but as the former both no footing at all in the text; fo this later very little. The Chaldee which fome of the Rabbines follow, renders it, not fimply one after another as some cite him, and some of ours render the text; but, com pany after company, one company of them after another, until the whole Society of them be functified. Others of them, which our Version admitteth behind some one tree, or other, in the grove, or in the garden, Jer. 3. 6. Whereunto some of ours add, as a thing not unlikely; that as every one of them had a god of his own, to each of them had his peculiar tree, whereat he did fer-vice to that his idol. Others, behind fome one fountain, or pool; for they observe here a double reading; the one of a masculine the other of a feminine form; and they supply terms accordingly concepondent to either. Some of ours would have it rendred for fome one firange god; that purific themselves in the gardens, for the service of some strange god: But the word that they render strange, is not sound so to signishe in the sorm here used. Others therefore, give it otherwise in terms, but in essential to the same notion, after some one falle god, or other, which they follow and ferve. Others, lastly, which to me seems most probable, conceive the word achad, or cehad, or as it is not unufually pronounced, ahad and chad, rendred commonly, here one, to be, in this place, a proper name; yet not a name of God, as fome superstitionsly would have it to be, Job 31. 15. O. 172-8, 20 7.0, and the monife; Some having rendred the former abominable creatures, (See Zach. 9, 7) render this, as the monife; and the copulative is sometime put for the note of similitude; as Jub 21. 33. & 34. 3. but feldome, I suppose, in that manner, as here. The oufe, is, among other unclean creatures reckoned up and expresmostle, is samong other unclean creatures reconstruct up and expressibly inhibited for mans meat, Lev. 11. 29. Yet that meet fome kind of them especially, were commonly eaten, in many places, among other people, and that reputed also as a dainty dish, doth, by other people, and that reputed and as a damity unit, doin, by Authors of good note and ciedit, appear, for Vatron's reatile of Hus' and y, 1, c.1, c. telateth, how for damite, one kind of them, they made Warrens for the breed of them, and coupes for them, they make writes the necessary means, and coupes not the fatting of them, and Pliny, 1,8,4.47, reported, that in the Lawer sometime made to restrain excess in diet, the ale of downer, occulence with some specifies, and special spaw, was inhibited. The name some would have given them, from a word, that special control of them is not provided by the special space of the space of the special space of the spa cause they are wont to diffurb and trouble the house, by grawing; the fields, by digging; both by devotuing and deftroying things of use, i Sam. 6.5. And we read indeed of an Hand called Graves, in the midland sea, to have been so instead with mite, that the inhabitants were enforced to quit it, Pliny, 1 8. c. 29,57. But the notation of the word, in regard of the letters of it, feems not very probable: and I have fome doubt, which I final lonely propound, and leave to the learned, whether the word here used, fignile a morfe, or no: and the ground of my doubt is; because the creature here mentioned. is ranked among creeping things, Lev. 11.29, and I fee little reason. why the monfe, or the wefel, or the ferret, should go under that name, more then the bare or the concy, (which some also render, a mountain moufe,) Lev. 11.5, 6, 26, or why they flould not be comprehended under the general head of Beaffs, before mentioned, Lev. 11, 2, and come within the general rules concerning Beafs there delivered, ver 4,5, the rather, for that I find everying things thereastivered, ver. 4,5; the same range in that I may crepping simple ill diffiquithed from beafing. V. 19. And I will fet a fign among thim,] What this fign fhould be, and where it fould be fet, is much questioned. The Jewish Commenters would have it to be, the rotting of the flesh, jewin Commenters would have it to be, the torting and eyes, and tongues of those, that served under Gog and Magog, against Jerusalem, Zach, 14.12. Ours, (to pass by the superstitious conceits of some Popish Writers, concerning the sign of the Cross; to which they apply that alfo, Matth. 24.30. and some other far fetched, and over-strained expositions) do most of them pitch upon one of these two notions : the one, of a figu, or enfigu, erceded to or one or there two monoms; me one, or a pga, or ranga, acted to call and gather people regether; as chapt, 1.12, 8, 49, 22, 8, 62, 10, that which some expound of Christ himself, faid to be set for a significant, 11.10, Like 2.34. Others, of the ministery of the word, and other externall fignes of Christian protettion, together, with the miraculous works accompanying the fame, crecked first among the like change being found in many other proper names in Scripthe Jewes, for the conversion of the elect among them, and the bringing in of the Gentiles unto them; and afterward also among the Gentiles. Some expound this branch of the creeting of it a mong the Jews, chap.2.2,3 Mark 16.15-20. Luke 24.47,49. Act.2. & 5.12-16. Some, of the fetting it up among the Gentiles, Gal. 2.1. whereof, fee on the next branch : and though the word used for a fign in those other places of this Prophet, be divers from that here used nor doth the word here used, ordinarily so fignific; yet it is fo taken, Pfalm 74. 4, in those words, they fet up their ensignes for figues, or, as figues; to wit, of conquest, and triumph. Fph. 1.13, 14. & 4.30, 2 Tim. 2. 19.8 this expolicion, the word of efc. pe following, feems to confirm. Now the text thus read & rendred, the word them, must be restrained unto Gods faithful fervants before mentioned, verl. 14. which because it is somewhat remote, I suppose we may well retain the received version, among them; as the particle is rendred, Pfal, 18.49. ch. 57.6.8 65.4. and hereafter, verf. 19. So it may well include the mixe body of the people, among whom those faithfull ones abode upon whom alone this fiving mark was to be set. And I conceive that the copulative hath the notion of a causall in this place; as chap, 53, 2, & 65, 15, and the text might better be rendred; For I will let a lieu among them, and lead those that escape of them, unto the nations, as thewing by what means that should be effected, which was before mentioned , concerning the coming in of Gentiles, verfe 18.

He would have it to be Phile, an Hand, with a Citie therein of the same name with the Hand situate amidst the stream of the river Nilus; about fome hundred furlongs above Scient and Elephantine ms; anour tome numerea turiongs above Scient and Euphantine in the confines of Ethiopia and Egypt, whereof Strabo, Heliodore, Pliny, and many other, as being a place of fome note: and he supposeth it to have its name from the fame ground, with Electropic Configuration of the supposed in the fame of the supposed in the fame of the supposed in the su phantine; (Phile and Elephantine, being two Cities, for fize and athion, bigness and beauty, so neer marches, nor in lituation far distant, that some Authors have consounded them, and taken the one for the other) and to have been so called of the word Phil; which with Syrians, Chaldeans, Arabians, and Ethiopians, is used for an Elephant; that Elay in flead of Phil giveth it Phul: ture, as in Pau, Gen. 36, 39, & Pai, 1 Chron. t. 50. Tou, and Toi, 1 Chron. 18.9. & 2 Sans. 8.9. Perudah, and Peridah, Ezra 2.54. and Neh. 7.57. But it may be doubted, whether the word Phil. for an Elephant, be in those languages so ancient, as to give the name where to this Pul, or to that Phile; and whether it came not from the Greeks into those languages; as to the Greeks in likelihood by the Punik, from the Hebrew Eleph, an ox, by them applied to the Belemoth, that easeth graff, like an ox. Job 40, 15, nor had the La-tines at first any other name for them, then oxen, as by some old bywords, in common use among them, appeareth; until they had that of Elephants from the Greeks: besides, it appeareth not that this Phile, fituate thus in the midft of the river, had any large territory belonging unto it : nor is it very probable, that two cities, no further diftant, poffetfed both by the fame nation, fomtime wholno luttre attent, possessed and the late and the late name, fround the one be for called by an Ethiopian term; the other by a Grecian; and if the names of ancient Kings be deemed to be a matter of any moment, to afford light of conjecture, for the flamenter of any moment, to afford light of conjecture, for the flamenter of any moment, to afford light of conjecture, for the flamenter of any moment, to afford light of conjecture, for the flamenter of any moment, to afford light of conjecture, for the flamenter of any moment, to afford light of conjecture, for the flamenter of any moment, to afford light of conjecture, for the flamenter of any moment, to afford light of conjecture, for the flamenter of the flament ding out of places, as bearing their names; it might be supposed. that this Pul flould rather be some place in or about Affyria; fince that Pul, and Pil, are in Scripture records, found so have been anciently, even before Efays time, in the names of the Kings of Allyria, See Pul, 1 Chron. 5, 26. & 2 King. 15, 19, and Pilefer or Pilnefer, 2 King 16 7, 10, 2 Chr. 28, 20, and from this Affyrian Pul, or Phul, may fome of those Hudor, or Pylif, in Peloponnesus, whereof Srabo, and Paufanias, have had their name; as also that Φύλλ (D. or Phyllus, in Theflaly; whence Apollo had a firname, as Strabo, l. 9. and Φλυβς, or Phlyus, whom they feigned to be agage-nes, or a grant, one of those whom the earth bare; some one of those ancient Puls, or Phuls, in likelihood, See Paufanias in his Meffeniales. Besides that I find Ashur and Elam, whereof more anon, mentioned in a place parallel to this, among those regions, out of which Gods people were to be gathered. See chap. 11. 11. Concerning ancient records, renowmen to titure shall at the own, Contenting which, I hall not much content, only the aguments, some of them, feem not so weighty; fince that it appeareth, by Herodore, I. that draw the bow : I Heb. drawers of bow, (as Jer. 46.9.) handters, treaders (or, benders) of bow. Thefe, faith one of the Rabbines, are the Turks : but who the Ancestors of the Turks, whom we now fo term, were; or how in those times they were styled, or where they abode, is uncertain. The like character of expertness in the use of the bow, is given by Jeremy, as well to Elam, Jer. 48.
35. (where he giveth him the bow, as our Prophet doth the quiyer, Chap. 2.6.) as to Ludin, Jer. 46. 9. and it may well be quelificined, whether this attribute of drawing the bow, being in the plural number, whereas Pul, and Lud, are both fingular, be the character of the latter onely, or rather common to both ; and that rather the reason of the copulative, then the neighbourhood of the nations. Our Translators feem fo to have deemed; and the Hebrew points which they exactly here follow, feem to carry it this way: that which addeth fome ftrength to my former conjecture: way: that which added nother through to my former conjecture concerning Pul, as either in, or appertaining to Alfyria; for that Elymin! (which all grant to be Elum) is by Strabo, l. 16. affigned to the Alfyrian; as part of Muria; (which indeed is no other then Alfyria) and the Elyman noted for skilfull archers.

to Tubal] The old Latine here, hath Italy; as also Joseph the fon of Gorion, placeth Tubal in Tufcany; and it was a groundlefformife therefore of a learned Writer, to imagine, that some Hebrew Copies, had anciently Ital, for Tubal: for this seemeth to have given occasion of that erroneous opinion. Tubal we find so have been one of the fons of Japher, Gen. 10. 2. whose posterity therefore bare that name: where their feat was is questioned; for to pass by some of the Ancients, who assign them Thessays in Greece, wherein none, I suppose, now follow them. Some place them indeed in Europe, and would have them to be the Spaniards, or the Iberi in Spain, at least : for though that name did more specially belong to the people, inhabiting one part of that valt country, bor dering upon the river Iberis; yet the Romanes, as Strabo tellifieth, ufed enciently, to call the whole countrey Iberia. But others with more probability place them in Affa, where there are also found; supposed by Strabo to have passed thither out of Europe; and unto these, Joseph the son of Matthias, whom most of our therein follow, in his Antiquities referreth them. Nor doth that learned late Writer step far from him, who feemeth to have precifely discovered both their place, and their name, out of the monuments of antiquity yet extant. For of Tubal, faith he, have the Greeks made Tibar; as of Pical, Phicor; of Belial, Beliar; whence the region Tibaris, Diodore, I. 4. and the people, at first Tibari, and then Tibareni; who dwelling in part of Pontus, were neen eghbours both to the Chalyb.s, men of speciall note for ironworks, from whom fleel, in Latine, hath its name; and to the Mofchi, with whom, in Herodotes story, the Tiburenes are commonly joyned; as in Scripture also Tubal is with Meshee, being the posterity of Melhech, brother to Tubal, Gen. 10.2. See Ezek, 27. 13. and 23, 26, and 33. 2, 3, and 39. 1. Besides, that some prints of the name of Tubal, or Thubal remain in Thabilaca, a City, by Ptolomy, reported to be about those parts, so called, Howbeit, forme suppose this nation to have had the name of Tubal, from Tubal-Kain, (whence the Latines had their Vulcan) the fon of Lamee, one of Common Leatines had then r mean) the food feature, once in Aging policiny, the fifth interner of Smithery, Gene, 4.2., not as fonce of his race. For they will needs have the former part of this collation, to be understood of the frame of heaven and earth, at first created, Gen. 1.1. and the heavin, say they, is called anew heaven; because it continueth in that newnesse in which it was at first; nor is it grown old, but it is still as it was at first, Pfal, 119. 89-91. and the earth is termed new, because it still continueth as at first it was; howfoever, the race of those that are upon it alter and decay, go and come, Eccl. 1. 4. Pfal. 119. 103. Prov. 14. 1. & 28. 1. From the latter, one of the Rabbines would have them thus read; How long wilt thou lodge in thy thoughts of affliction? that is, faith he, perfift and continue in them ? as, mine eye lodgeth, that is nath he, permit and continue in them e as, mine ever congerin, title is continued in bitternofs, 10 bit 7, 2. So, the world lith in coll, why fore I John 1, 19, all the difficulty, in this reading, is, that the folm is here malculine, in the reft ferminine; which the thus falveth, that the tonger gation is refpected, in the other terms the people, See 65, 17.

V. 8. They were as fed horfes in the morning ; every one neighed after his neighbours wife.] Their excess of uncleanness, and the generality of it, is further taxed, and amplified with a fimilitude taken from the unrulinels in that kind of stallions, or stone-hotfes full fed. See Ezek, as fed horfes] About the Epithite here ufed, there is great variety of opinions: The Chaldee rendreth it wild borfes; as ch. 2, 24. 4 wild als: The Greek, and Latine, mad upon mares; as deriving it from the word that hath a notion of fornication, or unclean coup-lings: but this the analogy will not admit. The Jewish Critick-Mafters would have it fo read, as if it fignified armed, or barbed horfes; fuch as this people for their wilful running head-long into fin, are compared unto, ch. 8.6, which fome of their Commenters follow, as drawing it from a term that fignifieth armour, or arms, Deu. 2.1.12.6.

I Kin. 22. 38. as fome think. But the most, both Jews, and ours, tender it fed, or well fed: from a word that fignifieth to feed, found in the Syriack, of Daniel, chap. 4. 12, in the Chaldee Paraphrase very frequent : whence also the word for food, or vitails, in Hebrew, Gen. 45.23. 2 Chro. 11.23. Dan. 4. 12. as alfo, if our Criticks may be credited, a word that fignifieth a wiffuelter or boffef; as, fay they, Rachab was, Jofh. 2.1. and our English by word, of provender-pricks, besides common experience, enformeth us, that horses well fed, are wont to grow the more wanton and unruly; alluded unto, Deut. 32.15. and the Matters of husbandry, advife to keep fallions high fed, when they intend them for that ute.

in the morning About this word, there is no less diversity of expofition, than concerning the former. Some of the Jewith Doctors would have it to be a Gentilish term from the country called Milbee, here; but that other place in this Prophet is quellionable; would have it to be a Gentilin term front the country salted Milner, and the form being plural, will into there admit it. That is more pro- of note, jay they, for holfer, Jaillions (percial) and for horfer, as in-bable, which fome other of the Jewish have, who render it, the waters of the defaults of for the word is of uded, thap 5-0.1.8 & 1.4.3. the wreated declared the cause there commonly they keep; or, of the plaint; jot foullo is the the description of the defaults of the plaint; jot foullo is the the description of the plaint; jot foullo is the the description of the plaint; jot foullo is the the description of the plaint; jot foullo is the the description of the plaint; jot foullo is the the description of the plaint; jot foullo is the the description of the plaint; jot foullo is the the description of the plaint; jot foullo is the the description of the plaint is few matter to the description of the plaint of the p Gentilish terms oftentimes omitted; as in Jehudim and Sidonim, Deu. 3.9. Esther 8.9. But of any such note of that country for horses, some better proof would be had: for that Oppians Magazes, and the Melhecites, or Majacites, were the same people, is not easie to prove. Some of the Greek Interpreters render it drawing; as if it were boyles of draught, or draughts: and the verb from whence they seem to have drawn it, is used of foreing, Amos 9. 13. and the noun from it of feed, Pfal. 126. 6. and fo it might be deemed, to import beaftsufed for tillage: but if it be takan for a participle, the analogy rejected it; if for a noun, the syntax resuscible it: and the notion suiteth not with the subject matter. Howbeit, to help this, a learned late Annonzoro, would have it to be a participle; in a Childee, or Syriack form: 'the like whereunon he findeth, Dan. 3. 16. & 1.5. Mark 14, 37, 1 Con. 4.1. 1 Flidit, 3. p. 1 John 2. 30. conceiving that they understood it of drawing out at length that part, or member, nor tamed, because not for no redult to be expedfed; and lappofing withal, that they read the word in a passive form, otherwise vowelled than we now have it. But this sense of the word here, he himself approves not. Alcained late Writer would have it rendred. A Ballion, that is, an horse key and marken writer would have a ballion, that is, an horse key and maintained on pupple for breed. So he faith the Syriack Translator hath expedied it: and the fame he suppose the that the old Latine intended. Nor seemeth the Chaldee otherwise to have taken it, rendring it in a word by the Talmiddits ufed to fignific the gendring of camels, and taken from their peculiar manner of coupling, as dogs do; which yet may peradventure be of larger extent; for that a term neer it, differing but in an hr, for an hr, or a thr, seems to have a notion of fonewhat about and fivern by them that are no gods.] By idols, falle and counter- borfes : whence they have a term for a quiry, or a Mafter of borfe. But thefe are no other than their own groundless fictions and fables; the meaning of the text is plain enough, God himfelf by the Prophet, explaining it in the words next enfluing.

And concerning those here mentioned, there is no great doubt or difficulty, save only about the last, described nor by any peculiar name, but by some remarkable circumstance, and the place of their abode; that they are of the Kedarens, and the kingdom of Hazor, feems to appear from chap. 49, 28, 32. but why fo ftyled, as both here and there, that is the question; the Hebrew is, word for word; out off to the corner, or, polled by the corner, which the Jewish ptivity, when God should bring the judgment now denounced upon Commencers expound, of the country they lived in, as if the meaning were, that they lived as cut off from other people, in the utmost nioly, and remotelt parts of the wilderness. But the Chaldee, Ancient Greek, and old Latine expound it, of the manner of their cutand known me commerced the control of the control o in the wilderness; to wir, in part of Arabia the desert, is noted apart here: now that these several people were by Nebuchadnezzar to fuffer, together with the Jews, appeareth plainly by that other prophecy, where they are related with others added unto them, ch. 25.

In these words God renders a reason, why he ranked the Jews among the uncircumcifed ones; to with because they were such in heart, as the other were in their flesh, whence it appeareth, that the Edomites, though descended from Ifaak by Efau, who was doubtless circumcifed as well as Jacob , had abandoned the use of this rite, which yet Hyrcanus in the times of the Maccabees, enforced them to refume. See Josephs antiquities, 1.13. no way either backeth that Talmudick fancy concerning the fense of this place, or addeth force to their figments, which they fabuloufly adjoyn concerning some others. "But hence it appeareth that the generality of Isac's posterity were at that present uncircumcised, either in the one kind, or in the other: his whole issue by Esau having caft off the outward circumcifion; and the main body of Jacobs po-flerity, then in being, (the whole bonfe of Ifrael, as well Judah, as the other ten tribes) wanting the inward circumcifion of the heare;

For as for the Chaldee, Greek and Latine Versions, who render it to this effect; will, or, can, the water fail from the rock in the field? or, as the Greek by mistake of a point, the teats from the rech, or, the fnow from Libanus ? But this the text will not well hear, the verb of leaving, or for labing, being hardly found fo used, as they take it. Howbeit, to remove that difficulty, a learned late Writer thus rendreth the text ; Doth the fnow of Lebanon from the rock leave, or, for fake, my field? that is, doth the snow that is perpetually on the mountains and rocks of Lebanon, ever leave running down, as it melceth, into my fields ? as God thereby intimating the care that he had of making a constant provision of water for the land of his people lying below that mount. Which though it feem not fo well to he here, no more than what concerning the next branch he suggesteth, yet may for fense feem to come home to the former; implying, that God, whom his people left to look after idols and ftrangers, was as a well-spring of water that never faileth, but runneth continually, either gushing out of some rock, or descending from mount Lebaplaces neer about it; whom yet this people left, to feek relief and refreshment where it was not to be found. So it paralleleth well with chap.2.13. & 17.13. And this way the most go, both Jews and others; but rending the words the former way. See Esay 1. 1. Howbeir, that conceit of a learned Commenter, that the initial letter of his name should be taken away, because it is one of the letters of Gods name, which he was not worthy to bear any part of, is frivolous and unfound : for neither was that initial letter in his name, or the notation of it, any letter of Gods name, being a formative onely of that verb, whereof that his name in part confifted; and not that one letter of Gods name alone, but the whole name of God, to wit. Jah, remaineth and appeareth ftill in this his name, notwithstanding, that detraction; the name ftill importing, one prepared, or established, by God: that which his fathers names, both the one and the other, do in the latter notion also import. Write pe this man childleffe! So is the word here used, taken, Gen.15.2. and so is it rendred, Lev.10.20,21. and essential Scripture, shee here, it is not found, the word in the original is decuned to signifie, a bare and saked, or a lettery and defeate one. See on Chap. 17.6, where a word from the fame root, and of the like notion is found. The ancient Greek here rendreth it a mai abdicated, or proferibed. But we need not swerve from the common acception of the word. It foundeth as if it were faid; Enter this man in the roll, or records of the royal race, a childleffe man. The question is onely, why he should be so termed. Some say, because he neither then had, nor was ever to have any issue: but remained childleffe to his dying day; as Mical 2. Sam 6.23. Howbeit, others rather understand it to be said of him, because none of his iffue vvere to fucceed him in the Kingdom, and none therefore of his potterty to be entred as upon record in the roll of the royal succession: for that he had issue, seemeth apparent, by the mention made of his feet before, vost 1.8 and hereafter again; as also by the genealogical relation, r. br. i, 3 17.8. where even of his sons are expectly named; of the first whereof, to veri a can be shared by the sons are expectly named; of the first whereof, to veri a can be shared his sons are expectly named; of the first whereof, to veri a can be shared his shared his named to share the shared his shared h the mention made of his feed before, veil. 18 and hereafter again; 1 Chr. 3, 16. Which, though it be not altogether improbable, but that Jeconiah might do, as Manasse had done before him, and that God, as he restored Manasses then again to his Kingdom, 2 Chr. 33. 12-15. So he might give Jeconiah favour in the fight of Evil-Merodae, and so encline his heart to enlarge him; according to that, Pfal. 106. 46. But, because of to this their fuppoint, we have no fure ground, we find in or have re-courfe to any fuch uncertainty for the clearing of this doubt; net-ther is there any necessity at all for us for do a fince that God himlest expressly here telleth, why he would have such a record as is here mentioned to be entred conce ning Jeconiah, to witnot because he should die without iffue ; but as a man that should he fuccessclesse in his reign, and with whom the royal dignity, in a manner, should die and expire.

A learned Writer supposeth it to be a continuation of the Prophets relation of what had been before delivered by him in the reign of Jeconiah, concerning the abules and corruptions that reigned among all forts in his time; but of this his conceit, there is no great probability. Howbeit the old Latine, and divers others of the best note, retaining the express term render the text: for because of a course that mourneds; that is, by reason of the curie of God upon our land, in such manner as soft-oweth, the land mourneth as Chapter 1s.4, and 1s.2. So, the curfe bath devoured the land, Elay 2s.6 and I suppose it to be as well the geneines, as she plainer since; or the curie for the curie will the geneines, as she plainer since; one of the curie the curie is the curie that the curie is the curie of the curie o though by reason of a curse the land mourn: as it he had said though manifest expressions of Gods displeasure be already upon us, and the land by means thereof feemeth to wear a mourning weed, as is apparent to the eye, yet it is full of abominable filthiness; and these wicked wretches still tell them, that all shall go well with them, Chap 6, 14, and 8, 11. and 14.13. I have dreamed] Or I have a prophetie, or mellage from God, revealed to me by dream, one of the wayes, whereby God, in ancient times, imparted his minde to his mellengers the Prophets,

V. 16. Him long fhall this be in the heart of the Prophets that prephefic hes? yea, they are Prophets of the deceit of their own heart Or . How long? an abrupt, but very passionate form : like that, Of Arow long? an adjuly, out very particular long, O Lord? wile thin forget me for ever? Plal. 13. L. as also that, Chap. 13.27, after how long yet? as if he had said, How long will it be ere they leave this course? are they resolved to make a perpetual practice of it? So I read the next words; Is it in the heart of thefe Prophets to be ever prophelying of lies, and prophelying the decit of their own heart? Is it in the heart (that is, is it their defire and delight? as, the Law of Grad it in his heart; that is, he defireth and delighteth in it, Pfal. 40. 8. and : 13. 1. or are they desperately bent upon it? as, the day of vengeance it in my heart; that is, I am fully refolved upon it, Efai 63.4.) of these rophers (as verf. 15. 25.) to be ever (a detect of the verb substantive: as, give Jerusalem a praise, for, make her to be matter of praife, Efai 62. 7. and Rom, 8, 29. he predestinated conformable, for, to be conformable; and he hath chosen rich in faith, and heirs, for, to be rub in faith, and to be heirs, Jam. 25. that, for ever, is supplied, as implied in the former how long? expressed. Thus rather, in my minde, then as fome great ones; Shudd there be a dream (to wit, a divine one fent from God) in the heart of these Prophers that Prophefie fulfhoods? that prophefie the deceit of their own heart? Or, yea, they prophefie the deceit of their own heart. But own nears: Ot, yea, they propage true executy there were nears, but a leave this to the judgement of others. Some continue these words with those enfuing; is it in the heart of these Prophets that prophets in Sec. Do they those, I say, to cause my people to forget my name, Sec. So, to have in the heart, and, to think, I should be all one:

As I Chris 3s. and this fementh not impediable, Novil to said of the V.27. Which think to caufe my people to forget my name, by their deams, while they tell every one to his neighbour, at their fathers have forget my name for Real.] Or, that devile (as the word is very fierquently used, Psal, 21.11. and 140 2,4. Chap. 11.19. Amos 6.5.) how to make my people forget my name (forget me and their duty to me and all regard to my Prophets that come in my name, and with meflages from me) by their dreams (their vain dotages, and lying devices, which they term dreams, verf. 25. as indeed they are no better, verf. 27.28.) which they tell one to another (to Chap. 22.8, the false Prophets to the people; as one from another, the false Prophets from the people, verf. 30, as men use to do their dreams, Judg 7.13) as their fathers (either their anceffors, or those false Prophets of Samaria, verf. 13. whom herein they imitate) forgat my name (as before, fo Chap.2.32.) by raal; by joyning themselves to him, and ferving him, instead of me, the true God, and their God , Chap. 2. 5,13. Judge 2. 11. So that those counterfeit Prophets, though they would not be counted Baals Prophets, as those Samaritans; but would be deemed the Prophets of the true God, yet carried men away from God, as well as those Prophets of Baal did, Thus those that pretend revelations from God, may prove no leffe dangerous in making men forgetfull of God, negleAfull of Gods Word,& regard effe of their duty unto God; from whom yet either being deluded themfelves, or on purpole to delude others they would be deemed to focak, than those that professe to deliver oracles from idols.

V. 30. Therefore behold, I am against the Prophets, faith the Lord, that stall my word every one from his neighbour.] Or, Rehold, the Prophets (as week as I am coming against (Chap. 21, 15.) thefe Prophets (as verse 15.) that fleal, or filch, my words (for the word is here plural) one from another, as Genefis 31.49. So verfe 27, one to another: Many frange Expositions are given of these words which I forbear to relate, confining my felf to those alone, that seem to carry some thew of probability with them: the Jewith Doctours, whom some of ours also follow, understand of such of them, as did make use of those Prophecies, which they heard from Gods messengers, but turned them another way, and applied them to other purposes: they instance in Hananiah, (who say they) hearing Jeremiah say, I will breake the bow of Elan, Chapter, 49. 57. made use thereof, and applied to Babylon, what he had said of Elam; faying, I will breake the youke of the King of Rabel Chapter 28, 2. and the better to back this abusive application, should add, if God would thus break the might of the Elamites, then of the Chaldees also under whom they served, Esay 12, 6. Others, going also much the same way, expound it of the terms borrowed from Gods Prophers; which were for ife with them, Thus faith the Lord, and the Lord hath faid it, verfe 17, 31, Others, that by their wiles and delutions, they withdraw the people from giving any credit to Gods mellages, brought to them by his Prophets, and to fole away the authority of Gods Word, and peoples affections thereunto, as Abfolomby his fauning flutteries did the hearts of Davids subjects from him and his government, 2 Samuel, 15, 6. Others, of their conspiring together to back one another, in their false Prophesies, which yet they pretended to be Gods words, and fuch melliges as they had ecceived from him; those that propound and after this fence, rej of those former Expositions that have reference to Gals Prophers, whom they should either imitate or undetermine, because it is said, each one from his friend, fellow, or familiar; in which manner the Holy Ghoft would not foeak of the true Prophets, as if any fach relation and communion were between them and these counterfeits : but not to insift on that which might be hereunto returned, that a man and his neighbour, whom a dream is with : an elegant red and ancy, as in the next | brother, friend, fellow, or familiar, is in the Holy language no more than one and another : and one from another, here may well be no other, than the falle Prophets from the people; as me to another, the falle Prophets to the people their followers, v erfe 27 against this Exposition may well be objected, that my words here,. answerable to what went before, where they are opposed to the dreams, dotages, devices and deceits of the counterfeit Prophets, v. 28 29, cannot fo fiely be understood of them, or applyed unto them, as by this interpretation they are. Others therefore understand them of concealing from Gods people such necessary truths, as they ought to have delivered unto them, and have acquainted them withall : to which purpose they are charged not to have endeavoured, as they should have done, to reclaim people from their wicked courses, v. 22, that which the Scribes seem charged with, Luk, 11.72. and the Apostle purgeth himself of Acts 20.27. But 1 conceive rather the meaing to be, that by their cunning fetches and flatteries, they filched out of peoples hearts those words or messages of God, which by his Prophets had been delivered unto them, and they had sometime seemd to heed and regard, year to put in execution as our Saviour faith, that the Devil comes and fleateth the feed of the word out of the hearts of fome, with whom it hath been fown Matt, 13,19. Luke 8, 12, that which comes fomewhat near to that before, of infringing of the credit and authority of Gods Word. An instance whereof we may see in that revolt, in likely hood by the delusions of these sale Prophets protured, from that which by Jeremies Sermons they had been formerly that use their tonguer] The word here used is by divers diversly taken, and that among the Jewish Criticks themselves. Some of them expound it, as the word in its native, proper, and most usual from giveth it, that ufe it, or make ufe of it. But this others of them deeming too flender, would have it rendred, that teach, or learn, or enure, (for the word of teaching, or learning, is oft fo taken, See or learned their tongue to tell lies; the word is singular, thought or learned their tongue is still lite: the word is fingulas, though collectively taken both here and there) for the world of keing, fay they, is used of teathing or learning: a nad we use indeed the term of learning formetine promission global possibility as well as or being taught: but whether the word of taking (which we use also of learning, firstly) and property for termes) be ever useful in Helicew for teaching, I much doubt: though Dalting, or that which is caught, lath thence a denomination in all of portugal. because taken and received by the Sch.lar. Some of them keeping to the same root and notion, but with some restriction, render it, that sweeten their tongue. for, say they, the word of dollrine thence derived, fignifies properly, a sweet, pleasant, plausible, or delightful delirine, Prov. 4.2. and 16 21. So it should fignifie that which the Greeks call, an acceptable fperch, or a fpeech worthy of acceptante, Luke 4. 19. 1 Tim. 1, 15. and 2. 3. but in a more general sense seemeth Dodrine so termed; because as it is given out, or delivered by the teacher: Prov 4 1. and 9. 9, so it is taken and re-ceived from him by the learner: and the same exception that was taken to the former interpretation, is of force against this also, taken to the former interpretation, is of to Ce against tints also, Others therefore render it, but if i, or of main their targut: Etching the word from another root that 16 fignifies, by transposition of the radical. the date of this prophecy, compared together with that next before, Chap. 24. and the next following, Chap. 26, that appeareth, which formerly hath been observed, Chap. 22, that the Prophecies, or sermons, in this book recorded are not disposed, or ranked, according to the precise order of time wherein they were delivered. that foregoing, in time coming after this; and that following, some time before it that was the first year of Nebuchadrezzar King of "abylon.] Or, white was the demonstrative for the relative. But hence some doubt ariseth concerning the composure of the first year of Nebuchadrez zar with the fourth of Jehojakim : whereas Dan, 1, 1. it is faid that in the third year of Jehojak ms reign Nebuchadnezzar came to Jerusalem, besieged and took it. To which answer is given by fome, that the third year mentioned in Daniel, is not the third year of tehojakims reign, but the third year of the Sabbatical courfe ; the like whereunto they suppose to be found, Chap. 28. 1. Bur whatfoever may be faid of this latter place, whereof further when we come to it, that of Daniel feems to exprelle for the year of Jehoj kims reign, that it cannot be so avoided. And others rather answer, that the first year of Nebuchadnezzars absolute reign, wherein he reigned after his fathers deceafe, concurred (as it oft falleth out) partly with the latter part of Tehojakims third year, and partly with the former part of his fourth, and that it may well be therefore, that in the latter part of Jeho jakims third year, he might advance toward Jerufalem, or arrive and fit down the e, the might advance toward returner, or acrive and it down the estand fin prize it in the beginning of his fourth. So Don Joseph upon Daniel. For Jehojakim was fet up by Pharaoh-Nechol. in in the room of Jehoachaz his brother, 2 King. 23, 34. but Nebu-chadnezzar having abandoned the power of Pharaoh in those parts . 2 King, 25, 7. about this third and fourth of Jehojakims reign came to Jerusalem, took the citie, and took away divers choice youths of the bloud royal to be trained up for attendance on him in his court at Babylon. Dan 1,3, yet left Jehojakim enjoying the crown and Kingdom ftill, onely holding now from him as from Nechoh he did formerly; untill about three years after, when finding difloyalty in him, he returned again, took him captive, and carried him to Babylon, 2 King, 2-7, 12. 2 Chr. 3-6.6. Ezek, 19-9. See the like to this, Chap 52. 18. For Joseph the Jew, with those that follow him, are fac out of the way, who in his Jewish aniquities, 1.10, c.7, writeth, that this first invation of Jud a by Nebuchadnez zar, was in the fourth year of his reign, and the eighth of Jehojakims; which the calculations of the facred records do evidently refel. Nor shall we need to have recourse to that which a learned Writer fuggesteth, to wit, that in Daniel the words may be rendred, After the third year of Iehojakims reign; because the particle there used doth so signific, Exod. 2-13, and Num. 28. 26 Since that fuch use of it in these computations is unusual; and the other way is familiar.

feverity years] The term and flint of the Jewish captivity , together with the fervitude of those other neighbouring nations, unde the Chaldean Monarchy, is here p ecifely fet down, as for the further confirmation of the touth of this prophetic, fo more especially for the better support of the faithfull during the time of their captivity, and neurifing in them an hopefull expectation of their undoubted deliverance, when that term of years thould be expired, Dan. 9 3. Concerning the determination whereof, the agreement feems to be more general, the Holy Shoft having in the fa e ed (co) ds exprefly fixed it upon the first year of Cyrus his abfolute reign, 2 Chr. 36.22. Eze, t. t. But abo it the time, or te m frem which those years commence is doubt made by divers. For fome begin them at the date of this prefent prophetie, from the fourth year of Jehojakims reign, verf t, about which time N.buchadnezza: having given a great overthrow unto Pharaoh Necho, King of Egypt, Chap 46,2, did afterward allo upon this oc-casion invade Tudea APharaoh Necho had gone to recover Carchemith from the King of Afly ia, 2 King 23 29 and 2 Chr.35.20. and having by the way flain Jossah in fight, upon his return from thence entring upon Judea, he put down Jehoachaz, whom the people had made King in his fathers room, and set up Jehojak im, his brother, in his flead, 2 King. 33. 29,30,33,34. but Nebuchadnezzar having me: with the Egyptian , and given him the forcmentioned over throw, ftruck into Judea, came to Jerufalem,took it, as may feem, without any notable refiftance, and compelled Jehojakim to r nounce his tenure from the crown of Egypt, and to ho'd it, which Jehojakim was content to do, from him, 2 King. 24. I. And from this furprifal of Jerusalem, in Jehojakims third and fourth year, verf. t Dan t. t. do divers writers make thele feventy years to commence. But howfoever it be true indeed that at that time the Chaldean gave order to some of his Ministers to bring with him unto Bibylon fome young fliplings of the bloud-royal and princely alliance; to be trained up for his fervice and attendance in his Court there, whereof Daniel was one, Dan. 1.34. yet neither did he then either carry away captive, or depole Jeho jakim, who continued his reign feven years after that, 2 Kings 23. 36. 2 thr 36.5. neither is there mention in the facied records, either of any great devastation at that time made in the land, or of any confiderable number, that should then be carried away captive. Others therefore choose rather to fix it at the eleventh year of Zedekiah; at which time that kingdom and flate feemed to draw its laft breath, Lam.4.20. for then was the citie not onely furprifed and facked, but tegether with the Temple, and the Kings Palace, a great part of it hunt down, the flate royal dif-folved, and a more general deportation of the people of the land then had at any time been before, 2 king. 25.4.21. 2 Chr. 36.1720 Chap. 7: 5-30. This further to confirm, they alleadge that laying 2 Chr. 36.20,21. that those which had escaped the sword, were carried away to Babylon, where they were fervants to him (to wir, Nebuchadnezzar) and his fons, until the reign of the Kingdom wite, viewuch annex x y and his sois, while the mouth of Jetemiah, of Petila is is sliftly the wind of the Lrxt by the mouth of Jetemiah, until the land had enjoyed her Nabhaths i for for so long as she lay deflate, she kept Sabhath, until the second years were spillfield. But hereumen is answere given, the end, or uttermost ten m of the land, where the same properties and the same spillfield. fabbatifing after it began to ly waste is there specified, and it is said onely to have sabbatised so long as it so lay waste that neither is mention made of the beginning of those seventy years, nor that the land lay in that manner waste that whole seventy years time, from that year commencing : and the like they finde in the fame Chapter, where it is faid of Jehojacin, that he reigned three moneths and ten dayes, and when the year came about, or expired, Nebuchadnezzar fent and brought him to Labylin, 2 Chr. 36 9, 10. yet is not the meaning, that he reigned an entire year; but that when that year went out, the three last moneths whereof onely with a few dayes over he reigned, this his furpriful fell out. Others there fore laftly, with whom I concur, begin them at the captivity of Jeconiah, or Jehojacin, Chap. 21 24 -- 26. at what time Ne-buchadnezzar in the eighth year of his reign took him prifoner, having fate little above three moneths in the royal feat, together with his mother, his Princes, and his officers, and carried them away with him to Babylen; and besides them all the Inhabitants of Te rufalem, and all the men of might, or valour in the land, fome feven thousand in number, and all the artificers, and smiths, or masons, a thouland, and all that were firing and fit for war, ten thouland in all: leaving none fave of the poorest fore of people behinde, 2 King, 24.8 ---- 16. And this beginning of the feventy years captivicy we have both from Jeremy and Ezekiel: for Jeremy himfelf, the fittest and best able to fix the head of this account, writing unto those that were in captivity at Babylon , being carried thither with Jecontah, in the time of Zedekiahs reign, Chap. 29. 1, 2, 3. telleth them - xprefly, that when as feventy years should be accomplifhed, God would wifit them, and bring them back to their own priper, Osa investigation, Chaptey D. o. as allo, lively 4. 1. the captivity is faid to have begin eleven years before the facking of the citic under Zedikiah; for the furteenth year after the facking of the citic, is faid expectly to be the twenty and fifth year of their captivity: And again, t e fir't tidings are faid to have been brought unto him abiding among the captives at Babylon, of the furprifal of the citie, by one that had escaped thence, in the twelfth year of their caprivity, Chap 33. . t. which cometh up just to Jeconiahs deportation, the ele en years of Zadekiahs reign coming between, 2 King, 14.18. and 25.2 --- 4. whereby it evidently appeareth, that the years of their captivity were reckoned, neither from the fourth of Jehojikim, nor from the eleventh of Zedekiah, but between them both, from the deportation of the people together with Jehojacin, or Jeconiah.

Nor can I accord with those, who would have this prophefic to be of a diverte date from the for-mer t the feries of the context, verf. 15 is freming not well to admit it : and with those much lelle, who would have it spoken in a prophetical strain, in the time present, as of a thing to come, but as fure to be, as if it were already done, and to be feen , even as prefent ; because I no where meet with this form so used. Others suppose that this clause bath relation not to the time when the prophefic was first uttered; but the time when it was afterward penned and published in writing, being made up in one volume together with the rest of his prophecies; which yet to me feems no more probable than the former. V. 20. And all the mingled people;] Concerning the term here used, Interpreters much differ; the word is used sometime for a uted, interpreters much other the word is treat former for a mixture of persons, or people, a promifcuous multitude, Chap, 50, 37, and with the e onely lengthened in the same notion, Exod 12, 38, N.th. 13, 3, to which purpose one understand it here. So some of the Jewith Doctors, affi ming hereby to be understood a mixture of people, confifting of divers nations, that were embodied to-gether: but who in particular, or where abiding, they tell us not, But fome others deem it to have reference to the nations enfuing, as generally comprehending the people, in this verse and the next, by name more particularly there recited; and here fo termed, becaule, fay they, their borders and confines were intermixed the one with the other. Others, going the same way for notion of the te:m. un lerstand it, as having reference to the verse before-going; of fuch people as were mingled in their places of habitation with the Egyptians, or bordered near upon them, and were in confederacy with them: to which purpose the Chaldee Paraphrast expressed to import auxiliaries; which may feem therefore to take in the Cushites, who are oft mentioned as borderers upon Egypt. See Efai 18, 1, confederates with it, and afliffants to it, Elar 20.4. In the beginning of the reign of Jebofakim, the some of Jebofakim, the some of Jebofakim, the some of Jebofakim, may seem to choose that recorded, Chap. 25, and to have been near of the same time with the story related, chap. 26, for that the several prophecies, or sermons are not in this bear. entred and ranked according to the exact order of time, wherein they were delivered, hath been before shewed on chap, 22.11. And about the date of this there is among Interpreters fome difagreement : the ground whereof doth from hence arife. There is a charge here faid to come to the Propher in the beginning of the reign of Jehojakim, for the making of bonds and yokes to be ren-dred to the Embassadours of ferrein States in the rign of Zedekiah: there being eleven years between the beginning of the reign of the one, and of the other; for so many years did Jehojakim reign, and Jehojacin his ion some sew moneths after him before Zede kiah, 2 Kings 23,36. & 24.8.17 This difficulty to affoil fome, both of the fewith Writers, and other, fay, that this prophecy was revealed to Jeremy in the first year of Jeho jakims reign, three year before Nebuchadnezzar came to the Ghaldean crown upon his fathers decease, Dan. 1, 1, but that he was to conceal it, and not to publish it, nor put in execution the thing it self enjoyned, untill eleven year after in the reign of Zedeliah. Others, that he was prefently to make thefe bonds, and to wear them for eleven year, at leaft.together, and then to fend them, as hereafter abroad. But neither do the former feem to give any good reason why a prophecy of this nature should be so long concealed and smoothered: nor doth that feem to carry any flew of probability with it, which the latter have, that the Pophet flould go up and down into Egypl Or, even into Egypt : 25, God will same, even God, into Egypl Or, even into Egypt : 25, God will same, even God, El y 35, 4. The repetition is of force: implying, as the Kings malicious disposition; who would fend to far after Gods Prophet force who take this prophecy to be of a lower date, and to have been delivered to the control of the

But neither shew they how this passage can be fixed handsomely to the fore passed relation: nor do those instances they bring from Exod. 6. 10, 29. help any whit to clear the context from an abrupt tearing of this verie, concluded with faring, from the next verie, whereang or now renes communed with paring, from the next vertexwhere-nith change, or injunction is expertled, because it they are not the expertle words of God, but of the Prophet rather, I peaking from God; and yet why nor of God himself, putting words into the Prophet mouth, or (peaking of himself in the third perion, as he oft doth? See chap, 25.31, 33 fome place would be produced, where the word, (aging, thutteth up a fentence, without any speech, or charge at all ensuing. Other therefore of those that go this latter way, say that Zedekiah is here called Jehojakim, and that Philips way in your Levenan is necessite yeno janin, and that field judges and the state of this there is neither any proof, nor good probability. And it was (as Chapter 20.3.) in that year, to wit, before mentioned, Chapter 27. 1. that, for, the fame ; as Chapter 27. 8. and fo hereafter verse 17. So that this prophecy seemeth to bear date with the former, both by the common title, and the subject matter of either. That which much confirmeth the opinion of those, who suppose that Jeho jakim there named, was at first, and should be in the fourth year,] Here we meet with a new knot, that feem . eth near as difficult, and as hard to unlofe, as that other, Chap, 27. I. to wit, how the pallage here reported and recorded. (hould be fail to have fallen out in the beginning of Zedekiahs reign, and yet in his fourth year; the one feeming to crofle the other. This feeming breach to make up, fome make a rent in the context: for as before, they tore off the first verse of Chapter 27. to annex it as before, they tore off the first verse of Chapter 27, to annex it to Chapter 5. So heter they rent from this Chapter, the foregoing words of this verse, and annexe them to Chapter 39. Expounding the words 5. Mad it came to pass for the cleared of my speaking on this wise to the King and his Princes, the Priests and his people, chap. 26. 11,16.) the sum year in the beginning of the reign 2 (zedesjab.) But this conceil of the Author thereof hath been deemed so uncounty, that I find not any other beddes himself thereinte concur with him. Howsher, some other beside himself thereinte concur with him. Howbeit, some of ours, though they tear not this branch of from the context enof ours, though they can not then the transfer on the contexten-ling, yet they suppose it to have reference by way of transsition, unto what had been before related, thus rendring the words, Now when that (before mentioned) had been in that year, and in the ginning of the reign of Zedekiah; in the fourth year, that which now what the like conceit the same Authors have of another place, though not parallel to this, 1 Sam. 13.1. whereof elfewhere. But besides that, this giveth us a strained syntax, with needlesse infertions, nor suiteth well with the stops in the Text. It seemeth thereby prefumed, that four years together the Prophet did wear a yoke on his neck, which Hananiah should now break; a thing nothing probable, that either the one should so long wear it, or the other have the patience to endure the light of it fo long worn. The Jewish Doctors out of their Talmudists tell us, that Nebuchadnezzar, when Zedekiah went to Babylon in the fourth year after nezzar, when Zedekiah went to Babylon in the fourth year after the captivity of Jeconiah, chap: 1, 9, gave him a kind of Lieve-tenenant-libj under him over those five Kingdoms mentioned, chap, 37, 3, and that this therefore is here termed the beginning of his Kingdom's but of that place before, and of the other when we come to it for of the Story it left there is no record produced, not feems it occurry with it any great probability at hough former of our I feem to warp onewhat this way. Others paffing by these improbable relations, not admitting fuch forced breaches as the former fort feem to make in the context, suppose that the words, as the be family conceived, may well fland coetter, without any they be simply conceived, may well stand together, without any such disagreement as they are supposed to import. The fourth fuch disgreement as they are supposed to import. The furth year of Zedekish, fay they, may not unfully be termed the beginning of hit reign: for dividing his reign, being eleven years in all; a Kings 24, 18, as we life to doe other things into three parts, the beginning, the middle, and the end; of those eleven years, the four first, or three first with the part of the fourth, may yell go for the beginning; the fix following for the middle; and the two last, in which his State was invaded and ruined, may well be reckoned for the end. But this, though carrying better flew of probability with it, than any of the former, yet is not deemed fatisfactory by divers: Nor indeed will the like I suppose be easily produced, where somewhat that fell out in the fourth year. of a reign of not above eleven, if so much entire in all, should be said to be done, in the beginning of it. And some other therefore lastly, both of the Jewish Writers and ours, suppose the sourth year here mentioned to be not the fourth year of Zedekiahs reign; neither is it fo faid, but the fourth year of the Sabbatical course or circle : or the fourth year after the feventh years reft, Levicious 25, 4, and the first of his reign. This some of ours seek to back with the like, Daniel 1. 1, as they there expounded the third. But the places are not parallel. See before on chapter 25. 1. Howbeit, to this I here encline; because the Jewish Writers, and our best Chronologers do herein agree, that the year wherein the city was taken, the l'emple burnt, and Zedekiah captived, being the eleraken, the tempte outrit, and zeneral reperted, being the venth and laft of his reign, was a Sabbatical year; fome hints whereof they suppose to be given, 2 Chronicles 36. 11. and shap 34.9,1 to whereof when we come to it: but they ground this their affertion principally upon the Jubilee calculations: and some of those who are deemed most exact in the computation of times, affirm that year to be the fourth Sabbatical year of the eighteenth Jubilce. Now his first year being the fourth of the seventh, the seventh will begin in his third, and the seventh after that in his tenth, and expire with his reign in the eleventh: and this also fome confirm from Ezekiel 19. 17. where the twenty and feventh year mentioned, can hardly be deemed any other, than of the Juyear mentioned, can narrally be decented any other, than of the ful-bilee then current; and that being the tenth year of Jechonias captivity, and Zedekiahs reign; as from the first veile of that Chapter is observed: he next after it being Zedekiahs last, must of necessity be the twenty eighth, and consequently the Sabbati-

Deut. 29.3,4. Ezek, 11.13, 15, John 12. 37. The Jewish Do-ftors here the us needless knots, and untie them again with ground-les tales. They make question, how Hananiah died that year, when as the feventh moneth began the next year according to the civil account : and this difficulty, indeed none, to take away, they tell us, (the Chaldee Paraphraft hinting to them somewhat to that purpose) that he died indeed on the last day on the fixth moneth at Even, but gave in charge to his people, to conceal his death till the beginning of the seventh moneth, to make Jeremy a liar. But what need these sictions, when as the Prophets words are plain enough, and were true, what month fover he should die in. if he died within a twelvemoneth after that denunciation : and much mor , if he died ere the year then running were expired, according to either account, civil or facred: this latter the rather; because the date of Prophecies, and of this, among the reft, were usually reckoned according to it. Besides, that this fabulous relation directly croffeth the Text , which faith, express, that he died in the feventh moneth.

But this forced exposition they seem to have pitcht upon, in regard of that word, the termination whereof commonly importeth motion to a place, rather than of abode in it : but that scruple may easily be removed, rather train or about that trainer may sain; so extinct up for divers places may be produced, wherein words so formed, a reused in this latter notion: as here, to Rebylon, sor, in Rebylon: so, to teach the earth, for, on the earth, Gen. 28.12, and, to the altar, for, on the earth, Gen. 28.12, and, to the altar, for, on the earth, Gen. 28.12, and, to the altar, for, on the earth, Gen. 28.12, and, to the altar, for, on the earth, Gen. 28.12, and, to the altar, for, on the earth, Gen. 28.12, and, to the altar, for, on the earth, Gen. 28.12, and, to the altar, for, on the earth, Gen. 28.12, and, to the altar, for, on the earth, Gen. 28.12, and, to the altar, for, on the earth, Gen. 28.12, and, to the earth, the altar, Exod. 29.13,16, Lev. 16.25, and, to the North, for, in the Noth, Chap. 46.6, 10, as it is afterward there expounded: and this cleared, there is nothing left, that may perswade much lesse enforce us, to depart from the received interpretation of the place. See further on ver, 16. Because some among you are over-prone to heed these counterfeits, to wit, Ahab, Zedekiah, and Shemajah the dreamer, ver. 21.24. hear how far it shall be from that which they would make you believe concerning the diffolution of your captivity, and your speedy return into your countrey; that those who remain yet there at liberty, shall within a short time be transported and brought over unto you, after they have sustained much misery at home, ver. 17.18.

V. 16. Know that thus faith the Lord, This fupply, I suppose. is needleffe. The particle that beginneth the verfe is in the original of various use, and the old Latine, which many herein follow, renders it, Because, or, For: which some thus knit on to the for-mer relation; as if the Prophet had said, I have told you what God saith, but you listen to other Prophets who have brought you to Babylon, and are so far from furthering your delivery thence, that they would rather help to bring you thither, if you thence, that they would rather neip to Dring you thence; if you were at liberry in your own countrey; for thus faith the Lord concerning those that yet remain there. And this coherence would do very well, if the words of the foregoing verse would admit the sense here given them; which I see not how it conseven by any force, be wrung from them ; and for that which feemeth to have put these also upon such tentering and torturing of the Text, enough hath been faid before. The particle being rendred, Therefore; Therefore thus faith the Lord; as answering to that, Because ye say, verse 15, the context will run on fairly and clearly, without need of help from any either fuperflious fupply; g S

This latter part of the Chapter containeth a relation of a latter date than the former : in likely hood after the return of those messengers, mentioned verse 3. back from Babylon, concerning Shemajah, who had given information by letters from thence, of that which Jeremy had written unto his countreymen at Babylon; with an heavy doom by God passed upon him for the fame,

V. 6 The Lord hath made thee Priest in the stead of Jewjada the Priefs, that ye fould be efficient in the hufe of the Lord, for every one that it mad and maketh himfelf a Prophet, that theu floudfly put him prima and in the flocky.] Of this Jehojada, by whole example this flattering parafite would encite Zephaniah, as one enduced with his spirit of zeal for Gods glory and the good of his house, to proceed with all severity and rigor against Gods own Minister & messenger for no other matter than the free and faithfull delivery of his Masters message, see 2 Kings 11. and 12. Thus there is no act so injurious, or impious, but that wicked wretches and false Prophets will not onely attempt it against such as out of conscience and duty to God either crosse and oppose them, or resule to comply with them in their corrupt couries and carriages; but colour it al-fo with fome specious pretence of piety and zeal for Gods glorie. See Ess 66.5, Joh. 16.2, and 19.7.

And one of the Jewish Doctors feems to go somewhat this way, though rendring the word rather for healing, or cure, yet thus expounding the text, There is none that can give any judgement, or passe any drain, concerning help, or healing that may be had for thine butt, they say all, there is no cure, no help for it: for he supposeth the words following to be conceived as the speech of those that had considered of her estate, as not unwilling to fleed her, and recover her, if they could, not unlike that of Babels friends and afliftants, chap. 51. 9 But for the word it felf I encline still to the former sense of comercision, or trushing. But because there is a two fold crushing; there is a crushing of the a bridle, that cometch by an excellive prefilure, or over-hard compression of the flesh, rather than a wound, or ulcer, as most inconfently reader it, sometime the one, and sometime the other; but here a crushing in the latter notion, as tending to help an healing. here a suffinig in the latter notion, as tending to help an healing. Howfoever we take it, There is in the Text, a pallage from one fort of cure, or help to another; from a judiciary to a chiturgical courle, some kinds of cure being intended in either, of a mans body in the one, of his state in the other. Yet an Interpreter of prime note here distinguished the terms, as containing several notions, thus distinctly delivered, There is none that decides the Cause. there is no medicine, or cure unto healing for thee : which might be adrecre no measures, or one unso neame jor thet which might be admitted, if the paulies in the original were not directly against it, I rather accord with another learned Writer, who thus paraphrafich this paffige, I Thy wound is to great and thy fore log rievous, that it paffeth the skill of any Physician to cell what may be done oit, or to prefer the any courte for the minaring and handling one oit, or to prefer the any courte for the minaring and handling of it, whereby any hope of cure may be had : one way of dealing with an hure being put for all ; clofing up, as he supposeth , crufhing cut, as I conceive, thou half no bealing medicines] For the lense of this place in ge-neral, there is no great disagreement, to wit, that there is in this passage an intimation of some incurable hurt, of an irrecoverable' condition: But about both the right construction of the Text, and the genuine notion of the words here used, there is no small diffethe genuine notion of the words here used, there is no small difference, now whom to most difficulty; the former word coming from a root that significe to sure, or beat; (whence also one that comethe very near to it, for bedning, or beath), Prov. 3, 8), it by forme rendered medicines, as here, lo chap, 46.11. though by others there also, earing, counties of sure; for the word is plural; yea, some foreder it, Ezek, 30, 21. who yet render it the other way here; and as I conceive. I mould rather have 60 one there for the words as foresting of a broling arm, it shall not be bound up, to give curings, or healings; at hat, is, any degree, or helps of sure, or healing at all; as those plurals are also in an extenuating notion itseld, whereof see on Esia; 71.1, for or cenderit; as they chered of, the last not be due up with medicines put in, to me security a very control of the forest control of the c over-harsh. But the old Latine (for the Greek runs here at random, and the Chaldee is as ambiguous as the Hebrew) rendreth it curings or courses of cure: which though it may seem not to differ much from medicines; yet it is of a larger extent than that term, as much from medicines; yet k is of a larger extent than that term, As we commonly use it: and s suppose this to be the proper sense. But the latter word hard more difficulty in it; it cometh of a word that significates of sense, or go so so, and its used sometimes for a treash, or a water-course; whereof see on Elai 7.3. but being applied, as here, and chape, 4.11. to matter of cure, what it should signific it guestionable. Some rendes it a shigher both here and there; which frould be so called, because it goeth up upon, and is applied unto, the hurt, or ill-affected place for its case, or cure: but other render it much after the fame manner with the former term , health , or healing; supposing it, some of them, to be so termed from a word that signifies to praise, or avail; because where cure is efficacious, it is available for health; but the form of the word will hardly admit that deduction; though one of the Jewith Masters here seem to allow of it. But others rather therefore from the root beforeto allow 01 it. Du offers father therefore from incroore personal mentioned, because in curring or healing of a wound, or fore, where the course used taketh effect, the slich graveth up, and either the skin. or some skar is drawn over the place, where the wound, or fore, before was whence that phrase frequently used wound, or fore, perfore was a whence that pinale frequently fined in cales of that kinde, sure, or healing, is gone up: as Chap, 8, 22, and I will make cure, or healing, to go up, or to come unto the eyecf. 17, and chap, 33, 6, whereof more hereafter: though cure, or healing may be so termed, either in regard of the imposition of plaisters, or the like upon the place ill affected ; or from the procuration and bringing of ease and re-overy thereunto : and this latter more general sense the word seemeth to have. But concerning the con-Aruction of the two words here used, a new controversie arifeth for fome joyn them in regiment together, as the one governing the tor some pyin tiem in regiment cogeties, as the one governing the other; and they ender them earing so eating complex, of altenfans, to wit, of fieth, or skin; that is, by they, complex of core controlling a tyler. Others, complex or comment complex of pulling; that is, a wall-able for recovery; and so after one of the lewith Criticis, the old takine rendersh it. But others render the words apart; fome in way of apposition, curfes of cure, plaster there is none at all for thee; or none at all shall avail the: : fome in way of conjunction supplyor more at all insil avail thee: come in way of conjunction lupply-ing the copulative, of wanting as Fall 31.13, Hab. 3.11. rendring the words, curing: (that is courses of cure) and healing (or, means used for recovery) three in more for three. So one of the lewith Commencers, who also affirment both words in effect to fignife the fame; and that the fame thing is in divers terms expressed to make the fentence the more vigorous whom the rather I concur with, because I finde the very like, in some fort the same, the co-pulative being there supplied, in a parallel place, where God promileth to do that for his people, which by humane help is here intimated not to have been feacible, I will cause to ascend, or, bring, to her (this citie and flate) healing, or health, (a word aniwering to the latter here) and cure: a word from the fame root with the for-

V. 17. For I will restore health unto thee into thee. The word V. 17. For I will reflore nealing know thee 1 steel. I will cause health, or, healing to come up to thee, or, come unto thee. The word here used some render a shaller; and, lay some of them, properly a long plasser, so called from the length of it; because the word oria long papier, to extract from one regime of it, so examine the word originally hath a notion of length, or; prelongation; tendred long chap, 29,18, and lengthening, Dan 4, 27, and fo the form should have reference to the putting of a plasfer on or over the hute, 20 pained part, fully proportionable to the wond of fore. Some other would have it to fignific a skar : and fo fhould it have relaother would have it to figure a syar; and to intotal it have relation to the skinning of a wound, or ulcer, which, where it hath been deep, is feldome done without fome skar. So they say it is used in the Chaldee tongue, and in the Writings of the Rabbines: then in the Chalter tongue, and in the virtuings of the Addunct; for which yet I fee no clear place produced out of either: for that of the Chaldes, Pfal. 147. 3, to this purpose alledged by more than one of them, is altogether as ambiguous, as the word it felt is intelled. Helpew, Thus taken here, it should be as if he had laid, 1 will bring a the moon, or, over thy wound: and such a notion of is here would rather blemish, than commend Gods work, who in healing is not wont to leave skars behind, but to make a full and fair cure of what he undertaketh to heal, and in that tenour his promifes of restitution are wont to run. See Esay 54.4. 14. & 60. Be-fides that, in Esay 58. 8. torender the word either of these wayes, ndes that, in May 50. 5. to tenuet the mout clinic or their wars, the plaffer, or , the skar, shall speedly spring forth, were palpably to wrong the text. I tee no reason, therefore, why we should recede from the signification of the word, as having a notion of health, and healing, in it, and being fo commonly received; which if it be supposed to arise from that root, as it fignifieth to lengthen or, to be long: health; or, healing, may be for termed 3 because it is forming stage in coming, and long looked for, before it come. We have a proverb, that fixehing feomes on boyle-back, but goes a smay on foot; intimating the fuddennelle of falling into mala. les, segarther with the flownelle of receivity out of them; but it may rather there with the flownelle of receivity out of them; but it may rather have its ground from another notion, that the fame root hath in nave its gound from anoner notion, that the same root nath in the Chaldec, to wi, of expedition, and bope, Pfal. 147. 11. So that the meaning is no more at it the fame place is implied. So that the meaning is no more than this, I will bring braith, or, brailing to these; or, caufe it to come more there and it is not unworthy our observation, that the fame from the and all of wall, that brailing is breaght, or tasked to fame from the call of the all, that brailing is breaght, or tasked to come to them, when they are repaired, Neh. 4.7. and healing. or, health, is faid to come to a bufinesse, when it is brought to a good issue,

The particle times remuce, the words should import a reason, why God would the rather be induced to help and heal his Sion, to wir, thereby really to check and controll that conceit, that her advertagies had of her, that she was a meer abject and out-cast, one that God had utterly cast off and abandoned, one that neither God, nor Man, regarded. And it is true, indeed, that the infolent infultations of profane wretches over Gods people in times of their dejection and distresse, is a motive some forms to induce God the rather to shew mercy unto them in delivering and raising them up again. But I suppose the particle bath rather to fixed mercy and would be rendred although: as Gen. 8 31. Josh. 17, 18. for who is this that engaged his heart to approach unto me ? Saith the Lord, This clause is very difficult, and interpreters are much divided about it: those, I mean, that take notice of it; for many of them let it pass without any regard had of it. Those that take special notice of it, some of them expound it of Christ, but diversly: fome in way of admiration of his dignity and excellency. For who is this (that is , how excellent a person is he (that hath given his hours (that is, his foul) fy a pawn, or, pledge, or, engagemen , to proture accesses to me? Elay 53.7.10. Heb.7.22. Others in way of appropriation, and exclusion of all others, who but he hath engaged, or can engage? who can engage his heart to approach unto God, in that manner, as Christ did? I Tim.z. 5. or, as others, who dare in this manner offer to approach unto God, or, take upon him the office of manner orier to appraise nurs use, or, take upon nim the office of mediating between God and man; unless he be by God himfelf called and affigned thereunto? Heb. 5, 4, But others, not a few, apply it to Gods people; whom I rather concur with: and thefe go again two wayes. For some would have it spoken in way of admiration, as intimating the paucity of thole at present, that did apply themselves to draw near nnto God; and they render the words, For who is he that engageth his heart to approach unto me? So it should be like that, Elay 533 . Who believeth our report? that is, few or none: and Elay 64.7. there is none that stirreth up himself to take hold on thee. Others, in way of confi mation, as rendring a reason, why he had said he would make them to approach, that they might come near to him; to wit, because none could do it of himself, come near to him; to wit, becaule none could do it of himfelf, Cant. t.a. V. 23. Echold the whirl-wind of the Lord goeth forth with fury See before on chap. 23.19, where the fame denunciation in effect is found : the only matter of doubt is here concerning the persons against whom it is denounced. It was there denounced against the wicked among Gods people, and the falle Prophets by whom they were feduced: and so would some have it to be here; as foretelling what shall befall the obstinate wicked among them, that kept aloof from God cither in heart, or in life, or in both, Chap. 12. notwithflanding the gracious goodnesse of God exhibited and made good unto those that sincerely drew near unto him, verfe 21, which they should have no share in, but should taste deeply of his weath. a continuing whirl-wind] Because the old Latine hath two feve ral terms here, a whol-wind, and a tempest, or storm; some Popish Writers stand descanting upon and distinguishing of them; but to no purpose; for the Hebrew word is in either member the same, saye that it is of a masculine forme in this latter, of a seminine in the former : (as the like , Efay 3.1.) on. 2.1,10. But of the attribut given to it, there is some question; for some render it, griewoulf, cutting, as with a saw; which from hence is deemed to have its name, 1 Kings 7. 9. which seemeth to receive some strength from that in the parallel place, chap, 23, 19, where the word is grievoufly paining, or . patting to grievous pain: for these reciprocal forms, where they have no reciprocal signification, carry a notion of aggravation and vehemency with them; and this I take to be th. genuine sense of the word. The words most read, as we have them here in the time past, by the people left of the (word, understanding, either those that escaped the sword of Pharao, who pursued them with a full purpose to cut them off and destroy them, Exod 14.9, 10. & 15. 9. or, as some, that survived the execution done by the Levites among them for their idolatiy, about the golden call, Exod, 32. 27, 28 or, as others, the fword of the Amalekites and Amorites that fought to intercept them, and cut them off in their way E od. 17:8, Numb, 21, 22 33, Deut, 25 17,18. Deut. 2, 7, & 8.2. ——4.15, 16. & 32. 10-—-12. or, as those that go the latter way 3 they were for all that their horrible idolatry, at Moses intercession and intreaty for them, reconciled to God, and brought into favour again with him, Exod 33.17. Deut. 9 19. But some read and render the words in Exon 33,17. Details 19. Distribute the fiver of the fiber of the fiber at the future; I he people that are kelt of the fiber of that find favour as in the wildernesse; the fiber of the Chaldeans, shall after the disolution of that captivity, in their return home again, find the fame favour with me, for mat-ter poth of protection and provision. that their fore-fathers did in their journ; ing thorow those diffual defers. Now true it is, that God doth oftentimes parallel the deliverance out of Babylon, with the bringing of them out of Egypt, and describe the passages of his providence concerning their return home in the latter, by those dispensations exhibited to them in the former, Esay, 11, 15, 16, & 43,19 o as also that the note of similitude is oft wanting. where of necessity it is to be supplyed: Esay 11 8. & 22.18. & 66.
3. But where there is no necessity, and the sense is plain and clear 3. But where there is no necessity, and the tente is plain and clear of it felt without its there to force it in, and force a Sorigure to farther-fetch strain, seemeth neither fair, safe, nor fit, even I frael, when I went to bring him to reft. Heb, in going to reft him, or to bring him to reft lifted. So the words lie in the text:

which most; both of the Jewish Writers, and others, understand of Gods going to procure rest to his people : and some of the Jewish Gods going to procure rett to nis people: and tome or the Jewin expound of Gods conducting them, and going before them to feed out fit refting-places for them as they travelled along or to and fro, in the wildernelle, Exod. 1, 22. Num. 0, 33, Deut. 1, 33. Others, of the bringing of them unto a fetled place of constant rest in the land of Caman, Deut 12.9. Psal, 95.11, and the word may then wel be rendred; to fettle bim. See Elay 51. 4. & 63. 14. So the word Ifrael must by way of apposition, be referred to the people before-mentioned, as our Version conceiveth it : or if we put off Ifrael to the end of the verse , rendring the words , to fettle bim, even Ifrael; then there is a redundancy but elegant and vehement, like that: Prov. 5 .. 1. His iniquities fhall take him, the wicked one; and the end of his mirth, is grief, Prov. 14 13 Howbeit, fome referre all this to Israel, reading the words, fome, in the future, Israel shall go to his rest. So the old Latine, Others, in the time present, Israel going unto his rest. So some of the Greeks. Otime present, spear going union in rest. 30 toute of the Oreens. Others, in the time past, when 'freel went or was going, to bis rest.' or, in Israels going to bis rest. So a learned Writer; who to strengthen this exposition, further observeth, first, that the verb infinitive is used sometime for the preter tense, wherein the Jewish Doctor here concurred with him, pointing us to the like, Unique 14, 5. Whereof tee there: and as leaving, for left there; fo ging, for, went, here. And fecondly, that they to refling, in the form here used doth as often signific to refl, as to cauge to refl; and so indeed it seemen to be taken. Deur. 18. 64. Elay 34. 14. V. 3. The Lord hath appeared of old unto me; Heb. from afarre: as Pfalm 139,1. Efay 5,26.but it is ufed as well of time, as of place; and so here. Howbeit, some tefer it to the time to come; as if the meaning were, it is far off that the Lord appeareth unto is. Ye tell us, that God will appear for our deliverance, Elay, 60. 2. and 66.5, but his appearance to that purpose is long a coming. So it should be the speech of the people complayning of the delay of their deliverance. But this interpretation the words will not bear Others, and fo the most reade them, in the time past, as the word is used, Elay 22.11, and well rendred here, as there also, of old, in times long past and gone. That they are the words of the people times long palt and gone. That they are the words of the people in captivity is generally agreed; but fome would have them the words of the profane partie among them, as feoffing at Gods Pents, when they tell them of Gods Ach done in fermer times for his people, as if they faid, Yetell us of things long ago done; but what is that to us, what was then done/f any fuch things were then done , that was in the old time : thew us fomewhat in our dayes. faying, yea, I have loved thee with an everlasting love;] That these are the Lords words, is generally received: but according there are the Lovernows, a generally recercion.

To our version, inferring the word fapine, between this and the former branch of the conext, it may be deemed that they should be the words of God uttered long ago, at what clime he lo appeared to his people. Whereas indeed they are, as most laterpreters also rate them, returned from God, as an answer to the peoples complaint covertly inclosed in their fore mentioned speech; alluring them of the continuance of that affection to them, that in ring them of the continuance of that affection to them, that in former time is he had born toward them, and manifeled unto them: and inflead of fajing, therefore, fay they, might be fupplied, as Elgy 58, 5, but referring to the lipsech foregoing and annexing it to the clofe of the former branch, as also the words here following, might better be rentheed, yea, (tleb, and as Chapter 18, 23.). I have there with a perpetual or, everlafting love, Heb. Love of perpetuity, or eternitie; as kindneffe of perpetuity, Elay 54.8. and joy of perpetuity: Elay 61.7. My love and affection continueth fill the fame to thee, and fo shall do for ever; or, as some other, with reference to the time path, I love the with a antiment, or a love of antiquity: 1 love thee fill with the same affection that in former ages I bare towards thee and both the terms of the text, and the drift of the context will bear it; for the word here used hath oft respect to the time past, as well as to the future, 1: fry 18 12, and 63. 9, $1, See Malachi 1. 3. and 3. 6.

But others rather, both of the Jewish Writers and ours conceive the term here used, to be taken in a notion, not of attraction, but of extension : and some of the lewish Doctors render the words in the time past, therefore did I ex and kindneffe to thee; to wit, fay they, at Mount Sinai, when I took thee to be a people in covenant with me, Exodus 19.5,6. an effect of his love and affection to them, Deuteronomy 7. 7 8. But ours rather in the future, therefore will I extend kindnesse to thee. So Plalm 36.10, extend thy kindness; and none to extend kindneffe, Pfalm 109,12. Heb. word for word, extend thee kindneffe, for extend it unto thee; the particle fwallowed up,between the Verb and the Pronoun affixed: as Efay 65.5. V. 7. For thus faith the Lerd, Sing for gladness with Jacob,]An ex to tation followeth, wherein the people of II ael are called up-on to acknowledge and publish with much joy Gods gracious goodness rowards them in their deliverance. And this branch most take as directed to the Churches friends, or forreign Nations, as called upon to rejoyce for her, or, with her, (for fo is the particle allo used in the tormer way, Gen. 21, 6. & 25.42. in the latter, Genefis 46. 25 Chapter 19. 13.) fo it should be like that, Deut. 3:. 43. the Gentiles being invited to rejoyce with Gods people, and in the next clause mentioned, as some, because they were also to be brought unto Christic, 16, 19, Ro 14, 10, El. 66. 10. Howbeir, one of r. e Jewish Commenters, (whom the ancient Greek herein followeth) taking the particle in its most usual notion, and supposing a trajection to be in these words, rendrethir, Thus faith the Lord to Jacob, ing or Exult ye, for, or with joy : and fo it is an encitement of Gods people themselves to rejoyce; like Esay 9.10. Now this some expound as infulting over the Nations 3 that being before as the head, had made them as the tail, Dut. 48, 24, and they urge the term of neighing, as to that purpose here used; and this way both the ancient orcek and Latine feem to go, sending the words, neigh a-gainst the head of the Gentiles: and so is the particle used, Exod. 14 25 Nambers 12.1 But the most rather understand it,as the Chaldre renders it, epenly, in, or un'o the face of the nations; (the bead, forth face: 35 Job 10.15 Chapter 14.3. 1 Cor. 11.7, 10.) as implying onely a free and open proteffion and publication of whit God had done for them: as Efay 12. 4. and this alfo the wo ds following confirm, One of the Jewish Commenters renders it, 0+the lewers: and Head, for "op is usual : as Exodus, 17.9,10.Esay 22 but then something is added; the top whereof is faid to be the Head or Top : otherwise Head, for Tower simply, is no where tound.

and fay, O Lord, fave the people, he remnant of Ifrael.] This clause is in a manner generaly thus rendeed, But how to fit it to the present discomse, Interpreters are somewhat troubled. For some would have them the words of the people remaining yet in captivity, entreating God to deliver them fuch of them; as yet furvived, having escaped the sword of the Chaldeans, verse 2, but remained still in thialdome; unto which their sute an answer should by God be returned, that he would grant their request and fulfill their defire, verfe 8. but others conceiving aright by the words foregoing that this whole passage is directed unto, and concerneth the people as now delivered, and fet free as that Efay 12.4 & 48. 20. understand it, as a Petition preferred to God by the Jewish people delivered in behalf of the other tribes a great part whereof remained stillin captivity. Which yet with others feeming not fatiffact ry, they would have it to be a form not of prayer, but of praife, as Hofanna is, fay they, Plalm 118. 25 Matt. 21. 9 But this fuiteth not well with the use of the word in the Plalm, from whence that in the Gospel hath it; howsoever it may there receive another I xpolition, from a rite uled by the Tewes at one of their Feflivals, as some learned Criticks have observed. Howbeit, that should be rather matter of praife, than of prayer, the foregoing words inn'y. And the Chaldee therefore rendreth it in the time prefent, To: Lord delivers, or is delivering his people, (not as fome tender him, then haft delivered : for it is a participle of the present the remission of their sins : and the word is commonly used for supplications, Daniel 9-3,17,18, 23, and weeping and it are joyned together, chapter 2, 11. Zachary 12,10. But some other say, that the word is more general, comprehending as well praise and thankefgiving, as supplication and prayer; as another of the like notion is observed to do. t samuel : , 1, for Hannah's devotion there recorded is rather tehillah, than tephillah, confifting of matter of praife, rather than of prager. And some other again, which our margent exhibiteth, render it favours: and this, though the word it selfbe not found directly fo uled, yet in the original, and the notation of it, it hath a notion of grace or favor; and another term rifing from the fame root, & being of very near affinity with it, though commonly, yea, almost go being overly freat arming with fixthough commonly, yea, almost generally used for prayer, properly to procuregrate, yet i-ponce or twice at least found used for favor or grace it self. Johna 11.20 Ezra 9.8 and so therefore I conceive, with one of the Jewif Commenters, that it is to be taken here; as being applied rather to God that led them, than to the people led by him : with graces, or favours, will I lead them : graces, o. favours ; as, tender mercies, and loving kindnesses, Elay 63.7. for, great abundance, or gracious answer unto Ephraims lamentation and supplication. That the words are to be read by way of interrogation, the usuall notes thereof in Hebrew, one prefixed before the former member, another before the latter, do evidently shew. Now because the interrogative affirmative is wont more vehemently to deny the thing spoken of; as Esay 50.2. Is my hand at all out short, that I thing spoken of; as Elay 50.2. It mp hand at all cut short, that I cannot refer ? and Is I frael a servant? it has a home, beressare the chapter, 22.14, interpreters therefore are much puzzelled about the true notion of this passage, and some undefined it as a slit a distance of the state of the concerning Ephraim; as if it were said, No, he is nothing less than a precision or a pleasant child et; for by his crolle and crooked courses he hath lo carried himself, that he hath even a forced me roat the him of And others areas in conceive it as stoped. enforced me to cast him of. And others again conceive it as spoken by way of reprehension : so a learned late Writer, who so carrieth on the whole tenour of Ephraims speech, not as a profession of his present repentance, but as excusing himself that he did not yet, nor could repent, during his captivity; he was fo full of shame and misery, that he had no list or leisure thereunto: but would do it, when God had fet him at liberty, and shewed mercy and goodis, when took has ter him at increy, and the wed mercy and good-nefs unto him, by fetting him in his own countrey again; and accordingly he bringeth in God returning answer here to this his prefumed protestion: Belike Ephraim decemb himself fush a darling child, as I cannot be without him, when he is so nice and easting chief, as I cannot be without him, when he is to nice and delicate, that he cannot repent fo long as he is in milery, and till all this be done for him. But those that goe either of these wayes, have sew support from the context seemeth to run with full stream the main course of the context seemeth to run with full stream. against them. And another learned man of great note seemeth against them. And another learned man or great note scenters to take to as foliary a walk, who instead of an interrogation would make it enunciative, and turns the interrogation into a more vehement affeveration: For, faith he, the former interrogation. gative here used, is oft found to fig nifie, surely or verily, as Genegaive here uled, is oft cound to lignific, furely or verify, as Gene-fix, 7,36. Samuel 3., 19. Kings 18. 3, 17, Poverbs 24, 18. Samuel 3., 19. Kings 18. 3, 17, Poverbs 24, 18. Samuel 7, 9, and the latter is by a Jewith Critick observed to al-log furely, as both joyand with the former, Numbers 17, 13, 100 fg, and slone by it lelf, Genefix 47, 18. Numbers 16, 30, 100 12, 10, 10 falm 63, 7, Poverbs 3, 34. Etg. 44, and 19 16. But as fer the former, there is not any one place produced, where the intercogative may nee in his proper notion well fland! and for the latter it is true, that it hath divers other uses, not is it an in-terrogative in his first and native notion. but most commonly a terrogative in his first and native notion, but most commonly a conditional, sometime a discretive, and one of these two in most if not all, of the places produced. Besides that for the former, the Author of this conceit, is not constant to himself: for in the close of his discourse where he hath this, he inclineth to conceive that in all those places ha may be put for he, and rendred behold ; and elsewhere he goeth another way for divers of them; as here-after shall be shewed. It is true, indeed, that divers Interpreters render some of the fore-mentioned places in the affirmative, and sometime with a note of asseveration prefixed : but therein they have regard not to the precise signification, and Grammaticall construction of the terms, but to the sense and meaning of the Sentence in general, in the interrogative form implied. Another learned Interpreter, whom a Scholiaft of note concurred with, saketh the words as fpoken in way of Admiration or doubting; thus rendring the Text, 1s Ephraim my deare Sonne? I she a child of much delight? Yes; or He is; which they put into the context; but this feemeth somewhat overbold. I should rather, did i Suppose the words to be so conceived, render them on this wife, Is this Ephraim my deare Sonne ? is it my darling childe? as if it were faid, Is it he that bemoaneth himfelf in this manner? as Saul to David, Is this thy voyce, my Sonne David? not as questioning whether David were his Sonne or no; but as with a kinde of a-Stonishment, making a doubt whether it were he that spake to him in that manner: And so here, God is brought in, as speaking after mortall mans ulage, but not making doubt whether Ephraim were his dear darling or no: but whether it were that his darling, from whom this pittiful and passionate complaint came. And this, whether it sute not better with the course of the context than any other of those already related, I shall leave to the decifion and sentence of others. Howbeit, I shall Tubjoyn, what I non and lentence of others, Howers, I that I tolopyn, what I conceive to be the genuine fyntax. For the firmer grounding whereof, I that luggeft that, which I finde not any of our Granmarians, or Criticks, either Jewith, or others, to have observed, howfoever necessity putteth Interpreters, of torce, now and then upon it, to wit, that in such interrogative forms the negative particle is oft suppressed, and necessarily to be supplyed. So 1 Samuel, 2,27,28, where our Geneva Version, and the next before it, as also the Tigurine and Italian, and some others, well render the Text; Did not I plainly appear to the house of thy Father? and did not I though him? So Job 20. 4. where befides those former, divers Latine interpreters, and our latest Ve sion also rendereth it. Knowest thou not this of old? See before, Chapter 3.6. Hast thou not feen what back filling Ifrael hath done? So Ezckiel 20. 30. Areye not polluted after the manner of your Fathers? and, do ye not commit whoredome, or goe on whoring, after their abomina-tions? and Amos 6. 2. Were they not better than these Kingdomes? Was not their border larger than yours? The very drift and current of the context doth in either necellarily exact it : And for this place, that I may not be deemed to walke alone in it : fo doth the Tigurine Version, which Occolampadius, and Bullinger also follow, here express it, and the Chaldee Paraphrast before them in the latter branch. As also that learned late Annorator that goeth here another new and strange way, yet doth elsewhere come home to us, contradicting what he here hath in affirming, that has is ofe put for halo, especially where it is joyned with ci, which is, faith he, in that form no other than an expletive particle. So he expoundeth, Genesis 19. 15. Art the not my brother, and shouldest thin serve me freely? though in that place himself acknowledgeth, that others generally expound the words number acknowledgeth, that other generally expound the works there, (and that as I conceive, anight) otherwise. But 6 he also taketh it, Genefis 27, 36. Wa be not pully called Jacob? wherein the Tigurine, and our three last Versions exactly agree with him. Yea, so he faith that it is without doubt to be tazen, 2 Samuel 23.19 where our Version rendreth it, Was he not the most housurable of the three? And so Tremellius, Junius and Pifcator before: and these two last places are of those, which that learned Writer would above turn another way. Yea on that place, I Samuel 2.27. after a long discourse, much debate, many place, I samue a 17, after a long aucounte, much debate, many turning and windings, having fitting and fruggled hard to car-ty it fome other way: at length in the clofe of all he concludedt, and is enforced to confelly, that to take have for bals, lupplying the ingative, doth beft agree with the fenfe and drift of the the negative, doin our agree with the tennand dirth of the place; adding withall, that the like is in the Arabick very frequent, as he hath, he faith, in many places of the Alovan observed. This I have the rather infifted upon, both because I Suppose it bringeth some light to this place, and because I finde divers interpreters of great note driven to forced conftructions in fome places for want of this observation See the like again, Chap-

With Upplications, for

V. 15. Thus faith the Lord , a voice was heard in Ramah, Ismontation and bitter weeping, Rachel weeping for her children refused to be comforted for her children, because they were not.] God had before promited to turn their mourning in to much: Vow this promifed mirth is here amplified by the mourning foregoing it, which is very pathetically illustra-ted by a two-fold Rhetoricall introduction of persons, Rachel the mother here, and Ephraim her Grand-child by Joseph, verse 18. In this place Rachel Jacobs beloved wife, as the common mother in four: fo.t of both people, Judah and ifrael, (for Ephraim, the head of the ten Tribes, Elay 7. 2. verse 9. was her grandchilde by Joseph her elder son, Gen. 48.5, and the illue of Benjamin her younger son, Genesis, 35 16,18, continued still in conjunction and confociation with the Tibe of Judah, 2 Chron, 11.12.) is brought in, as raifed up out of her sepulchre, situate between Ramath and Bethichem, in the confines of either Tribe, Genefis 35,19. Joh 18. 25. Judges 4. 5. 1 Sam. 10. 2. lamenting the loffe of her children led away into captivity, as making account never to fee them, or to have them delivered again. And this some of the Jewish Do-(to's apply unto the Jewish and Benjamitish Matrones and Mothers, who with weeping and wailing accompanied their children, led away captive toward Babylon by Ramah, where Nebuzaradan feemeth to have mustered them, and from whence Jeremy having been fo far carried away from Jerusalem, was dismissed and sent back, Chap. 40. I. and the Talmudifts tell us that Jacob buried her there foresceing by the Spirit of Prophecy, that his posterity should the temp be led captive, that she might, as they passed by her, intercede for them. But these are Jewish tables. The Evangelift applieth it to the mothers of the young ones at or about Bethlehem, that Herod had most barbarously caused to be slaughtered, Mitth 2018. Both the Prophet and the Evangelift do here-by imply what Rachel in likely hood would have done, had she been furriving at either of those calamities, which those of her issue sustained. The words may be read; In Ramah hath been heard a voice of lamentation, (a voice of lamentation, as chap.q. 18.) a voice (supplied, as chap. 3.21.and 4.31.) of most bitter weeping, (Heb. weeping of bitternoffer, See Elay 2.4, chap. 6.: 6.) a voice (continued, as Elay 6.6 6.) a voice (continued, as Elay 6.6 6.) as (b) a first who weeping for her children, (Heb. her fan). refalet he be conforted, (as Jacob, Genesia; 37, 34, Alaph, Palam 77. 1. 6 Elay 2.4-4) in regard of them, (Heb. her children; the Noun for the Pronoun : as Fxodus 40. 19,21, 25, 29. 2 Timothy 1. 18. and a defect of the Relative; as Chapter 30. 11.) because they were not: as, Jacob, Genesis 42. 36. loseph is not, and Simeon is

Refrain thy voyce from weeping Leave, or give over weeping but he saith, Refrain thy vice; because he said before, a voice o weeting, implying not a filent weeping, but fuch as is accompanied with wailing and loud expressions by voice; as it is faid of Efau, he lift up his voice, and wept, Gen. 27. 38. and of Joseph, he gave out his voyce in weeping (of which form, see on chapter 2.15.) so loud, that it was heard of the Egyptians and Pharaohs Courtiers, that were without the roome in his house, Genesis, 45. 2.

This some apply unto Rachel, that God for her piety would cause her issue to fare the better at last; and the Talmudists ridiculously expound it of her patience in fuffering her Sifter Leah to be fubftituted in her room, and obedience in delivering her token to her, which they tell us also that the pleaded to God in behalf of her people. See Genefis 29.23,25. but this is an idle fiction, as frivolous as that of Jacob before, verse 15. Others, Popsifi especially, of the patience of the Bethlemitish women, Matth 2 17. V. 20, Is Ephraim a dear fon ? is be a pleafant chitd ?] Gods gracious answer unto Ephraims lamentation and supplication. That the words are to be read by way of interrogation, the usuall notes thereof in Hebrew, one prefixed before the former member, another before the latter, do evidently shew. Now because the interrogative affirmative is wont more vehemently to deny the thing spoken of; as Esay 50.2. Is my hand at all out fort, that I smig processor as a say your is my name as an out ports, some seamst refere 2 and It I freed fervant? I he he as home-beefflawe? Chapter, a. 14, interpreters therefore are much puzzelled about the true notion of this paffage; and fome under-fland it as a flat deniall of what is here demaunded, scancering Ephraim; as if it were faid, No, he is nothing leffe than a precious or a pleafant childe; for by his croffe and crooked courses he hath so carried himself, that he hath even enforced me to caft him of, And others again conceive it as spoken by way of reprehension: so a learned late Writer, who so carrieth on the whole tenour of Ephraims speech, not as a profession of his present repentance, but as excusing himself that he did not yet, nor could repent, during his captivity; he was so full of shame and misery, that he had no list or leisure thereunto: but would do it, when God had fer him at liberty, and shewed mercy and good-ness unto him, by setling him in his own countrey again: and accordingly he bringeth in God returning answer here to this his prefumed profession : Belike Ephraim deemeth himself fuch a darling child, as I cannot be without him, when he is lo nice and delicate, that he cannot repent lo long as he is in milery, and till all this be done for him. But those that goe either of these two wayes, have few I suppose, going along therein with them; and the main course of the context seemeth to run with full stream against them. And another learned man of great note seemeth to take to as solitary a walk, who instead of an interrogative, would make it enunciative, and turns the interrogation into a more vehement affeveration : For, faith he, the former interrogative here used, is oft found to fig nific, surely or verily, as Genegative nece uses, is of tound to ligitine, purely or verify, as Serifs, 17,36. 2 Samuel 23. 19 1 Kings 18. 31, Proverbis 14, 28. Chapter 7.9, and the latter is by a Jewith Critick observed so abort jointie, as both joyned with the former, Numbers 17, 13, 106 6.13, and alone by it less, Genesis 47, 18. Numbers 16, 30. Job 21, 20. Pfalm 63.7. Proverbs 3, 24. Efay 4.4. and 29 16. But as fer the former, there is not any one place produced, where the interrogative may net in his proper notion well fland: and for the latter it is true, that it hath divers other uses, nor is it an interrogative in his first and native notion, but most commonly a conditional, fometime a discretive, and one of these two in most if not all, of the places produced. Besides that for the former, the Author of this conceit, is not constant to himself: for in the close of his discourse where he hath this, he inclineth to conceiv that in all those places ha may be put for he, and rendred behold; and ellewhere he goeth another way for divers of them; as here-after shall be showed. It is true, indeed, that divers Interpreters render some of the fore-mentioned places in the affirmative, and fometime with a note of affeveration prefixed : but therein they have regard not to the precise fignification, and Grammatical construction of the terms, but to the sense and meaning of the Sentence in general, in the interrogative form implied. Another learned Interpreter, whom a Scholiast of note concurreth with, taketh the words as flooken in way of Admiration or doubting; thus rendring the Text, Is Ephraim my deare Sonne? I she a child of much deligh? Yes; or He is; which they put into the context: but this feemeth somewhat overbold. I should rather, did I Suppose the words to be so conceived, render them on this wife, Is this Ephraim my deare Sonne ? is it my darling childe? as if it were faid, Is it he that bemoaneth himfelf in this manner ? as Saul to David, Is this thy voyce, my Sonne David? not as questioning to David, is the thy worce, my symme David? not as questioning whether David were his Sonne or no; but as with a kinde of a-flonithment, making a doubt whether it were he that spake to him in that manner: And so here, God is brought in, as speaking after mortall mans ulage, but not making doubt whether Ephra-

And this, whether it sure not better with the course of the context than any other of those already related, I shall leave to the decifion and fentence of others. Howbeit, I shall Tubjoyn, what I conceive to be the genuine fyntax . For the firmer grounding whereof, I shall suggest that, which I finde not any of our Grammarians, or Criticks, either Jewith, or others, to have observed, howfoever necessity putterh interpreters, of force, now and then upon it, to wit, that in fuch interrogative forms the negative particle is oft suppressed, and necessarily to be supplyed. So 1 Samuel, 2.27,28. where our Geneva Version, and the next before it, as also the Tigurine and Italian, and some others, well render it, as an other figurine that testing and tolke offices, where there the Text, Did not I fainty again to the fough of the Father? and did not I should be the Sol Do 20, 4, where befoles those former, divers Latine interpreters, and our latest Ver floor also rendrete its, Knowelf thus not thus of old? See before, Chapter 3.6. Haff thus not few but to 4cf plains [I feat hat board 8.6. So Exchel 20, 30. Are ye not polluted after the manner of your Fathers? and, do ye not commit whoredome, or gre on whoring, after their abominations? and Amos 6. 2. Were they not better than thele Kingdomes? Was not their border larger than yours? The very drift and current of the context doth in either necellarily exact it: And for this place, that I may not be deemed to walke alone in it: fo doth the Tigurine Verifon, which Occolampadius, and Bullinger also follow, here express it, and the Chaldee Paraphrast before them in the latter branch. As also that learned late Annorator that goeth here another new and firange way, yet doth elfewhere come home to us, contradicting what he here hath in affirming, that ha, is of put for halo, especially where it is joyned with a, which is, faith he, in that form no other than an expletive particle. So he expoundeth, Geness 19. 15. Act this not my brother, and shouldest this serve me freely ? though in that place ners, and proment toon ferve me precy se enough in that place bindlef acknowledgeth, that others generally expound the words there, (and that as I conceive, a right) otherwise. But to he affor taketh it. Genefis, 27, 36. Win he not july facility faced is wherein the Tigurine, and our three last Versions exactly agree with him Yea fo he faith that It is without doubt to be taken, 2 Samuel 23.19 where our Version rendreth it, Was he not the most honourable of the three? And so Tremellius, Junius and Pifcator before : and thefe two last places are of those, which that learned Writer would above turn another way. Yea on that place, 1 Samuel 2,27, after a long difcourfe, much debate, many place, 1 Samuel 3.27, after a long on contre, much according to turnings and windings, having friven and flungfeld hard to car-vy it fome other way: at length in the close of all he concludeth, and is enforced to confelle, that to take har for halo, hupplying the inegative, doth beft agree with the fenfe and drift of the place: adding withall, that the like is in the Arabick very frequent, as he hath, he saith, in many places of the Alevran observed. This I have the rather infifted upon, both because I Suppose it bringeth some light to this place, and because I finde divers interoreters of great note driven to forced confiructions in fome places for want of this observation See the like again, Chap-

The Chaldee giveth it, How long wilt thus harden thy felf from recurning? the fame termes that he hath, Jer. 8, 5, and the Greek to the fame effect, How long wilt than avert, or, thin away? which many expound of their not returning to God by repenrance, Chap. 5. 3. & 8. 5, 6. A woman shall compasse a man The new or firange thing that God would effect. The place is obscure; and various interpretations are therefore given of it, as well by the Jewes themselves, as by others. Some conceive it, as alluding to a woman, that should wooe and feek after a man: whereas man ordinarily are wont to feek after the woman. So it should be like that, Efay 4. 1. Others, to a woman that having left her husband, and lived loofly with others, should at length seck to him for reconcilement. So it should be like that, Hol, 2,7,13,5, 1 Cor.7,11, and either of these the words would bear: but they seem no such strange matter simply confidered. And yet more probable here to be meant, than that intended, which that learned Writer fuggefeth, of this peoples feeking, like a shameless and instatable strumper, by wanton dalliances and embracements, to procure love to her from ftrangers, Eay 57. 8,----10. Chap. 2, 24, 15, 36. Ezck. 16. 33, 34 Ho. 8.9, for certainly this was no work of Gods creating; and it feemeth to me a very forced confituration, to interpret the foregoing words of Gods giving them up, and abandoning them thereunto; as Rom. 1 26,27 Christian Writers the most, both ancient and latter, understand it of Christ and the Virgin his Mother, A mon arcet, undertaint or Chair and the Vigin als wother, A woman (fo is the termed, Gal. 4, 4) being a Virgin, and fo abiding, (Efay 5, 14, Match 1, -8, 25,) field recipe in her womb, (Luke 1, 2, 1), a man; (that is, a male, a man-child, Joh, 16, 21,) as the nut (faith one of ours) encl feth the kernel; nor receiving ought from without, but conceiving and breeding of her felf, by the power of the Almighty from within, Nat. 1, 20, Luke 1, 34,35. And this indeed may well be termed a new and strange thing; because never the like heard of, See Elay 7, 14, But because the one word seemeth not to be used of containing, but of second one while trenders into the title or compaling, and to compaling, and beforing, [0.1h, 7],4,7,11,41,7,15,118, 10---12. But this freedome and frequency of accellewas a means of bringing this our Prophet into new troublets, and grivens annuans or olinging tune or prophet into new troublets, and grivensu annuances, even to the hazzarding of his life. Ebbld, be thin your hang I in your yournesses pleafe; a schape, 6.14 Job., 6.6 for the king is not be that can do any thing against you.] As it he had said, he king can deny you nothing; too large a condescension, ill befeeming a Ruler, without all regard of right; or wrong, and tending to an unjust, cruel, and impious usage of Gods Propher, Howbeit, the Text seemeth not so clear here for this sense. It is true, that the particle here uled doth sometime fignific againft. So is it deemed to do, Efai 10.15. and Ezek, 21. 20. Yet those places are queftionable; and it is very rare, if any where it fod 0: for howlover in thole forms where it is fullyoyned to terms of fighting and firthing; as Plaim 37; 1: Eal 49, 35; Chap, 33.5; it be fometime rendred againg!: as Chap, 37; to, and in effect, it important to the small of the control of the small of the control with, and is to most commonly expressed. Nor hath it that no-tion of opposition from it felt, but from the word it is annexed unto. Some therefore would rather have the words thus rendred; For without the king , the thing (Hcb. word, as Chap. 32, 27.) may be done, by you: as Elai 7. 17. or, with you; among your felves. You have power enough to dispatch this businesse without me; which some also apply unto the power that they had, being some of the grand Consistory to try and doom a faile Prophet, such an of the grand Confifory to try and doom a falle Prophet, fuch an one, as they pretend Jeremy to be. But three appeareth here no hint of any judiciary proceeding; but a motion made, and prefled for dilipatching, the Prophet without more ado, and ridding their hands of him by any means whatfoever: and that not pupon fuggeflion of any falle Prophefic, but upon grounds of policy, because by his prophetics he different the foul. diery, and discouraged the people: and according to this read-ing therefore the king should rather imply, that having him in their hands already, they had power enough to difpole of him as they pleafed, without asking his aftent. And this way I hould incline to, did I any where finde the negative particle here found, to be used for without with another prefixed I finde it fo uled , Chap. 33, 13, and elfe-where , but never alone ; and I leave it therefore to the determination of the Learned : I fhall onely subjoyn, how I conceive, it may, very near to the former notion, be rendred, The king u not he that can prevail in ought against you; as Psalm 13. 4. V. 1. Now while he was not yet gone back, he fald, Go back unto Gedaliah hie fan of Ahikam the fon of Shaphan, I These words are very dive. fly rendred and resolved, Who the person should be used to be a support of the person had be a s that is here spoken of , said not to have returned or gone back, is by fome questioned; and the generality goes for Jeremy : but these among themselves much divided: for some make all these the words of Nebuzaradan. So the Chaldee, thus rendring them, And if thou like not to dwell, then return to Gedaliah. Which our old English seeming to follow, rendreth it : And if thou canst not be conanguin teening to tollow, reneared it: Analy look any not be con-tent to dwell alone, then dwell with Ocadalab. The old Latin, And come not with me but dwell with Ocadalab; as joyning them to the words before going, forbear, Verse 4. But how the Hebrew will bear any of these Versions, I see nor, The most rather conceive them as a relation interted of fome thing concerning, or occasioning, the speech ensuing. And one of the Jewish Doctors rendresh them. And when he had no mind to go back he faid, that is, the bleffed Lord God faid, Go back to Gedaliah. God fuggested that to him, that made him willing togo, when as of himself he had no inclinati-on thereunto: another of them. And when he had not vet said. that he would return, Nebuzaradan perceiving yet by his filence. that his mind was rather to go back; than to go along with him, faid to him, Go back to Gedaliah. And others again, as the Ti-gurine, whom our Geneva, and the next Version before it, congurine, whomour cheeva, and the next vertical netter knows, and the next vertical netter knows, as by way of parenthelis, (for at yet be was not returned, or gone back), and then carrying on the feature, and goback, or, or goback, to Gedaliab. Take thy chorce, either tog o along with me, or to feat thy felfe ellewhere, where fower thou placefly, or to repair to Gedaliab, that he may provide for thee. Others, as our last Version, And when, or, while he had been constructed to the head of the control of the contr was not rece, or chers, as out that verion, and when of, while we may not yet gone back, he faild, Go back to Gedaliab. Either make thine abode where thou pleafelt in any part of the land elsewhere, or repair to Gedaliah and abide with him. And this feemeth the most probable of any of those, that understand the words of Jeremy. But some others expound them of Gedaliah, and render the words thus, And because he is not to come back, repair to Gedaliah. Since that Gedaliah is not to come hither to me, but to flay at Mizpah to fettle things in his new charge, repair thither to him, who will be carefull both to protect thee, and to provide for thee: the copulative in a causative notion is not in frequent; as chap 36.9. & 18 23. From the end of tendagets, (as chap. 34. 14.) and (as chap 4.14.) it found fine the Anne as the series of the series and the series of the s him, and to them by him, an answer. The reason, why God thus delayed it, being not revealed, is not easily conjectured, much less, can it be certainly determined. Some say, to adde the more weight to the Oracle, when it should be delivered: and to free the Prophet from substitution, of speaking from himself, which might have been at least. If not misseemed, yet amiss pretended, had he fuddenly returned an answer. I conceive, it might rather be to punish their hypocrisie, by holding them in surpence, who were questionless impatient of delay, having before hand resolved what they would do, what foever the answer should be.

However, because forme Greek Versions render the former word, an hidden place, and the did Latine, the former, a fors, or, Care, or, Van's, and the latter, a bricky wall! grounding in kitchy-hood, on a place in Mah, 3.1.4. hence former and sum that does to finde out to me vench. or ditch near the Kings Pallace, whereunto Jeremy should cast these stones; on which, as part of the foundation, Nebuchadtnete itones; on which, as part of the foundation, Nebuchaa-nezzar, when he came into Egypt, should raise a bricke wall, and build him a Pallace there. But little reason have we for such tar-fetcht fancies to recede from the received Interpretation of the words t the main matter that some object is, that there is no likely hood, that a bricke kill should be situate so near to as no interjy-moon, that is observed in thousand the moon of the kings vallace, which could not but be by occasion yet any offen of the moon form (maske thereof very offen five. Due about application of it to a and go away entirely dwith them. I but about application of it to a the jewish wonted guile, there is some variety of opinion. One of the jewish Masters would by the garment here mentioned, have un-derstood the cloth, that the shephera setteth up for a tent, to shelter him, while he stayeth in some one place, but taketh down again and carrieth away with him, leaving nothing behind him, when he removeth to some other place; as they use oft to shift, Esay 13. 10, and to should the King of Baylon go from place to place in Egypt; and sweep all away with him; But this conceit need-lefty forceit the term and so the text; and some of ours therefore inflead of his rent substituting his coat, go the same way, but keep closer to the term in the text. Another will have it allude to a shepherds wrapping himself up in his garment to keep himselse warm, because in the wildernesse he is to tend his slock as well by night as by day, Gen. 31, 40. I Sam. 25, 16. Luke 2, 8. which fome of ours alio follow. But other of ours referre it to the fhep-herds going forth in the morning to lead his sheep out to their paflute. (see Elay 40.11. Chap. 31. 9. Joh. 10. 3, 4.) who is not wont to spend much time in arraying and dressing himself up, before he go out but castell on his coat suddenly, and is by and by gone: and so should Nebuchadnezzar, without difficulty or long delay, as speedily and easily, seize on the wealth of Egypt, and go away with it. And others again, to his returning home at evening, when having fate all the heat of the day without his coat, or upper garment, (as the word feemeth properly to fignifie, Gen. 9, 22.)
while he tended his fleep in those hot regions, he casteth it on about him at evening, at such time as he goeth homeward. and in like manner should Nebuchadnezzar return at his leaving of Egypt; not migd or bare; (as men are faid to be; when they want their upper garment. See Elay a o 1), but well clad, as with his coas; or upper garment about him. And this feem beft to agree both with the drift of the Prophet; and the terms of the text. For as for that of the ancient Greek Interprete; whom a learned Writer supposeth to have read thata, for atab : and renders it, he shall purge Egypt as a shepherd purgeth his coat of lice. Which some ex-pound, he shall at leisure ransack all Egypt, and seize on all her wealth and treasure; as shepherds are wont leisurely to look their clothes, and pick out their lice : it is but a lousie interpretation (howfoever some seem to be much taken with it) grounded upon a corruption of the text ; and fo therefore I leave i

Surely, as Takor is among the mountains, and as Carmel by the fea, fo fhall he come.] Or, it fhall come : abor, a mountain of the play is platine come; 30, proma come; about a mountain or ten Tribe of Ilfachar, John 19-12, Judge 4, 6, 14, called in the Greek Version, Itaby imm, supposed commonly, but grounds(s), to have been the place of our Savious transfiguration, Mat, 17, 1, Carmel another mountain structe in the confines of Ather and Is. fachar, not far from the Midland-fea-coaft, and extending it felf into the land near to mount Tabor, Josh. 19.26. 1 King. 18.42,43. The meaning is, as some of the Jewish Commenters. and others, As fure as thefe two mountains keep their feveral fetled fituations, and fixed feats; fo affiredly shall that which I now fore-tell and threaten, come to passe and be effected. Whereunto some addithat there is here an allusion to two ancient stories; the one of Barac, going down against Sisera from mount Tabor, Judge 4. 14. the other, of that florm of rain, the approach whereof Elias descried from mount Carmel, 1 King. 19. 41, 42. as if it were faid, the King of Babel shall as furely come upon Egypt, as Barack did with his forces upon sifera from Tabor, and the form of rain, that Elias fore-faw and fore-told, from Ca: mel. But this fecmeth over-nice and needleffe. Others thus understand and open it, As Tabor advanceth it selfabore, and over-looketh, and commandeth the lefter hills, and lower grounds, round about it, and Carmel the Sea near unto it; So shall Nebuchadnezzar come and Carmel the Sea near unto it; $0 inhall Neutuchadnezzar come into Egypt to fuldue, and biring under the whole country, both before, and on every fide of him. And laftly, fome later Interpreters, Though (as 10th, 17 !!. So doubt there be a defect of the reddition, or later the feature of the season of the control of the contr ter part of the fentence, and application of it to the prefent purpose: not unlike that, Psalm 48.7. Matth 25.14. Marc. 13.34. And this seemeth not improbable; more probable sure, than that far-fetche conceit of a great Jewish Maker, who would have Tabor and Carmel here mentioned, to intimate, that the Chaldean forces should hunt the Egyptians, as men used to hunt dean forces (hould hunt the Egyptians) as men uled to hunt Deer, or other wilde beads on mount Tabor, Hofea, 51, and that they should carry them away captive, as merchandife used to be transported in shipping, built of the Timber-trees growing on mount Carmel: though the words next following imply this

Nor do those Tewish Commenters ftray leffe from the notion of the Text, who expound it of the noise and found of the Chaldean arms and army , that should come creeping towards Fgypt, like a Serpent, Gen. 3. 14. And as for their Talmudifts, they doat here prodigionfly, when they would have it meant, that the cry of Fgypt should be so loud, that it should passe through the whole world; like that hideous cry, that the Serpent made, what time, God having paft that doom on him, that he should go upon his belly, the Angels came down from hea-

Howbeit, there want not those, who conceive some respect to be had here to the former resemblance, supposing the state of Egypt to be compared to a wanton heifer running at large; and the countrey to a large wood, grove, or coppies, wherein the ran lo at large, grafing, browling, and sporting her felf at pleasure. See somewhat the like to this, Chap. 22. 7. Heb. hewers of trees; as Josh. 9. 21.

It is a proverbial form of speech, intimating such a number, or quantity of ought, as it is vain to endeavour to take any reckoning or tale of it. See I King. 4.47. 2 Chron. 4. 18. of the almost incredible number of their towns of note, and cities anciently, and the populous field of the countrey. See Herodote, 1.2. & Diodote, 1.c., 31. Howbeit, some expound the form here iffed, as implying not fo much the number of the places, or people, as the difficulty of pullage and accelle to them, the land lying low, and full of freams, and water courfes, them, the land lying 1007, and that or treating a min water-countes, either branching out of Nilus, or derived from it. for the Lord will spoil the l'hilistines, the remnant of the countrey of Caphtor. 1 That the aphtoim were of the fame linage and race with the thiliffines being both of them descended from Mitfraim, appeareth Gen. 10. 13,14 that before Mofes his time, they dwelr near unto them, poll fling the land that bordered upon them, even unto Gaza, from whence they had expelled the Avites, appeareth Deut. 2,23, and it may from that they had fometime subdued the Philiflines, and carried of them captive motheir own countrey, from whence God had yet by fome means refeued and reduced them again, Amos 97. Howbeit, in Jeremies time it may hence be ga-thered, that they and the Philiftines were confederate together, and in regard both of vicinity and confederacy, were likely to fare alike the one with the other. By the remnart of them , fome would have meant the Philiftines, in general , because descended from the Caphtorim; but that is not fo: for the Philiftines are faid not to have descended from the Cashterim, but from the Cashuchim, Gen 10.14, Others, those of them, whom the Cashterim flouid leav , when they did over-tun Palestine. But they feem rather to be diffirguished here from the Philiftines, as well as the Tyrians. and iderians, before-mentioned, and to be called the remnant of that countrey, either because the Fgyptians had made spoyl of them before, when they invaded Palefline, and Gaza, near unto which their ancient abode was : or because the Chaldeans were to begin with them, before they fell upon the Philiftines countrey. See the like, chap 25 20 What countrey this Caphiar thould be, much doubt is made. The Chaldee Paraphiaft both here and elfewhere rendreth it, Cappadocia: and with him most , both Greeks and Latines, concur: and a learned late Writer , though affigning Cappadocia to others, yet would feat these Caphtorim in Colchis country, if not coming within the compatte of some part of ir, yet confining at least upon it; and that the rather, because he findeth a region in those parts , called Sidene from a citie therein fituate termed Side, which in Greek fignifieth a pomegranate, as doth caphior also in Hebrew, Exod 39 24 26. But as well Colchis, as Cappadocia, seemeth too tar remote from the habitation of these Caphtorim. One of the Jewish Commenters on this place, with whom the Arabick Interpreter, and one, or two other Jewish Writers are faid to agree, would have caphtor to be Damiata, which the later Greeks call l'amiathu, a city in Egypt : which though it may feem the more probable because they were of Misraims race, yet the facred records feem ftill to feat them not far from the Philiftines, and more into the land, and not likely therefore in Egypt, I thould rather suppose their place of abode to have been between Paleftina, and Idumea, by conjecture f om a city in Idumea, or its confines, called anciently from this Captur Caparorfa; as out of Ptolomy a learned Annotator here observeth. But why is their countrey then termed an ile? may some say; for that term in Hebetwey, though it do not alwayes denote an Iland, properly fo termed; yet it implieth, at leaft, a fear-coult, or a countrey border-ing upon the fea i whereunto some answer, that all temote, or transmarine parts, such as passage was to by sea, are in Scripture so termed : but the word is used more generally for any forreign countrey, one, or other indefinitely See Efai 20.6. and 4 . 1. and fo the Caphtorins countrey, though an inland one, may well come with-

The Greeks joyn this clause to the words following, rendring it, how long will thou cut, O | word of the Lord? but the word is in a reciprocal form : nor is it ever found in any other notion elfewhere. Howbeit those reciprocal forms are not in notion perpetually such; and if any instance of this therein varying from the ordinary use could be produced, I should incline to this Version: the rather, for that the Text would go very smoothly away

V. 2. There shall be no more praise of Mab: in Heshbon they have devised evil against it ;] This pastige is variously both divided and rendred. This of our Version will not well stand, for who in Hestibon should consult, or conspire against Noab? Hesbon it self being a city, and that a chief one in Moabs countrey, Elai 15.4 & 16.8, and no better will that of the old Latine hold, There shall be no more exultation of Moab against Heshbon. For there is as little rea-fon, why Moab should exult against Heshbon, as why Heshbon should conspire against Moab. Others therefore render it, where shall be no more vaunting of Maab in Heshbon; that is, Heshbon shall no more vaunt it self of the strength of their State, of the King dom of Moab its wealth and power. Others, There (ball be no mo vaunting in Moab concerning Hestbon; that is, the Moabires shall vanting in this tendering reposit; that is, the first that in on more value of Helibon as a place impregnable; effected one of the greateft firength in those parts, verse 45. weeping shall go my; as Edi 16.9; m the entities have a cry of defiru-firm.] Heb. of breading; as veri, 3, which some expound a broken cry; as having reference not so much to the occasion, or subject of it, as the Jewith Commenters, and others of our stake it; as to the manner, or quality, and affection of their cry; and because the word enemies is in a form of regiment, they render it, the enemies of breaking, or broken noile, have heard a broken rey, to wit, from the Moabices, crying fo loud, that they drown the enemies shouts with their out cries. But the Jewish Critick well observeth, that the form regent, or the contracted form, is not infrequently found used for the absolute and entire; as Num, 7, 18, 1 King, 46, and 17, 13, and our Version therefore may well stand. As for that which a learned Writer hath, that they wept indeed as they went up to Lubich, but more abundancy and vehemently when they went down from Horonaim, because that was the utter limit of their land; and they were then going into captivity to leave their courty. Rems not fo probable, because of that which followeth, ver 6. Whereby it appeared, that they file drather from them, than were yer led away by them. It feems rather to argue the imporency of their fpirits, and excessive-neffe of their griefs; that whereas it had been their wifest course to have made away, with as much silence, and secrecy as they could ; yet they were not able to contain themselves, but must needs cry out, and that so loud, that the ene-mies themselves might hear them. See somewhat the like, but in another cafe, Gen. 45.2.

V, 6. Fire, fave your lives, and be like the heath in the wilder-neffe. These are by the most Interpreters conceived to be the words of the Moabires, calling one upon another to flee with all speed for their lives, and betaking themselves to the defarts, there to live: as Pfal 55. 7 The word Areer here ufed, the Chaldee taketh for the proper name of a place, as it is afterward, verf. 19. as if it were faid, Be like the tower of Arver that ftandeth in the waste, but therein few follow him: the word fignifieth a bare naked tree: whereof fee on chap.: 7.6. and one of the Jewish Doctors feems to expound it of their cities, leave them as bare as fuch trees on the waste. See verf. 9. Some would have them to be the speach of the Prophet himself in a prophetical way, fore-telling what should befall them, nimier in a propincies waysour-tering what module oran item, to wir, that they flould be compelled to flee for their lives, and be as bare and vile as the heath that groweth on the walle, or as fome naked tree, flanding by it felf alone on the walle, fript of all gracefull furniture of fruit, so leaf, and expoled to all winds and wearthers. And a learned Writer conceiveth it to be mixt with an Irony, as if he thould fay, Flee, ye may fave your lives, and fo do ; bue when you have done all you can, and escaped the sword, your life will be such, that it had been better for you to have died by it, your life will prove more miserable and bitter to you than death. See Lam. 4. 9. I adhere to what was propounded at first: or, if ought further be deemed to ly hid in this last clause, I should raought interes of definition of the first trainers a fround fa-ther conceive it to be fooken out of a regard had, above all be-fides it, to life; as Job 2, 4. Give ye feather, or, wing to Mash: the word here used, doth with the Hebrewes, in the first place, fignific a flower, Job 14,2. Efay 40 6. in the next place, a feather ; fo termed, faith the Jewish Cricick, because feathers sprout out from the bodies of Fowles, as flowers do from the stems and branches of trees and plants: and from a word therefore of that notion have the young of Birds and Fowles their name, Deut, 22.6. Joh 3, to. Pfal 84, 3. feather therefore for feathers, or for wing, confifting of feathers: either taken collectively. Howbeit, some of our Jewish Mafters feecht it another way about; the word, fay they, in Chaldee, fignifies the fins of fith. So used, Levet 1. 5. and in the next place the wings of Fowl : fo they use it, Pfal. 139.9. because wings are to the one, as fins to the other; the one to flye, the other to fwim with. The word in this notion is no where else found in the Hebrew. But the old Latine taking the word in his fifth and proper fence, as also some Greek Versions before it, rendresh it, Give Month a flower, or, flowers, for he shall go out sturying: Which though it be here so senselessed a notion, that it can be no way sirted to the context; yet Popish Expositors waste ink and paper in discoursing at large of it, and descanting upon it; forcing in hither the fading nature of flowers, and the sticking of corpses with them; and adding a forged fixion withall of a ceremony used in the land of Moab, of setting garlands on the heads of those that were to be executed : and all this, because their vitious Version must be maintained, though it be never so absurd. What the ancient Greeks read here is uncertain; for they render it, Give Mould a fign; for with a touch he shall be touched. And the Chaldee roveth here as wide as the reft, rendring it, Take away the crown from Meab, he is going into captivity; and it feemeth that hence the Paraphrast took his rife for this Version; because the word here used doth sometime signific a plate of gold, Exod. 28.36. Lev. 8.9. such as crowns are wont to be adorned with, or consist of: whence also some expound that, Plal. 132. 17. I will adorn the crown, with golden den plates. But the text speaketh of somewhat to be given to him, t taken from him: and the very next words sufficiently refell all thefe figments and fancies: whereof thus much onely, that none may trip or flick at them.

V. 15. Moab is speyled and gone up out of her cities] There is no small varietic of Versions and Interpretations of the latter clause here; for the former is the fame in effect wit's what he had before, 1.8. and have after again, ver 18, 20. The Hebrew hath no more than this, and her Cities 11, or he, Mgone up. Some render it her Cities, or the multitude of her Cities are gone , p, to wit, into smoke; that is they are burnt, as 'udges 20 40. Efay 9.18. Others, ber Cities aregone; they are lost fallen down. So the old I atine: Or are gone up fay fome, that is, are perithed and deflroyed as the Chaldee hath it taken from vapours, that as they alcend, vanish away, James 4 14 so they suppose the word to be taken Amos 8 8 N.h.2. , but thefe places are as dubious if not more than this, Others, be (that is the inhabitant of Moab) is departed from, or gone out of his, or her Cities, or he shall depart from his Cities; as the word is used, Numbers 16.26, 1 Samuel 14.46. Chapter 37. 57. but the Verb is here masculine, the Pronoun affixed to the Noun feminine. Others, be (to wit, the enemy) bath made the Cities to afcend; that is, he hath destroyed and taken them away; as Psalm 102.24 but the forms are not the fame. Others, the flirrer up of her is come kp ; that is, one is come, or coming up to her that will rouz her from her fecurity, verse 11. from a word that fignifies to raife, or rouz he. Joel 3. 9. but no instance of such use of the word is produced. A learned late Annotator coming after all thefe, rendreth it, her enemies are got up, over her : 10 afcend, or get up, or over one, for to over-mafter him, or to be advanced to greater honour and dignity than he : and to descend, for to be overmastered by another, and depreffed to more difgrace and mifery, Deut, 28, 42. So here in this branch, and the next; and the word ar, is by a Chaldeifm put femeorance, and the nextender the word arish by a challening in charge time for far, that is, an enemy, or adverfary; as 1 Samuel 18. 16. Neh 4, 12. Pfalm 10.6. & 95.11. & 144. 12. Efay 8:20.Dan 4.16. and for the diversity of the number between the Verb and the Noun, it is not unusual in a distributive notion; her enemies each of them hath got up, or shall get up; as the like, Exodus 17. 12. Job 12. 7. Proverbs 14.1. Joel 1. 20. But this learned man doth elsewhere go himfelf another way, one of those before specified. I shall adde in the last place mine own opinion, yet not mine alone, for I

V. 11. Leave thy fatherless children, I will preserve them alive, and let thy widowes truft in me.] These words most interpreters conceive to be the words of God himself to the Edomites, as advifing them to commit their children and their widowes to him. And our ancient English Versions render them: Thou shalt leave thy fathert is children with me, and I will beep them: for it is no fmall comfort fay fome of them that goe this way, when men dye, or when they fee they must perish themselves, yet if they have some friends, that will take care for their widows and their orphans : or fay others, when men are compelled to flee, or withdraw themselves, being constrained to flit from place to place, if they have fome friend with whom they may leave wife and children as David did his parents with the King of Mosh, 1 Sam. 22, 3, that which God, as fome suppose, should put the Edomites in hope that he God, as forme hippois, flouid pir the resonances in operation would do for them, when all others thould be not unlike that, Pfalm 27. o. But others conceive that God flocaks it, not as promiting any fuch thing, but implying onely that they should have none left to leave them to, but God, their friends, alliance, and neighbours being in the same case with themselves, verse 10. Others, that they should have no such to leave to any their wives and children being flain as well as themfelves. Whence ic is faid, that there flould be no remainder of them, Obad. 18. and that of Babylon fay they, incl: dethalfo the Ed mites, Plalm 137.7,9. Others, that God speaketh it by way of irony or derision, as if he should say, you may do well to commit and commend your wives and children to me, as hoping that I thould undertake the fecuring of them; but little favour or mercy are either they or your felves like to find with me, who have carried your felves fo infolently rowards me and my people. But these seem all of them semewhat strange and strained inter-pretations. Which the Chaldee perceiving, maketh it Gods speech to the Israelites, rendring the Texts, o house of straelye shall not leave, or leave not jour or phans, I will secure them: and let you wid wes rely on my word; as encouraging them, not the Edomites, to depend upon him ; as one that would take care of them, and provide for them, Pfalm 68,5. But others, as was in part before hinte!, suppose them to be conscived as the forcech of some friends, if any fuch were, that would offer fuch kindneffe to the Edomites in this their diffresse as to undertake loch an office of love and amity in their behalf : to which perpole fame, not of the Jewish Do tours onely, but of ours also following them, tear off the laft claufe from the former verle, and affixe it to this. But howfover in fome places, there may feeme fome necessity of 6 doeing; whereof, see on Edy, 64 r. yer it feemeth nor so here. No man is there that may fay, Leave me thine O phanes &c. O., as I thould rather supply it, to make some coherence of this with the former : Heis not : (Edome himselfe is lost is gone :) Nor is there any to fay, Leave thine Orphanes, I will been them alive. The word rendred terribleness is no where else found; and is therefore by divers diverfly both rendred and expounded. The root from whence it rifeth hath a notion of terrour and trembling in it; and it is but once found, Job 9. 6. but another word thence fp: inging is found oft used for dead or rerour, Job 21.7. Pfal, 55 5. Etay 21.4 Exekiel 7. 18. Some render it, hime idoll, because a word from the same root, differing onely in a ministerial letter, is used for an id II, fo termed, because the worthippers of such dread them, 1 Kings 15,13, 2 Chron, 15, 16. Others, pride or arregancy; fo fome of the Jewish Masters, whom the old Latine followeth, and they fay, pride is fo termed, either by a contrariety of speech because proud persons are furthest from fear, or because they affeet to be frightful to others, Job 40.10.—12. The Chaldee renderth is famels, or fathing, felly, for the word he useth may fignifie either: and they go frequently together, as the Greek Proverbinfo methus. See Elay 6.10. nor as pride and fathings, far alungther than the Greek Proverbinfo methus. der, Pla'm 73.6,7. and 119.69, 70. th : Greek giveth it, fort, or mockery: whince I wot not. A learned Interpreter, harrour or roughness; as having reference to the roughness of those mountains, on which, having expelled the Horites, Edom feated himself, called from their roughness, saith he, the mountains of Seir, Deut. 2, 12. But of these scarce any seem very probable. The plainest. and that wherein most both Jewish and ours agree, is of those that take the word, as its fellow, in a notion of terrour; thereby under-flanding not the terrour wherewith Edom was affected himself, but the perfor that he struck into, and wherewith he was wont to affight others: as the like is faid of other great States, Esay, 14. 16. Ezekiel 32. 23 27.and it is therefore in our Verfion very fitly and exactly rendred terribleness: And pride of heart or a prend heart, (Heb, thy pride of heart, for thy proud heart; as his greatness of heart, for his great stornacte, Esay 10. 12.) is well ad-joyned to this terribleness: for that is one principall thing that putteth up persons with pride, when they perceive that others stand in aw of them, and dare nor fit, or do any thing to cross or oppose them in ought, Elay 10, 12—14, and this terribleness is here faid to have deceived the Edomites, or to have seed, and led them aside as the Chaldee rendreth it; and as Babels wifedome is said to have perverted her, Efay 47. 10, becanfe it made them fecure and prefumptuous, as if none durft attempt ought against them and

and their State, as their enfuing vaunts flew. But herein a learned late writer controlleth all the tormer versions; for faith he, the word of terrow, or terriblenefs, cannot here be joyned with the Verb decerved, or decerveth : for the Noun is feminine, and the Verb mal. culine, and agreeth therefore not with terreus but with pride; and he would therefore have the Text thus to be rendred; Ob thy ierrour ! (as spoken by way of admiration ; as, O their perver frest Elay 29. 16.) the pride of thine heart bath deceived thee; and this Syntax the place in Obadiah, whence this pallage is taken, may feem to feeond; for there this fift term is not found; but the text runneth there, The pride of thine heart hath deceived thee : Obad 4. But to let pass that place of Esay, wherein I conceive that this no-tion will not so well fit, it seemeth not to carry any plain or smooth lense here : and for the diversity of the gender, it is siequently found, and there is an inflance of it in the verfe next before going; where the word widowes is feminine, the Verb of truffing joyned with it, mafculine. Howbeit because the words are so conceived in Obadiah, I suppose that they may well here be thus rendred; Through thy terribleness, or Because of, or by reason of thy terri blenesse, the pride of thy heart, or, thy proud heart bath deceived thee, The particle Beth, taken in such a procuring, or, producing notion, is frequently wanting: As Pfalm 56. 4. and 167.

Some take the word here in the first notion, tendring the Text; I will b. eale or rent them (to wit, the Edomites) afunder as the word is used Job 7.5. and chap 31 15.) and I will make them run out of their Land. I will cary them out of their Land in to captivity. Others take the word in a notion of Suddain, quick momentary motion, or action. And of them fome, whom our Verfion may feem to follow, take it for an adverbial, s they suppose it and not be provided that an avertism and the supply it of the Edom test invading Ifrael, whom God would fuddenly drive our a ain, See Edy 59, 10. The fame way goe the ancient Greeke and old Latine though in expolition of the futernee they depart both from those, and either from other : for the Latine rendreth it I will ca Je him to com: suddenly into the land. I will cau'e the enemy suddenly to invade it : the Greek, I will make them suddenly to r. nout of their Land, being by the enemy thence expelled. Others taking it for a Verb, but in the same notion, thus render it, I will in a moment app oach to her or bring him to her, and I will make him run from her, that is, depart again and retire as speedily, having had good successe, and obtained in a short time, what he came for. Those laftly, that take it in a notion of reft, render it; fome, when I fhall have rested a while, as Elay 18 4 Others when I shall make to rest: when my purpose is, and I shall come to live rest to my people Ifrael, chap. 31.2. I will male him (to wit, Ifrael) to sun out of her; that is, out of Edoms land, where they had been in captivity. Others, when I nave caufed him to reft I will male him run ott of it : after that I have fuffered the Edomites to enjoy reft for a while, I will compell them to q it their Countrey, and disperse themselves into forcein parts. But neither is the word people, here, which the Chaldee crammeth into the Text: nor is there any necessity that the word should here be taken, fince that the current of the context runneth clearly for Judah and Ifrael : it may rather imply, that they had fo broken their conjugal Covenant with God, and God fo cast them of their conjugal Covenant with Goos and Goo to cate trem on thereupon, than 3.1.8 and 3.13.1 that they were in a manner become as meere firangers to God, chap, 2.5,15,Holea, 9.10. The former is conceived to be that of the people called Mardi , fo termed from their head Cirie Me de; and the word feemeth to bear a dual form, in regard that the countrey was divided into two parts by the river Tigris that ran through ir; that nation inhabiting part of the one fide of it, which fload in Affyria, and part on the other fide, within the circuit of American below the fide of the other fide, within the circuit of American like the circuit of the circuit of American like the circuit of the nia, See Prolomy, lib.5, cap 13 Strabo, lib.11 and 2. and Ste-phen the Byzantine, place them either within Hy cania, or in the confines thereof; in whole works allo they are called diverfly, fometime Mardi, and fometime Amardi: the latter to wit, Pekod, is to and mentioned, Ezek. 23 23. whence fome conceive it to have been a city, or region of Chaldra; others rather or Afsyria, fituate in the lower part of it, and fo termed as fome fupnofe, because it was invested with the presetture and command of the parts thereabout; Nineveh that sometime had the preeminence, being then ruined: that it belonged to one of those Provinces, that place of the Prophet fufficiently theweth : and that Cyrus marched through Afsyria unto Babylon is apparent, by Herodote, lib. 1. The words therefore may well thus be rended, as they lye in the Text, and according to the pointings of them there, a sinft the land, for, this land; for the article is here demonstrative: as in that form; the day, for, this day, chap, 49, 19, 21.) from (or, by) Merathaim (a defect of the particle, as Gen. 4.1. Thus Jeremy describes the course of Cytus his progress toward Babylon, as Efay doth of Sennacheribs march toward Jerufalem , Efay and the former the Chaldee, whom the old Latine also followeth, renders, the land of those that rule : as if it came from a Syriack term that fignificth to rile: whence Maran-aiba 1 Cor. 16, 22. fterious and more abstruse senses. For some of the Rabbines, by a device of theirs, which they call Aibbash, whereof see on c. 2, 2.6, do out of the words leb Lamai, the hear of these that rise against me, pick out Costlim, the Chaldeans, Others of them suppose a trajection in the text, and would have the words thus orderly against the beart of those that rife the gazinst meshe inhabitants of the land of Chaldea, before pointed to in Babbin: like that Efay to, 1. I will wifter upon the King of Alfpria's great beaut. And the Chaldee goeth formewhat the like way, but swarving more from the text, against the inhabitants of the Chaldeans people murtherous, haughty of heart, and goodly of stature : as alfo the old Latine somewhat after the like ftrain; but ture: is a nio ne on Laine somewhat with the line strain; but more succinelly, and coming nearer to the texts; against be inhabitants thereof that have lift up their heart against me: one of our prime Interpreters, the inhabitants of the heart; that is, those that dwell in, and rest upon their own counsels, devices and couries. And a late learned Annotator, against those that are secure in heart before me; for the word faith he, is fitting; and fitting, is a fign of feetitity, and so one of the Rabbines sometime useth that word: and Kamai is here an abbieviation of Kodomai, and the Talmudifts oft so use it. But where doth the Scripture ever once fo take it ? or where find we in Scripture fuch a form as this, dwellers, or fitters of heart, for, secure ones, or persons that sit, dwell, or live securely? And to what purpose is it to have recourse to such forced and far fetcht strains, when we have a plain and familiar sence, freely and of its own accord offering it felf to us?

Against him that bendeth, let the archer bend his bow, and against him that lifteth himself up in his brigandine.] So the Jewith Commencers well expound it, Against those that shoot with the bow, and those that appear in their armour among the Chaldeans, let those of the Medes and Persans that use the bow, bend is, and let sh their shafts at them, Heb.el, for, als against, or at say, 1. and tread, for bend, because that is the end of it; as < 5,0.14. Howbeit a learned late Writer thus rendreth the words. Unto the bender, that bendet bit bow and to him that advanceth in his brigandine, (to wit, those of either fort in Cyrus his army) thus saith the Lord, spare not ber young men, &c. and the word of bending is thrice repeated, implying that they should bend as deep as might be. And this way in part the ancient Greek feemeth to go : but taking no notice of

Let him that bendeth bend his bow, and let him that hath armour put it on.] But the former fense seemeth the more familiar, than either of thefe, and keepeth closer to the express terms of the text, which the Chaldee, and the old Latine that followeth it, not leaving only, but croffing, while in flead of el, they render al, the negative or inhibitive particle, and render it, Let not him that draweth the bow, draw it, faith the one; and let not him that bendeth, bend his bow, draw it, laith the one; and let not time that bendette, bend his bow, laith the other; nor let him go up in his bragandine. One of the words of bending in the text, is by the lewith Masters deemed fuperfluous. For the Jewish Commenters, whom fome other alfo follow, conceive this whole fpeech, as that allo, ver. 11, to be directed to the Medes and Persians, inciting them to use all possible industry and diligence in besetting and al-faulting the city of Babylon; and would have this first branch sucant; some, of marching with their ensignes displayed towards Babylon because the Hebrew is el, that is, wate Babylon but is hath been formerly observed, that el is of cufed for el, spengas chep, 8,11, and 6,3,51,6,67. And others therefore understand it of section gup their banners on the top of her walls and towers, in clear of conquest and triumph, when they have taken it: like that, Pfal, 74,4. But to omit that the words run then in a preposterous renour, inciting to triumph in the first place; and to fedulous, vigilant, and cautious courses for surprised in the second content of the context carries it clearly the contrary way. And others therefore rather deem the words directed to the Babylonians, in an interval way. The second content is not word to the context of the context of the three of the context of the c irony; advising them to use all the care, diligence, and caution they can, to lecure and lafeguard themselves and their city against the enemies assaults, isophying, fay fome, that they should not want either courage to stand to it, and make their party good against the adversary, or means sufficient, as they suppose, to oppose them: but withall, as the most, that all their endeavours would not avail. ough; or, as a late learned Writer conceiveth, twitting them with their reminels and retchlefnels, that little regarding the enemy fet down before them, as if they were fafe enough, & fufficiently fecuredagainft him, by the river that are condition them; neglected the means of defence, and gave themselves to julity and reveiling, which they were deep in, what time, by occasion thereof, the city was taken. So Psal-79.10.

And for the latter, to wit, Minni, the Chaldee here hath also Armenia: which countrey divers learned men suppose so to be termed by a word compounded of two other, either Aram and Minnt, (because by ria was sometime deemed to take in Armenia, as Strabo, lib. 1. & 12. Pliny, lib. 5. cap. (1.) or of Har and Minnt, as the more mountainy part of Minni; and under these two terms therefore conceive to be comprehended the higher and lower Armenia; not want there of them who deem Minnt to be the same country, which Nicholas of Damascus calleth Minyas, on a mountain above which in Armenia, he faith that one arrived in an Ark at the time of the an Armenia, ne iaith riat one arte in air the deluge. appoint a captain against her:] So the Jewish Commenter, one of them, following the Chaldee, expoundeth it as a military term and office, a captain: though another of them, a Prince; be cause the latter syllable of the word is in a manner the same with cause the latter system of the word is an animal in claim with the Hebrew term that fo fignifieth. And because the former part of the word in Hebrew fignifieth a little one: Hence, Jome Cot-tiktower-currently defearing upon it, would have it or impor-an inferiour Prince, or one set over the meaner fort; and the clid Laine therefore in Naha, 17, 17, where the fame word is used in the plural form, rendreth it, little ones. In this it retaineth the word, as proper name of a perfon, as forewould have it, of a place, or people, as fome other: Which because it is fingular here; John would have it to denot therefore a Gierralli, and this, the of them, must need be Cyrus: but another convolling that concit would have it to be a Liversant Ciercalli under Cyrus; that may rule the Army by direction from him, and may from time to time acquaint the feverall regiments with his mind and pleafure: and would have the word to import a Prince of infillation, or inter-pretation, from an Mebrew word that fignifieth to diffill, or desp, applyed fometime to teaching, preaching, and prophecying, Job 29, 22, Mic. 2. 6,11. But the word feemeth to be a forcin term, and these strained interpretations rather witty than weighty, Some and their trained interpretations rather which that weight, some would have it to fignify an army; building on the old Latine, that biddeth, Mufter Tablar. The Greek rendreth it Beres desus, that is, engines to cast arrowes or darts. A learned Annotator would have it a Persian word, but of the Hebrews, corrupted, partly by transposition, and partly by transmutation of letters, from one that is uled, Esth, 9, 13, and to be the same with that which by the Greeks and Latines is called Satrapa: and would therefore the Greeks and Latine's Science Satisfar and wonder the clothe have the the meaning to be, fet a fatisfar overit; make it, of a Kingdome, a fatisfar ; that is, a Province; for the Satisfar were Governours of Provinces. Thus it should be herein nor were Governours or Provinces. Thus it montu be necentiar unlike that of Rezin and Pekah concerning the some of Tabeel, Efay 7. 6. But not to insist on any debate about the deduction of the word, though more probable than any of the former. yet tiphfar from Athassadarpan, not so easily brought. about the whole tenour of the Prophets speech here, both in the words next before, and those that immediately follow after, is concerning the muftering of forces against Ba-bylon, not concerning her, as being not yet dealt with, much less subdued. Amids this great variety I shall make bold to suggest mine own thoughts. I conceive with those Jewish Masters above mentioned, that the word fignifieth a Captain, and to above mentioned; that the wording mention is defined to be a term of fome military prefecture; and fo it feemeth to betaken, Nah. 3, 17, for elsewhere, favehere and there, it is not found in Scripture. But in one of the Chaldee Paraphrases it is faid to be taken for Angels, that are as Captains of Gods hoft, Gen. 3 2. 1, 2. Joh. 5. 14: and our Version in Nahum well rendreth it Captains; for of military men it is spoken: and so might it very well be rendred here; for the word is collective; as the word brife in the next clause: and the text to me seemeth clear and plain to this purpole , fet up Captains , or, Commanders againft ber; to wir, over thole forces, that ye shall gather together out of the nations before mentioned: for in vain doth that great man press this place, to ex lude Darius, and to back his frained interpretations Kings for a King, v. 11,28, whereof fee further there.

cause her forses to come up on the rough saterpillers.] That the word horse is here collectively taken; as Plalm 76. 6, is not to be doubted; and that the word rendred saterpillers (fingular also but taken collectively; as Pialm 105.34.) doth fignific a kind of locufts , bath been showed already , on v. 14. The question is here onely in what regard these horses are compared to locusts, or such a kind at least of them, as this term importeth: and here some would have them to be intended like them for multitude, and render the navetnem to be internace like them for multitude; and renace the words, bring ago, to bring up; (as Exol. 3.1. 1 Sam.1.9.1 5 Sometime a military term. Others would have the refemblance to confift in the motion of either, make the borfe to rife like locasts; that is, to prance, or to convet, or to leap and run, as locustrusc to do, skipping and slying from place to place, either by thorter jumps when they remove not place to place, effect on more injunes when they remove nor large or ly longer lights; as when they paffe former move-fea, Of the motion of the localits, fee Joel 2, 4, 5, 7, 9, where they are compared to before, as he'r fear, the text or them: and of hosfs and charrets, Nah. 3, 2. Ihe former way the Greek gooth; the Chaldee the latter, I conceive the founts he intracted, boughthe latter not improbable, But there is an Epithet given here to this kind of locusts, concerning which there is some diversity of opinion, and from which some d aw new resemblances. The word rough, that our Versions yield, is by the Jewish Commenters approved, pointing us to the places, where the word it comet of doth to fignify, Job us to the places, where the word it cometo of doth fo fignify, Job. 41, Fifal; ray, soo, and in the places alone it is found. Nor do I fee why it flouid be rejected, the originall of the world backing it, and the relations within! constraint of whose that write of the feweral kinds of health, a mong which they offirm fome to be rough? Yet the Chaldee here rendreth it, gliftering, a shore kind of files allo do, as well as the glow-worm: and this fome would apply to allo do, as well as the glow-worm: and this some would apply to the host-emen glittering armour, or the trappings of their hoste, See Rev. 9.7. The Latine rendreth it, furnished with fings, or prieklet: and that some such thing the male louth shave in their tails both Aristoce, lib. 5, cap. 28. and Pliny 1. 11. c. 29. sfirm; and hither also some would draw that, Rev. 9. 3, 10. and those would have their retembled to such locality, as those in John, for would nave trace retained to man; only they question whether this attribute should belong to the buffe or the keaff, which will come much to one. Lastly, a late learned Amostaco rendered the word waffing; and feems to a feribe it to the horse, medium, at the boast: a not of the locust I salying all waste before it; where is no doubt, Plai. 105. 34,35. Anner i omnear a unner findle tirm, and a reporter to meet a reporter. Or, A polf shall run meeting a polf; and a missinger and polf, for, one post and another; and or reporter, or missinger the like: as day to day; and night to night, for, one day to another, and, one night to another , Pfal. 19. 2. and, to meet, for, meeting, or, in meeting, as 1 Sam, 2, 34 unleft thu hadft made hafts, and hadft tome meeting me: and of this ule of the particle, fee chap 35.8 98.8 38.48.44.5.17. The meaning is, faith the Jewish Commenter, there shall come post upon post, and mellenger upon mellenger, that as one goeth away, he shall meet with another coming; and all to bring word to the King of the surprisal of the city, (Heb. 10 report, or, declare to the King of Babel) that his city is taken from the end, or, at the end; as, at my right hand, Plat. 16 8. & Exod. 37 8. at the end on this fite, and, As the end on that fide; that butily it taken at the one end; as our Version rendreth it; and the like is again, verse 46, and yet there needeth not here that restrictive supply; at, or, on the end, or, edge of it, is enough; for whether it were taken by assault made on the one fide onely; or, on either fide at once, (as a learned Interpreter would have it both where the river entred into the city, and where again it palsed out) at, or, on the end, or, skirt of it, it was. For whereas a learned Annotator would have it expounded; his city is taken from end, that is, it is all taken, the whole city is taken : and addeth withall, that this is a most manifest place, to prove that acception of this forme, which he attributeth unto it, to wit, a notion of university, or, as we use to speak, universality : that which, I fuppole, no one place produced by him proveth, and this here least of any that the term imported precisely, from the end, or extremity, cannot be doubted, much less denied. Now because the end, extreme part of a company may be the best, or chief, one way; the worft and meaneft another way; hence the word is used some time for the chief; as where it is said, that Joseph took of the end (the better end) of his brethren, the chief of them, and fet them before Pharaoh, Gen. 47. 2, fometime for the meanest; as where tis said of Jeroboam, that he made Priefts of the ends (of the fag end, as we say) of the people s of the meanest of them, 1 Kings 12.31. and the word is plural here, which was singular there, where applyed, as may feeme to the better part. As for that of the Sodomites, Gen. 19.4. the whole people from the end : the univerfality is in the whole people, young and old, the place or places from whence they came, noted onely in the word end, or quarter; as it is sometime not amiss rendred, So Elay 56. 11. every one from his quarter: and of the Danites, from their quarters. Judg, 18. 2. and if it be rendred as our Version doth it, from every quarter: the universality will be, nor in the word quarter, but in the nore of generality supplyed; as I Sam. 30. 8. Elay 30. 17. but I thould rather render it from each ones quarter; as in distributive notions is wont to be expressed. See Elay 2, 20. & 26, 19. So Numb. 11. 1. fire was kindled, and devoured in the quarter, or quarters (the wood being taken collectively) of the camp. And for that, Cap 50.26.enough was faid of it there. Yet will I not deny but that this form may sometime signific from among; as the Chaldee renderth it, Ezek. 33. 1. and if any shall deem it to to be taken, either Gen. 47.2. or I King, 12.31, I shall not contend with him. But that implieth not an universality, which this learned man ftriveth for ; Nor do I fee any colour of ground here to admit it: nor can it be fo taken, but where it hath some other noun after it to rest on, as in those places it hath : nor yet in fuch case neither, where it passeth on to some other end, or extreme; as Gen. 47.21. Exod. 26.28. & 36. 32. But could his exposition of it here be made good, and the marter of the melsage brought to the King, thus by post after post, were, that bis whole city was taken, it would much conduct to strengthen the opinion of a late Writer of great note, who building upon a relation of Berolus a Chaldee Writer, reported by Joseph the Jew, against Apion, lib.t. maintaineth very flifly, that when Cyrus was marching with his army towards Babylon, the King of Babylon whom he called Nabonidus, went forth to meet him, with fuch forces as he had: but being worked by him, fled with fome few to a Town called Borsippus, whither Cyrus having taken Babylon, a Town called Bosspus, whither Cyrus having taken Babylon, and given order for the demolishing of the walls thereof, afterward pursued him, and having there taken him, gave him his life, and bestlowed the province of Carmania upon him. And he prefesch this place very hard for the further proof of this floy; For what needed, skin he, fust politing to the King; who ever he was, to acquaint him with the furpifal of the city, if he were at that time in the city, and not rather in some remove place? And indeed the city, and not rather in some remove place? if the whole city had been taken, as that learned Annotator would have it , the King and his Court needed not be informed of it by melsengers, they would have been themselves in the midft of the broyl. But this relation neither forteth well with other the passages of the Prophet in this place; and it is far otherwise, and more agreeably to the Prophets discourse, related by Herodote, lib. I, who agreeably to the Prophets antoning resulting a recovery wrote near two hundred years before this Berofus, and received what be wrote hereof from the Chaldeans, as also by Xenophon, lib 7, that wrote about an hundred before him ! neither of them make mention of any fuch flight of the Babylonian King to Borfippus; and the latter of them expressy mentioneth the mutthering of him in his palace at Babylon : whom it Cyrus had dealt so kindly with, as Berofus reporteth, or had he heard of any fuch thing, would not have failed to have inferted it into Cyrus his life, whom for his humanity and kind usage of those whom he conquered, he ftriveth by all means and upon all occasions to extell. And for the post upon post, or runner upon runner, as the Hebrew hath it, comeing one upon the neck of another to bring tidings to the Kings Court of the taking of the city, we need not remove King or Court out of the city, to some more remote place, if we do but consider, first what kind of messengers it is that the Prophet here speaketh of for neither are they ho fimen, fuch as those 2 Kings 7 4. & 9. 18.19. fent out for scours; not Perfiar rofts, (as that learned Writer ex-poundeth the terme here used) disposed into certaine stages, (whence ours have their name) to dispatch messages and intelligences with speed; but as the word is plain, curriers, or runners, foot-pofts, as we use to speak; such as Ahimaas and Cushi, 2 Sam 18. 19 --- 23, and again if we thall take notice of the ftrange largeness and amplitude of the city, even within the walls, in regard whereof Aristotle therefore in his Polnisks, lib 3.cap.2. Saith, that it deferved the name rather of a country than of a city: and withall what both he and Herodore also report, the one of them , that the utmoft parts of the city, the ends, as our Prophet here Speaketh, were taken, while those that dwelt in the midst were wholly ignorant of it, having heard nothing at all thereof, but went on with their revelling, (for at one of their drunken festivals it was taken) fee on verse 39, 41 the other from some other ancient historians, that it was three dayes after it was taken, before tidings came of it to some part of the city. And thus much may ferve to clear this place both from those forced expositions of the terms therein used, and the removall of the ground thereupon laid, to thwart the received opinion concerning Cyrus and Darius their joynt surpriful of Babylon, conjoyned with the flaughter of the King of Babylon,

V. 32. And that the passages are flopped: Or, rather, taken, as Verse 41 or, seized, or, surprized, as Chap, 48.41. the passages; that is, such places by which from the river Euphrates there was ordinarily entrance into the city : as one of the Rabbines expoundeth its who addeth also not amiss, that by the passages, is consequently understood the forts and towers situate in those places, to inhibit enemies from entrance; as of Moab, Chap.48.41.01, as others, enemies from entrance; as or monar, Chap. 48, 41. or, as others; not unlike to that, Judg. 12. 5., where it is faid, that they note the paffages of fordan, that is the places by which men usually pafsed over it is o here paffages are taken, whereby the river Euphrates is, or may be, paffed over i and this way if we take it, it may be rendred, paffages have been deprehended, or discovered, or found out : as the word is used of the wife suspected of disloyalty, it & hidden from ber husbands eyes, and she hath not been deprehended that is, discovered, found in the deed, or, as our English rendreth it, taken with the manner. and the reeds they have burnt with fire. That which is here rendred reeds; the Jewish Commenter expoundeth great rushes; deriving it from a word that fignifieth a rufh, Job 8, 11, and making it the same with that rendred a bullrufh, Elay 58, 5, and these, faith he, Cytus his fouldiers burnt down, that they might not hinder their accesse to the walls of the city; but the words are not the same: and it would rather be rendred with the old Latine, meers, or pools. So the word is commonly, yea, generally, used; as Pfalm 114. 8. Efay 14.23. & 19. 10. & 32. 6. & 41. 18. & 42. 15. Nor need we, with that Jewish Critick, have recourse to the Arabick, who fuggefleth, that in that language, the word fignifiest a fori; and would have it to taken here. The meaning is, that Cyrus had by draining fo dryed up the meers, that were about Babylon, that they were as if they had bean walled, and burnt up with fire, And hither fome think that of Efay hath fome reference, Efay 44-27,28. For as for that which fome furmife, that Cyrus his fouldiery might fire the reeds, rushes, flags, and such sedgy stuffe as grew in those meery places, thereby to harden the ground, and make it the more passeable, to me scemeth very improbable; considering, how fuddenly the attempt was to be made, and how covertly to be carried, whereas this would have retarded the enterprize, and partly with the smoke of the green, rushy, and ledgy matter have smothered and choaked the assailants, partly by the matter have imothered and choaked the aliailants, partly by the flame and crackling of the dryer reedy fluth; have difcovered them, and given notice of their approach unto thole in the city, who might as eafly then, as Herodoce well observeth, have taken them as fish in a purifier,

So wont to be threshed, as some; taking the word indefinitely. So there should be a defect both of the particle in, and of the relative that : but the Jewish Master taketh it rather for an infinitive , in that; but the Jewith Mafter taketh it rather for an infinitive, in the time of threshing it; the word significht stread; but to tread, both in Hebrew and syriack, I Cos. 9, to, is used for to thresh, faith a tearned Writer, and of the Syriach ke gived an instance but none of the Hebrew in which it is used for treading of grapes commonly 3 as Elay 63, 2, 3, Chap, 6, 33, and of olives also fomerime, Mice. 1, 5, but of corn, for threshing, or, treading it out; I find not where it is used. Yet thus also some of the Jewith Companyers, becen commonly in the state of the standard state of the standard state of the standard menters, here expound it, Babylon is like a floor full of fleaves; the menters, nere exposina stransports in the a moor tuit of meaves, the time of threshing her approached nor, when the time of it, to wit, of the shoor; (for the word of shor is in stebrow feminine) approach-eth. But to speak properly, the shor is not fail to be the sched-the the avest of corn in the short, whereof there is no minion in the text. And I concur therefore rather with those, that take the word in its native and most usual notion, for to tread, as Judg. 20. 43. conceiving it to have reference to the usual manner of preparing and fitting of floors for threshing against harvest time, by new laying, and claying, or plaiftering of them, and then treading them down to make them, as well firmer as eavener. So the meaning will be; the City and State of Babylon must be thrown down and levelled, made caven and plain, Verse 25, as a threshing-floor against harvest time, that her Princes and people may be threshed in her. This is reported by Athenaus in his Supper-Sophifters, or Table-discourses, lib. 14. one of Berofus his Babylonian, and Crefias his Perfan foices: as also Dion Chrysoftome, in his fourth Oration of Kingly power, mentioneth it. And at the time of this feast, (for the same by all circumstances it seemeth to have been) when the whole city was in this posture of revelling and routing, and the people as well great as small drowned in drink, did Cyrus take his opportunity to seize upon the city as the Au-thours before mentioned, both Herodote and Xenophon report: and the Prophet therefore the rather calleth Babylon by that name, as pointing with the finger to that very time, in which that State was to receive its fatall blow. Nor is it unlikely, as that during the time of this festival (according to that Prussian Witers relation) besides their houshold Masters of missule, they had one, whom they make a publike spectale of , for having made choyce of some notorious malefactor or other condemned to die, they arrayed him as a King, and fet him in a chaire of effate. allowed him a table royally furnished, efficers to wait on him, and concubines to make use of at his pleature; and thus he passed the time so long as the festival lasted; but that expired, they stripe the time to long as an electrical natice; out that expired, they thing, which him, which him, and hanged him: fo that the king, to adde the more grace to that idol-leftivity, might over and beful el general levels, make that folloum invitation of his great ones, and give that royall entertainment unto them at that lipper, which he then little thought should be his last, Dan. 5. 1. 30. wherein by Gadatas and Gobrias, two of Cyrus his Commanders, and their followers, be was flain, in revenge of some wrongs formerly done to them and their friends, as Xenophon relateth it. But what found fuch inframents do here, among brafen caldrons and flowels? The word is indeed rendied fnuffers : as here, fo 1 King. 7. 50. 2 King. 12. 13. 2 Chro. 4. 12. and being fo taken, it may come from another acception of the fame root, whereby it fignifies properly pune, and by pruning, to trim trees and plants, and confequently by a metaphorical use of its lamps; whence the fn first might have their name ; for that they pare off the superfluous part of the wicke , as pruning books (t. om hence in Hebrew fotermed, Ffay 2.4.) do the superfluities of plants; but those smallers belonging to the lamps were of gold; as by the places above pointed to appeareth : whereas these were of brasse, and are reckoned among those implements that belonged to the brasen altar; and I conceive therefore it should rather be rendred tongs; though by another name also fo termed from a root that fignificth to take; because by them men are wont to take up quick-coals, and the like, from the fire on the hearth, or in the chimney, Elay 6. 6. and yet is the same word used also for suffer; so termed, because they lay hold on the wicke, and take it by the end to raise it up: and it is for endred in our Version among the implements which belong to the lamps, Exod. 37 23. nor fee I on what ground the fame Interpreters turn them ellowhere into tonges, Exod. 25, 38, and Num 4.19, whereas the very word next entiting, in all the three places to wir, fouffdiffies, doth evidently them the word before it, to intend no other than fuffers: (and indeed what we is there of tongs about lamps?) the very felf-fame thing being spoken of in all those places. Howbeit, in Solomons Temple, it feemeth, that there were instruments of two forts, that were used about the lamps, the one to raise up the wicke, called by this latter term, and another to inip it off, defigned by the former : for both the terms are found diffinelly mentioned, 1 King 7.49,50. 2 Chron. 4. 21, 22, though but one of them in Moses; and tongs seemeth no fit term for either. But as the word that fignificth tongs properly, is used also for fauffers, in regard of some general notion defined in that term, common to either; fo the word that most usually signifieth snuffers, scemeth both here, and 2 King, 25, 16, used for tengs, in regard of that

The word is used sometime for a bowl to drink in; as Amos 6.6 and such in likelyhood were those that were in the Temple and Tabernacle, for the receiving of the wine or drink-offering and pouring it out upon the facrifice : fometime for a bafon: fuch as were those that were used to receive the blood of the facrifices fo called, fay the Jewish Criticks ; because out of them the blood of the beaft facrificed was fprinkled,pare of it upon the Altar, the refidue being poured down at the foot of it. and the froons] Or dishes, or incense-cups. See on v. 18. and the cups] So the ancient Greek and old Latine render it, That by the term fome implement is defigned appertaining to the Table of Shew-bread, is apparent from Exodus 25. 29. and Numbers 4.7. And whereas there are two terms there joyned toge ther, this and another, the Jewish Masters some of them tell us, if we may believe them, that thereby are designed certain golden pipes, or half pipes rather, like to cleft reeds, or canes, and props or fhores made fomewhat after the manner of a fork : and whereas the loaves or cakes of flew-bread were to be fet on two rowes, fix in either row one upon another, these half-pipes were to be laid three of them between every other cake, to make free pallage for Air between them, and so to keep the bread from moulding; and can active enterent amon to recept the oreast from montaining; and that those forked props or thores were to keep up these half pipes; and enable them the better to bear up the weight of the bread:

Briffe of them, to wit, of all these Veffels, there was no weight of the bread:

common use there is of them to trimme lights with the one, and | and that hence the term here used hath its name; because these pipes or halfe pipes kept the bread pure and free from growing mouldy. But some of them of no small note berein diffent from sheir fellows; nor is there among those of them, that go this way, an entire agreement; for some of them would have this here mentioned agreement; for other of them would have that to be the props, and that other the props; others of them would have that to be the props, and this the press; and fome of ours, because the root it cometh from hath a notion of making or keeping pure, or clean, conceive thereby to be meant befores, and fo render it : but of that somewhat was faid upon occasion of another term on Verse 18. and of silver and golden besims, I remember not to have read. By those places of Moses pointed to, and compared together it appeareth, that the use of them both was one and the fame, to wit, to cover the Table, (fo the words are expressly in both places) that is, the things set upon the Table, to wit, the bread, and the incense, which stood both upon the Table in two Chargers the one ; in two leffer diffies the other : which how those pipes or props may be faid to doe, is beyond my shallow capacity. But these were then both in nature of covers, if Moses may be believed: and it may be (as to me seemeth) not improbably conjectured, that the one was of a larger fize or bredth, flat-bottomed, not unlike to our Plate-trenchers; that it preath, that bottomed, not unlike to our Plate-trenchers; that it might both cover the uppermoll toaf, or cake, (which was in likely-hood of some good bredth, containing, as each of the refl, two ten parts of an Epha, Levicius 24, of which measure; etc on If say 5, 10, that is, two Omers, Exodus 16, 16, and have the incense—up, or dish, allo set onie; the other of less compassed to cover the incense, which in a Cup or Dish, stood on the uppermost loaf or cake of either row, Leviticus 24.6. both-for use at least, if not for fashion, not unlike to such fort of covers, as we have oft for greater glasses and standing cups, the one, the other to those Brasen-plates made of those mutinous ones, censers, to cover the Altar. Numbers, 16. 38, 39. nor is this use of them unfultable to the terme given the one of them, that is here mentioned: for by means hereof both the bread and incense were kept clean, and free from dust or ought else that might cafually fall on them. But this my conjecture, I shall leave to the learned; refting ready to yield unto any, that shall produce and render some more prabable matter.

To which is answered by one, that the nether most parts of the Sea are here meant by the word bases: by Jewish Doctour, that the meaning is, they flood below by. or befide the bases: by a third, that there is in the Text a defect thus to be supplyed, the welve Bulls that were under it, (to wit, the sea.) and the bases, before-mentioned, v. 17. The bases are omitted, 2 Kings 25, 6.

V. 21. And concerning the pillars, Heb. And the pillars; as and the beight of one pillar was eighteen cubits,] This agreech with what is related, 1 Kings 7, 15, where the making of them is mentioned : as also with a Kings 25, 17, where the same story with this is reported. But in 2 Chron cles 3. 15 parallel to that, 1 Kings 7.15. the pillars are faid to be thirty five cubits long : for fo the words are there, he made and placed, or to be placed hefore the house (a complexive form of speech, for they were not there made, but in the plain of Jordan, 2 Chronicles 4. 17. though to that place they were defigned, and there they were placed, I King. 7. 21. See of the like on verse 11, 20.) two pillars thirty and five cubits in length. Thefe feeming differences to reconcile, fome have recourse to the divertity of cubits, which (fay they) were of two forts, the civil or common cubit, confifting of one foot and an half Ex hand bredths twenty four finger bredths, and eighteen thumbbredths; and the facred or holy cubit that confided of an handbredth, or foure fingers more than that other, Fizekiel 40.5. & 43.13 that which exactly agreeth with what Herodote reporteth of the royal cubit in Egypt, that it was three thumbs bredth longer than the ordinary cubit, and the computation, fay they, is made by the civil or common cubit in the one place, by the facred in the other. But because this computation will not serve to bring up the less number to the greater; for an hands bredth added unto each cubit will not raife eighteen, to above 21 which cometh far fhort of thirty five. Some tell us of a third fort of cubics that was of a double length to the common cubit, called the chief cubit, 2 Chronicles 3.3. and the arm-hole cubit, because it reached not from the top of the hand to the bending of the elbow, as the common cubit, but up to the arm-hole, Ezekiel 44.8 And this being admitted might indeed bring us home to the longer measure, and a little alment indeed bring us nome to the longer measure, and a little alfo beyond ir, a cubit over either in the geater (fay they) omitted, because it belonged to the bass, or in the less number, though but seventeen and an half indeed, added to make up a full number. But the places produced for it are both ambiguous, the latter especially, on which the main weight of this conceit lyeth; and by the word remdred arm-hole, some interpreters of prime note conceive some part of the building it self to be meant, which they render a wing. Certain to me it feemeth, that no other cubit can there be meant, than that which was before mentioned, chap. 40.5. where the Angel is faid to have had in his hand a measuring cane, reed or rod of fixe bits, by the cubit and an hand-bredth; and here, as having an eve to what he had there fail, he faith, that the foundations of the fide Chambers were the fulneffe of the reed of fix cubits : that is full as long as that meadining cane of fix cubits: and what cubit can there be any reason to imagine here intended, other than that fo fpoken of at first and after repeated again ? which may also justly be deemed to be the fame with that chief one mentioned in the dimensions of Solomons Temple; if the word at least be there so to be rendred, whereof some also make doubt. This therefore unless better ground could be produced, will hardly here help us. Some other therefore have recourse to the fabrick of the pillars. Thele pillars, or columns, faith a learned Writer, confifted of five parts, a figure table at the bottome, rundle or round bass upon that the flassing or main body; the head, or Chapiter, and the crown, or pomel. Unto which five I suppose a fixth may well be added, the fquite border on which the Pomegranats were : whereof fce on verse 23. Now, faith this learned man, the shaft or the main body of the piller was of eighteen cubits mentioned in the one place: the fquare Table and round basis below, together with the Chapiter and Coronet above, made out between them the other feventeen and these altogether with the faft, make up the thirty five related in the other. The Jewith Doctors go a third way. The one place. fay they, speaketh of either pillar apart , which were either of them of eighteen cubits, in the fhaft or main body; besides the Chapiters, the measure whereof is reported by it felf, I Kings 7.16 the other place peaketh of them joyntly together, as they were caft at first in one entire body, though after divided into two; and one cubit, say they is not expressed in the whole number, because it was divided between them, and went with either to the making up of the Chapiter on the top, and to back this their opinion, they press the word of length used in the Text: for it faith not, say they, the height of the pillars, as in other places, where they are spoken of as they flood, but the length of them, because he speaketh of them as lying yet along on the ground in the place where they were at first cast. Either of these two last seem to carry some good probability with them.

and a fillet of twelve cubits did compass it, Heb. a thred (as Geand a just of twelve cuots and compass is, i loco. a local (MOC-nells 14.23, rendred a line, 1 Kings 7, 15, a cond., locale, 4, 18,) of twelve cubits will, or would, or might compasse it: the Verbin a Potentiall notion: as, it will, (for, it would, or could) contain, mult of necessity be out: for four fingers cannot make a dimetient of eight cubits in a column. But I doubt that this learned man is herein himfelf rather much miftaken : the purpose of the Writer hereof, whoever he was, being not, as I conceive it, to give the diameter, or breadth, of the main body of the pillar, (what needed that when he had related the exact compais of it before, from whence the diameter might be easily gathered?) but to acquaint the Reader with the thicknesse of the brass thorowout the main bo. dy of the column ; which though it were not entirely folid and maffic, but hollow within, yet was the brais of it four fingers thicke, which to the dimetion maketh nothing at all. And this appeareth plainly by what is faid of the sea, 1 King. 7. 26. & 2 Chron. 4. 5. the thickness of it was an hand breadth: the very term here wed though the measure a fingers breadth more in that than in this here, whereas both the perimeter and the diameter, or compais and breadth had been diffinely before mentioned, v. 23. in the one place, v. 2. in the other. V. 22. And a Chapiter of braffe was upon it, and the height of one Chapiter was five cubits] The word rendred hapiter fignificth properly a crown or corenes; and fo divers sender it; that which is here faid of it, however we thall term it, and its mate agreeth with the dimensions thereof reported, 1 Kings 7.16. But 2 Kin s 25.17. where the fame flory with this is telted: this work Chapitre or ranet is faid to be three cubits high, which falleth two cubits flort of this. This feeming difference the Jewith Commenters thus reconcile : the Chapiters fay they, were divided into two parts, the upper and the lower ; the lower part next to the fhaft of the pillar had no figures on it; the upper part above that was fet out, with figures and much curious workmanthip : and this upper part onely is respected in the latter flory of the Kings, being of three cubits height; the lower of two cubits being let pass as belonging to the shaft. Some of ours more exactly divide the whole work above the faft into three parts the Chapiter, the lable, and the Coroner: and they affigne to the Chapiter one cubit, to the Table one, and three to the Coronet : which therefore fay they, confidered together with the Table, bath four affigned it, 1 Kings 7. 19. Others again divide it into the Table, or fquare, the belly and the crown: which I conceive to be the better divition, and suppose, that the square or table with its rife, untill it closed with the middle part, termed the belly, was of two cubits, omitted for that cause which the Jewish Doctors give, as comprehended in the pillar, and the telly with the crown to make up the three cubits between that mentioned in the place paralel to this.

V. 23. And here were ninety and fix Pomogranates on a fide and all the Pemegrarates upon the net-work were an bundred in all.]
There are here again fome deeming differences both about the fum ingrofs between this Text and fome others; and about the sums themselves here mentioned. Concerning the former we finde it Said, 1 Kings 7, 19, that the Pomegranates were in rowes two hun-dred about up n either Chapiter, and 2 Chronicles 4, 13, that there were f ur hundred Pomegranates upon the two wreaths; two rowes groffe, are by general agreement thus reconciled; that there were improves of them on the toppe-workes of either Pillar, one over another and an bundered in either row, as is here faid, and this place therefore to be underftood, as if it were faid, an hundered all in one row : and confequently, two bundered. as the former place faith, in the two rowes upon the one; foure hundered as the latter hath it on both. There is a little more difficulty about making the two fums here mentioned to agree; for according to the words here thus rendred it might feem, that there word nynety fixe Pomegranates on each fide of either Chapiter, or Coronel above-mentioned, which would rife to the fumme of three hundred e glity and foure in all, for each either Chapiter or row, which none of the former fummes would admit: and whereas there is mention in the after fumme of an hundered onely : Unto this the common answer is, that the source that should goe to make up the hundered that was in each row were out of fight, by reason that the Pillar stood close to the wall, cither of the Porch, or the Houle; and the Writer here mentioneth those alone that were in fight. Thus both the Jewish, and others: which yet feemeth not very fatisfactory: for neither is it probable, that two fuch goodly Columnes en fled, not to beare up ought, but for a grace and ornament to the House, should be scituate so close to the wall, that the curious workemanthip of them might not be conficious on every fide: Nor again, doe they take notice, either of the Translation, or of the Text, which may feem to raife the computation to such an excessive form as was hinted before. In the Hebrew Text, for that which is here rendied on a fide, it is word, for word Winde-ward : That is, and the thickneffe thereof, was four fingers; it was hollow Before | toward the four Winds, or quarters of the World; as the cond

Chap, lii, wind is used, 1 Chr. 9. 24. Chap. 49. 36. Ezek. 42. 20. whence it may well be deemed that the sable, or border on which the pomegranates were engraved, was fquare; albeit that the belly or main body of the Chapiters were round; as the borders of the bases on which the layers frond; fer our with the like imagery, were fquare; although the mouth and main body of the bakes were round, 1 King. 7, 29,31, and that the pomegranets stood twenty and four on each fide, to which number the four corner ones added to the number here mentioned, make up the fum of an bundred hereafter Subjoyned, and understood as before. And this I conceive to be the most probable way of reconcilement For as for that apprehension of the late learned Annotator, who would make but two fides of them, and would have niner fix in each row on either of those sides, which with the two parting ones in each row, being eight in all should make up the 400, neither doth it fuit well with the term of wind, unlesse we make but two winds : nor will it with that addition of those eight . make up that entire sum , unlesse foure

But there feemeth some difference between the relation of it here and there; for first what is faid to have been done in Nebuchadnezzars feventh yeare here, is faid to have been done in his eighth year there. Another difference more difficult is in the number, which are but three thoujand, and odde here, but ten thufand there, 2 Kings 24. 11, and feven thousand, if not eight thousand, as may feem more to them, Verse 16, for it is there said; and all the men of might feven thousand and frait free and smiths, a thin lands. Which some foreconcile, as if the first number included the two latter; to wit, that of the ten thouland, feven thouland were men of arms , and a thousand of them cunning workmen : and this feemeth not improbable; because they were mentioned together with the grosse summe in the same verie basore. But for the reconciling of this and the former, both the Jewish Writers and others give joyntly this answer, that of that tenthusfand, the three thusfand and odde, were of the Tribe of Judah, Jewes ftrictly to termed, the residue of the cribe of Benjamin, and some other that adhered unto them; which for ought I see must be admitted, and fland for good, unleile fome errour have by the Scribes default crept into the account old 2 Kings 24. 8 in the twellib moneth in the five and twentieth day of the moneth, Here aga in cometh forme feering difference between the relation of this paffage here, and that in the History of the Kings: for what is faid to be don on the five and twentieth day here, is faid to be done on the twenty feventh there, 2 Kings 25. 27. Now this to reconcile the Talmudifts tell us a tale of Nebuchadnexzar and his fon Evilmerodac; to wit, that when Nebuchadnezzar died and was buried, his fon Evilmerodac was afraid to take the kingdome upon him, for fear leaft his father fhould return, (either nor being dead indeed, or rifen again as he did before,) after his feven mg nean muses, or rich again as ne did better,) after his leven years frende, Dan 4,33,36, and thould then kill him, as he had done other of his fons belove, whom he found then fitting upon his throne; it high fome of them fay, (for they are not all in one tale neither) that it was this Evilmerouse that he found in his royal feat , and that he did but imprison him; but t at he feared now, if he came again the fecon t time, he would deal worse with him: and durit not therefore take the Kingdome upon him, untill he had feen his fathers corpfe taken out of the grave, and before his face cut in pieces and cast to the vultures, that flaw away feveral wayes with the goblets of it; and that Jehojacin, (with whom he had been fellow-prisoner, whereby they were cin, (with whom he had been tellow-priloner, whereby they were grown into fome familiaity) then flanding by him, told him that his father would then come again, when all those pieces of him, that the vultures flew away with, should meet rogether in that place again : and that thereupon he released him from his impriforment : An I thus after all this long rale told the knot is readitonment: An ithus after all this long rate told, the knot is readi-ly untied, and they will the way on how: for, fay they, Nebuchad-nezzar died the five and inventieth day of the moneth, and was bi-ried on the fix and inventieth; (they made hafte belike to be rid of him) and on the feven and inventieth day his copie was taken up, mm) and on the free and invarience any his copie was taken up, and field say have heard, to fulfill that propher of fifty 1, 19, and fehojacin withall releafed. On the LAMENTATIONS

O F

JEREMIAH.

The Argument.

He Booke of the Lamentations was composed by Jeremials in the time of the Babylonian captivity.

Therein he bewaileth the grievous calamities, that had befallen his people, the ruine of their State, the devassation of their Land, the destruction of their chief City, and of God Temple therein with it: the profunction of this holy thinge in it, and the desployable condition of all series and States, both during their strain sace a home, and a firerward in their heavy bondage abroad: complaints of the manifold smues and excesses of all series whereby they had enforced God to instit Gods judgements upon them: and exhertes thems to patience, under Gods in the basis single ments upon them: and exhertes thems to patience, under God, for the remission of the one, and the removal of the other, with an hopeful expectation of a gracious restitution in his due time, and of the righteous execution of his judgement upon those, who now insulted over them. his judgement upon those, who now insulted over them.

The whole worke is conceived in a very arisficial frame, full of rhetorical amplifications, and pathetical exppefions: and for the bester help of memory, all of it, (the half Chapter onely excepted) is constitued according to the order of the lesters in the Hebrew Alphabet; as also sundry of the Pfalms are.

Some of the Jewish Dollars assira that it was penned by Jecem, in the fourth year of Jehojakim: and that part of it at least is that roll, that the Prophet at Gods command then compiled, Barne his Scribe wrote out and read, and Jehojakimburnt, Jacem, 36,1, 4,10,33, which at the fiff, fag they, conflict due of thefe three fingle. Alphabets, in the firff, fag they, conflicted on of the fether english alphabets, in the firff, fag they, conflicted alphabets, contained in the third fecond, and fourth Chapters: but was afterward new written with addition of a threefold Alphabet, contained in the third Chapter; fir aining to this purpose those terms, Jerem, 26,32. There were added unto them many like words ; that is fley they written in an Alphabetical manner as those former were.

But this other of them control; and it appeareth to be a very frivolous funcy: for it is apparent, that that roll was, according to the charge given the Prophet by God, a large Volume, containing the summe of all these Sermons that the Prophet had presched from the time of his calling to the Prophetical function in the thirteenth year of Josias, Jerem. 1. 2. ume that day, Jerem. 36. 2, being about the space of three and twenty years, Jerem. 25, 3, the mest wherees, if not all, we have in likely hood yet extant: and are, both for the subject matter, many of them, and for the manner of composure generally, much different from this.

Others of those great Majeers, whom some of ours also concur with, suppose this to be that sad Poem, or dolefull ditty, wherein this our Prophet lamented the death and loss of that, in some regards, matchless King Jostas, 2 Kings, 23.25.

whereof mention is made in the facred Annals, 2 Chron. 35.25.

But of this also there is no likelyhood, that seemeth to have been lost: neither doth any mention at all of Josias clearly discover it self in the whole work, whom yet it should principally ireat of, if it were that: and the main subject of it is apparently concerning such matters as fell out many years after his decease.

And this I thought not amiffe, to subjeyne here to remove those mistakes, which jet some of note seem to be taken with, as, at least, not unlikely.

How] The word is here not fo much an Interrogative, making a demand, and moving a question, as some would have it, (who carry on still the whole tenour of the context in this Interrogative form for four verses together; to all which the answer should be at length returned, verse 5.) but as a note rather of Admiration and aftonishment, mixt with grief, and commisseration, wondering at fo strange an alteration, and compassionating the party whom such a change had befallen.
